Inasmuch as ye have done
It unto one of the least
Of these my brethren,
Ye have done it unto me.
—Matthew xxv., 40.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Fifteen thousand children in Chicago's poorer homes were made happy yesterday by the 32d annual distribution of food and toys by the Christmas Good Fellow army organized by THE TRIBUNE.

In the Kentucky mountains they refer to the littlest child of a family as "the least one," and it may be that this was what Jesus had in mind in the quotation above. For it was these "least ones" who entered into a kingdom of joy as a result of the work and contributions of 12,000 Good Fellows this year.

Spirit Spreads Each Year.

But the simple statement of numbers and dollars does not tell the whole story. The Good Fellow spirit is spreading every year. There was more cash received than last year and more families were cared for. This itself is a growth, but there are potentialities beyond these figures.

There is a law for the winds and the sun, a law for flowers and crystals, and also a law for the human heart.

This human law is one of reciprocity and compensation, love that spreads like the light in a child's face. The Good Fellows find themselves in a new world of joy. Their care may spread out thru the year. A little girl who looks undernourished will find a bottle of milk on her doorstep every morning all year. A family that was down but not out will find itself rehabilitated, with jobs for the workers and a new and comfortable home.

Shoes for a Family of 13.

A printer, for example, picks out two of the largest families he can find each year. This year one of them was a family of 13, all of whom needed shoes, as well as toys and food. So they all got shoes and other things because the printer went around and told his brethren about it. The thing spreads and spreads like the dawn light over the mountains.

The Good Fellow campaign is unique in many ways. It takes in those who want to give money and let THE TRIBUNE do the rest.

It includes the thousands who tramp up back stairways in dark streets with baskets of good things under their arms. It includes clubs who organize their own campaign and distribution.

They Take Off Their Coats.

The Aviation Good Fellows, for example, raised $1,500 and gave 400 baskets. Members of the Traffic club delivered 450 baskets to poor families. These business men came down town early yesterday and took off their coats and went to work on the loading platforms. There are 26 organizations in the campaign this year.

Four hundred and forty persons who had called the Good Fellow bureau and obtained the names of needy families distributed 637 baskets of food and toys. The general Good Fellows—those who contributed $1 or more — and members of Good Fellow clubs, raised sufficient money to distribute baskets to 1,835 families.

Seven hundred high school boys and girls presented their fifth annual Good Fellow carol sing yesterday in Nathan Hale court, between Tribune Tower and the W-G-N building. Dr. Helen Howe, director of music in the Chicago public schools, and 13 conductors of choral music in high schools and junior colleges led the program. Ruth Chatterton, actress who is playing in "Pygmalion," appeared on the program and congratulated the Good Fellows.

NEW RELEASES FOLLOW 187 OF MONTH BEFORE

Find Half of Those Freed Go Back.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Gov. Stelle's parole board announced in Springfield last night that parole orders had been entered for 204 convicts. These are in addition to 187 releases ordered for November and announced on Dec. 2. W. C. Jones, chairman of the board, declared they were just routine orders.

T. P. Sullivan.

Under the new orders paroles were effective at once for 182 convicts, and it was provided that the 22 others are to be freed in the first two weeks of January.

Up to Dec. 1 of this year the parole board had freed 1,255 convicts, according to Chairman Jones' figures. If all those ordered released are permitted to leave the prisons the number of paroles for the year will be 1,459. The trend since 1937 has been for increased clemency each year; the number of paroles granted being as follows: During 1937, 595; during 1938, 975; during 1939, 1,460.

50 Per Cent Is Bad Risk.

Last night's orders permitted the immediate return of 95 criminals to Chicago. Of the shipment of felons, 55 were received here yesterday at the office of T. P. Sullivan, superintendent of supervision of parolees. These came from Joliet. Today Supt. Sullivan expects 25 parolees from Pontiac and a number from the Chester penitentiary in southern Illinois.

Supt. Sullivan was put in charge of the supervision of parolees four years ago yesterday. He said that in these four years the four Illinois prisons had paroled in his care 4,383 convicts, men and women. In the four years, he said, he has sent 2,212 felons back to prison for violation of parole. That, it was remarked, is more than 50 per cent of the convicts turned loose on parole in that period.

"I didn't try to make any record by reforming criminals," Supt. Sullivan said. "I sent back any I found violating their paroles. Many violators were brought back from other states—something that wasn't done in previous years."

Fears New Crime Forays.

Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan said he had learned of the arrival of the 55 felons in Chicago yesterday and the prospect of more coming today. He said the police department has been apprehensive for some time over the prospects of a number of felons being loosed on the city during the winter.

"Some of them may kill policemen," Chief Sullivan said. "I am informed there are many gunmen in this gift to Chicago from the prison Santa Claus."

Among the convicts freed under last night's parole orders are four who were sentenced to life imprisonment, two of them by Cook county juries. Four men convicted of vote frauds, a master swindler, and a number of robbers were among those who received clemency from the parole board.

The Cook county lifers are Jerry Suchardo, who served 23 years, 8 months, and 25 days, and Salvatore Marro, who served 24 years, 11 months, and 24 days. Both were sentenced for murder.

$54,000 Embezzler Freed.

Another of the parolees is Joseph Biata, an ex-convict in 1935 when he was convicted of participating in the embezzlement of $54,000 from the Amalgamated Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago. He induced Dave [Long Count] Barry, referee of the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago, to participate in his scheme, and Barry was under conviction when he died a short time later.

Biata was sentenced to serve 1 to 10 years and was in prison 5 years, 9 months, and 16 days.

A lesser swindler among the new parolees is James Galvin, brother of the slain Michael Galvin who was a power in politics and labor union circles. James Galvin, 54 years old, was sentenced to 1 to 10 years and served 1 year, 6 months, and 14 days.

DISCLOSE ARMY PLANS TO EQUIP 4 MILLION MEN

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—Revelation today that the army is considering a plan to double its equipment program in order to be prepared to supply a force of 4,000,000 men caused increased speculation among military authorities on the possibility of a British attempt to invade Germany in 1942.

Military experts generally agree that the British could not hope to invade Germany, even if they should obtain supremacy in the air, without an army of 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 men. Hence it is assumed that any such aspirations of the British contemplate assistance by an American expeditionary force.

Present U. S. Program.

The program adopted during the present session of congress calls for all critical [noncommercial] items of equipment for a force of 2,000,000 men. It calls for complete equipment, including so-called essential or commercially manufactured items, for a force of 1,400,000 men. This is the number that would be mobilized on the outbreak of war under the army's present protective mobilization plan.

Today it was learned from official sources that the army is considering a plan to double its critical equipment program—to acquire guns, tanks, ammunition, and munitions of all kinds for a force of 4,000,000 men. Whether congress will be asked for funds actually to acquire equipment in such vast quantities or will be asked merely to increase production facilities to a point sufficient to supply an army of 4,000,000 men, apparently has not been determined. But a $700,000,000 program to double munitions production facilities already has been adopted.

35 Munitions Plants.

This program calls for the construction of 35 huge plants for the manufacture of guns, ammonia, smokeless powder, TNT, shells, small arms ammunition, and other war materials. Officials declared that such facilities would supply an army of 4,000,000 men.

Congress at the present session has provided $750,000,000 for the expansion of existing armament production facilities and the construction of new plants.

There is increasing talk in official quarters of stepping up the army's conscription training program, which at present calls for the induction and training of 4,000,000 men by the middle of 1945.

Opinion of Experts.

Military experts say the type of war equipment for which the British are negotiating orders indicates a purpose to attempt an invasion of Germany, presumably with the aid of an American expeditionary force, in 1942. The $3,000,000,000 of orders now being placed by the British under President Roosevelt's assurance that credit of some kind will be forthcoming cannot possibly be delivered before 1942. Neither can the British hope to obtain supremacy in the air before 1942, according to military authorities.

The official list of equipment for which the British are negotiating orders, as submitted to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, includes 12,000 combat planes, mostly bombers, at a cost of $1,200,000,000, and ordnance of all kinds, including 2,000 tanks, at a cost of $1,700,000,000. The British desire for such huge quantities of bombers and tanks indicates preparations for an invasion attempt, according to the experts.

England's Man Power.

England now has about 3,000,000 men under arms, but these include 1,000,000 home guards. Allowing for an increase of 1,000,000 men, including units from the empire, Great Britain still would need 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 additional troops to invade the continent, in the opinion of the experts.

With supremacy in the air, it is believed that the British could effect a landing on the continental coast, just as they effected the evacuation of Dunkirk with temporary, local supremacy in the air. Most authorities believe that the Netherlands would be selected for a landing.

PLACES WHOLE BLAME FOR WAR ON MUSSOLINI

Revolt or Be Ruined, Italians Warned.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 23.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill broadcast an appeal to Italy tonight to depose Premier Benito Mussolini. He pleaded with the Italian people and their monarch and army to take over the control of their destiny before Italy is battered by "the whole British empire on sea, in the air, in Africa, and the vigorous counterattack of the Greek nation."

Winston Churchill.

The only alternative for Italy, he said, was to "call in Attila over the Brenner pass with his hordes of ravenous soldiery and the gangs of the Gestapo policemen [Nazi secret police] to occupy, hold down, and protect the Italian people," for whom, he said, the Nazis "cherish the most bitter and outspoken contempt on record between races."

Duce "Alone" Responsible.

Mussolini, and Mussolini alone, he declared, is responsible for bringing the Italian people into an unwanted war and violating the friendship between England and Italy.

"We always have been friends," he said. "We were the champions of the Italian risorgimento [renaissance]. We were the partisans of Garibaldi, the admirers of Mazzini and Cavour. All that great movement toward the unity of the Italian nation which lighted the 19th century was aided and hailed by the British parliament and people."

He disclosed for the first time an urgent appeal that he made to Mussolini on May 16, in which he attempted to justify the British application of sanctions against Italy in an effort to stop the Italian campaign in Ethiopia. He also revealed Mussolini's reply, which mentioned "grave reasons of historical and contingent character" which had put the two countries in opposite military camps.

Two More Reasons Offered.

Mussolini's reply then referred to Churchill's explanation that, in applying the sanctions, Britain was only being faithful to her signature to the league of nations covenant, and remarked that Italy herself was equally bound to respect "engagements assumed in the Italian-German treaty." Mussolini also reminded Churchill of the "servitude in which Italy finds herself in her own sea [Mediterranean]."

In asking the Italian monarchy, army and people to turn against Mussolini, Churchill did not state what attitude England would adopt if this were done. He declared, however, that the day was coming "when the Italian nation will once more take a hand in shaping its own fortunes."

The British Broadcasting corporation planned to send Churchill's appeal around the world in a dozen languages before midnight and to broadcast the Italian translation five times before noon tomorrow.

Text of Broadcast.

Following is the text of Churchill's broadcast:

"Tonight I speak to the Italian people, and I speak to you from London, the heart of the British islands and of the British commonwealth and empire. I speak to you in what the diplomatists call words of great truth and respect. We are at war—that is a very strange and terrible thought. Whoever imagined until the last few melancholy years that the British and Italian nations would be trying to destroy one another?

"We have always been friends. We were the champions of the Italian risorgimento. We were the partisans of Garibaldi, the admirers of Mazzini and Cavour. All that great movement toward the unity of the Italian nation which lighted the 19th century

PRINCE OLAF HAS TALK WITH F. D. R.

Royal Heir of Norway Flies to America.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23 (AP).—Crown Prince Olaf of Norway, arriving here for Christmas with his family, called on President Roosevelt today to say hello and merry Christmas.

Crown Prince Olaf. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Olaf reached New York from England by Clipper plane and flew thence to Washington. He was greeted at the airport by his wife, Crown Princess Martha; George T. Summerlin, the state department's chief of protocol, and other officials.

The 37 year old prince, a general in the Norwegian army, and his father, King Haakon, have been in England rallying their countrymen as allies of Great Britain.

The crown princess and her three children came to the United States several months ago at the invitation of President Roosevelt and have taken up residence at an estate near the capital.

Before returning to England five or six weeks hence Prince Olaf expects to visit Canada and inspect Norwegian flying and naval units in training there.

A KISS RATION CARD IS BERLIN'S POPULAR GIFT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 23.—A novelty of this Christmas season is patterned on Germany's ration cards, and is being sold by the tens of thousands. It is "the national kiss rationing card." Two varieties are for sale, one resembling the food card and the other the clothes card.

Both have chits or coupons for different varieties of kisses. They are the hand kiss, the kiss for beginners, for soldiers on leave, birthdays, weekends, in the moonlight, and for "blackout acquaintances." Some of the chits leave nothing to the imagination.

This kiss card is one of the most popular presents because of the shortage of other articles.

'No War' Chief Hurls White's Warlike Words Back at Him

New York, Dec. 23 [Special].—Verne Marshall, chairman of the No Foreign War committee, tonight replied to a statement earlier today by William Allen White in which the latter denied that he or his Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies wants to involve America in war. Marshall retorted that war is exactly what the White committee wants. He quoted White as having said as recently as last November that "it is time for us to take sides in this war." At that time White also urged dictatorial powers for President Roosevelt, Mr. Marshall said.

White's denial of warlike aims came on the heels of the launching of a nation-wide campaign by the No Foreign War committee to keep the United States out of war.

The White Statement.

White made his statement today in an article copyrighted by a newspaper chain. In it he said that the sole purpose of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies is to keep America out of the European conflict. He denied that his committee was in favor of repealing the Johnson act [which forbids loans to world war debt defaulters] or that section of the neutrality act which forbids American ships carrying cargoes to the war zone.

White admitted, however, that "some members of our committee . . . are martial."

In his reply Marshall, who is an Iowa newspaper publisher, said:

"If Mr. White's committee in truth has no war aims, why does it persistently and stubbornly undertake to force the Washington administration into defiant violation of the Johnson act and the neutrality act?

"The neutrality act is being violated hour by hour and President Roosevelt is proposing a violation of the Johnson act prohibiting credits in this country for any foreign power in default on payment of its debts to the United States.

"England is in default.

Charges a Contradiction.

"If the President can persuade the congress—and I don't, not for one moment, think he can—to give him blanket authority to provide three billions in credit with which Britain can purchase munitions, materials, and armaments allegedly needed by them, and at the same time not bring about repeal of the neutrality act and the Johnson act, he will have achieved one of the most amazing governmental ambiguities in all world history.

"Furthermore, I am reluctantly compelled to explain how Mr. White's statement of today is in direct contradiction to the plain spoken words which I heard him deliver before the Union League club of New York one Wednesday noon late in November.

"The first of several astounding statements made by Mr. White at that luncheon meeting, which overcrowded the Union League's largest dining room, was as follows: 'It is time for us to take sides in this war.'

"A few moments later Mr. White said, 'We would like to take this issue to the people and will introduce a joint resolution in congress which would give a free hand to the administration in dealing with dictators, tyrants, and aggressors anywhere in the world.'

Believes First Statement.

"The No Foreign War committee, and especially its chairman, who sat less than fifteen feet from Mr. White when he delivered that stupefying address, regretfully advises Mr. White and everyone who follows him that it prefers to believe what Mr. White said in November and not what he said on the second day prior to Christmas day in December.

"What in the world can White mean when he says his committee is not a committee with war aims, deliberately trying to bring about the intervention of the United States in the present war?

"It might be interesting to the entire country to know that on the day immediately preceding the one on which he addressed the Union League Club of New York he spent an hour in close conference with President Roosevelt at the White House.

"Was Mr. White by any chance repeating the ideas given him by the President?

Two Point Interpretation.

"It should be obvious to any one who can read and write that the White proposals represented:

"1. An attempt to make the people think they should get into this war.

"2. To force upon the people of America a war they didn't want by putting thru congress a joint resolution empowering the President of the United States to start an undeclared war without further congressional authority, against any nation he may choose and at any time. If this is not dictatorship, what is it?

"His Own Specific Words."

"The No Foreign War committee deeply regrets the painful necessity of confronting William Allen White with his own specific words of last month in flat contradiction to his assurances of today.

"If I have misinterpreted Mr. White's meaning and he has scrapped the views which he expressed before the Union League club and, in truth, has no war aims now, we will welcome him in the ranks of the No Foreign Wars committee."

was aided and was hailed by the British parliament and public.

"Our fathers and our grandfathers longed to see Italy freed from the Austrian yoke and to see all minor barriers in Italy swept away so that the Italian people and their fair land might take their honored place as one of the leading powers upon the continent and as a brilliant and gifted member of the family of Europe and of Christendom.

Always Friends Until Now.

"We have never been your foes till now. In the last war against the barbarous Huns we were your comrades. For 15 years after that war we were your friends. Altho the institutions which you adopted after that war were not akin to ours, and diverged, as we think, from the sovereign impulses which had commanded the unity of Italy, we could still walk together in peace and good will. Many thousands of your people dwelt with ours in England, many thousands of our people dwelt with you in Italy.

"We liked each other, we got on well together. There were reciprocal services, there was amity, there was esteem. And now we are at war; now we are condemned to work each other's ruin. Your aviators have tried to cast their bombs upon London; our armies are tearing, and will tear, your African empire to shreds and tatters. We are only now at the beginning of this somber tale. Who can say where it will end? Presently, we shall be forced to come to much closer grips. How has all this come about and what is it all for?

All Because "of One Man."

"Italians, I will tell you the truth. It is all because of one man. One man, and one man alone, has ranged the Italian people in deadly struggle against the British empire and has deprived Italy of the sympathy and intimacy of the United States of America. That he is a great man I do not deny, but that after 18 years of unbridled power he has led your country to the horrid verge of ruin can be denied by none.

"It is all one man who, against the crown and royal family of Italy, against the pope and all the authority of the Vatican and of the Roman Catholic church, against the wishes of the Italian people, who had no lust for this war, has arrayed the trustees and inheritors of ancient Rome upon the side of the ferocious pagan barbarians.

"There lies the tragedy of Italian history, and there stands the criminal who has wrought the deed of folly and of shame.

"What is the defense that is put forward for his action? It is, of course, the quarrel about sanctions and Abyssinia [Ethiopia]. Let us look at that. Together after the last war, Italy and Britain both signed the covenant of the league of nations which forbade all parties to that covenant to make war upon each other or upon fellow members of the league and bound all signatories to come to the aid of any member attacked by another.

Abyssinia Enters League.

"Presently Abyssinia came knocking at the door asking to be a member. We British advised against it. We doubted whether they had reached a stage in their development which warranted their inclusion in so solemn a pact. But it was Signor Mussolini who insisted that Abyssinia should become a member of the league and who, therefore, bound himself, and bound you and us, to respect their covenanted rights. Thus the quarrel arose and thus, altho no blood was shed between us, old friendships were forgotten.

"But what is the proportion of this Abyssinian dispute, arising out of the covenant of the league of nations to which we had both pledged our word, compared to the death grapple in which Italy and Britain have now been engaged?

"I declare—and my words will go far—that nothing which happened in that Abyssinian quarrel can account for, or justify, the deadly strife which has now broken out between us.

"Then the great war between the British and French democracies and Prussian militarism or Nazi overlordship began again. Where was the need for Italy to intervene? Where was the need to strike at prostrate France? Where was the need to declare war on Britain? Where was the need to invade Egypt, which is under British protection?

"We were content with Italian neutrality. During the first eight months of the war we paid great deference to Italian interests.

"But this was all put down to fear. We were told we were effete, worn out, and an old chatterbox people mouthing outworn shibboleths of 19th century liberalism.

English People on March.

"But it was not due to fear. It was not due to weakness. The French republic for the moment is stunned. France will rise again but the British nation and commonwealth of nations across the globe and, indeed, I may say, the English-speaking world, are now aroused. They are on the march, or on the move, and all the forces of modern progress and of ancient culture are ranged behind them.

"Why have you placed yourselves, you who were our friends and might have been our brothers, in the path of this avalanche now only just started from its base to roll forward on its predestined track? Why, after all this, were you made to attack and invade Greece?

"I ask why, but you may ask why, too, because you never were consulted. The people of Italy were never consulted. The army of Italy was never consulted. No one was consulted.

"One man, and one man alone, ordered Italian soldiers to ravage their neighbor's vineyard. The time has come when the Italian monarchy and people who guard the sacred center of Christendom should have a word to say upon these awe-inspiring issues. Surely the Italian army, which has fought so bravely on many occasions in the past but now evidently has no heart for the job, should take some care of the life and future of Italy?

Tells of Move for Peace.

"I can only tell you that I, Churchill, have done my best to prevent this war between Italy and the British empire, and to prove my words I will read you the message which I sent to Signor Mussolini in the fateful days before it began. Cast your minds back to the 16th of May of this year. The French front had been broken, the French army was not yet defeated, the great battle of France was still raging. Here is the message which I sent to Signor Mussolini:

"'Now that I have taken up my office as prime minister and minister of defense I look back to our meetings in Rome and feel a desire to speak words of good will to you as chief of the Italian nation across strife. Hearken to it, I beseech you in all honor and respect, before the dread signal is given. It will never be given by us.'

Duce's Reply Revealed.

"And this is the reply which I received:

"'I reply to the message which you have sent me in order to tell you that you are certainly aware of grave reasons of a historical and contingent character which have ranged our two countries in opposite camps.

"'Without going back very far in time I remind you of the initiative taken in 1935 by your government to organize at Geneva sanctions against Italy engaged in securing for herself a small space in the African sun without causing the slightest injury to your interests and territories or those of others.

"'I remind you also of the real and actual state of servitude in which Italy finds herself in her own sea. If it was to honor your signature that your government declared war on Germany, you will understand that the same sense of honor and of respect for engagements assumed in the Italian-German treaty guides Italian policy today and tomorrow in the face of any event whatsoever.'

"I make no comment upon the dusty answer. It speaks for itself so any one can see who it was that wanted peace and who it was that meant to have war. One man, and one man only, was resolved to plunge Italy after all these years of strain and effort into the whirlpool of war. And what is the position of Italy today? Where is it that the Duce has led his trusting people after 18 years of dictatorial power? What hard choice is open now?

A New Call for "Attila."

"It is to stand up to the battery of the whole British empire on sea, in the air, and in Africa, and the vigorous counterattack of the Greek nation; or on the other hand to call in Attila over the Brenner pass with his hordes of ravenous soldiery and his gangs of Gestapo policemen to occupy, hold down, and protect the Italian people for whom he and his Nazi followers cherish the most bitter and outspoken contempt that is on record between races. There is where one man, and one man only, has led you; and there I leave this unfolding story until the day comes—as come it will—when the Italian nation will once more take a hand in shaping its own fortunes."

Ambassador Sails for France

Lisbon First Stop

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 23 (AP).—Admiral William D. Leahy, new ambassador to France, sailed with Mrs. Leahy today for Lisbon, Portugal, aboard the cruiser Tuscaloosa.

They arrived at Norfolk on a Chesapeake bay steamer and were taken directly to the cruiser. Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, recently appointed commander of the Atlantic patrol force, and Capt. Oscar C. Badger of Admiral King's staff, greeted Leahy and his wife, but there was no ceremony incident to the departure.

The newly appointed envoy and Mrs. Leahy were the only passengers aboard the cruiser. A Christmas celebration is understood to have been arranged for them Wednesday. Admiral Leahy is carrying a personal note from President Roosevelt to Marshal Henri Petain, chief of the Vichy government, in which, the President said, he explained that Leahy was an old friend and one whom he felt confident would be acceptable to the marshal.

CHURCHILL PLEA HEARD BY FEW, ROME REPORTS

ROME, Dec. 23.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill's speech tonight was heard by few Italians because they are forbidden to listen to foreign broadcasts.

It is considered possible the speech may be printed in the Italian press, the government having often stressed its willingness to keep the people informed. The Churchill address, it is declared, presents the greatest test of the kind yet faced by the government.

The question of what the Italian people might think of Churchill's words, if they learn what he said, is not open to frank comment. It would be hard, in any event, to know just what the people think, for there are no means to gain a comprehensive expression of opinion.

BRITISH MOVE TO WOO RUSSIA SEEN IN CABINET SHIFT

Eden Takes Over Post of Foreign Secretary.

LONDON, Dec. 23 (AP).—Anthony Eden took over the foreign secretaryship today in a quick cabinet shift interpreted by some neutral sources as foreshadowing a more aggressive British diplomacy, possibly including improved relations with Russia.

His predecessor, Lord Halifax, will rest several days in the north of England before leaving for his new post as ambassador to Washington "early in the new year."

The Russians regarded Halifax and the late Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain as foes of a British-Russian rapprochement.

It is understood here that they regard Eden as possessing a better understanding of Russia and more realistic views as to the advantages of trade and other agreements between Russia and Britain. Eden visited Moscow when he was foreign secretary under Chamberlain.

In becoming foreign secretary Eden gave up the war secretaryship. Capt. David Margesson took the war post.

Press Approves Halifax Move.

The press generally acclaimed the appointment of Halifax, but there was a minor questioning note, such as the Laborite Daily Herald's comment that "on the score of his political past we confess to some reserve on the wisdom of this appointment."

The Daily Mail predicted that Sir Gerald Campbell, British consul general in New York from 1931 to 1938 and since then high commissioner in Canada, would be appointed minister to Washington to relieve Halifax of detail work.

Germany Mum on Eden.

BERLIN, Dec. 23 (AP).—Official German comment on Anthony Eden's appointment as British foreign secretary was wanting today, but authorized sources asserted it was "interesting to note how Churchill managed to rid himself of Halifax."

"Regarding Eden's past, we certainly aren't in doubt," one authorized commentator said, and "Churchill has found in Eden a man who corresponds to his own policy of adventure."

Rome Sees More Help by U. S.

ROME, Dec. 23 (AP).—Italian political circles said today they looked for "still more intimate collaboration" between the United States and Great Britain with Lord Halifax as the new British ambassador to Washington.

CHURCHILL IS A CAD, ASSERTS ROME RADIO IN COMMENT ON TALK

New York, Dec. 23 (AP).—The Rome radio, in a broadcast heard tonight by NBC, called Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Britain a "cad" in referring indirectly to his appeal today to the Italian people. After declaring that everybody who knows Churchill knows him to be a cad, the announcer added:

"This was the almost unanimous opinion of his school contemporaries at Harrow, his fellow cadets at Sandhurst, his fellow officers, and his fellow journalists during the South African war.

"The same reputation followed him into the house of commons and worked against his becoming prime minister. Nobody wanted to be ruled by a cad until the feeble leadership of the present war called for the substitution of someone who at least possessed a dynamic personality—and there was no one else who possessed this quality.

"He is costing the nation pretty dear, however. The sound instinct of the people will not stand for him for long, most probably."

8 DAYS' SEARCH FAILS TO LOCATE CUBAN TANKER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 23.—Five Cuban navy gunboats returned here today after eight days of futile search for the 3,200 ton Cuban tanker, Manuel de Rionda, which with a crew of 29 men and a cargo of 18,000 barrels of crude oil consigned to the United States naval base at Guantanamo, disappeared somewhere between Puerto Padre, in Oriente province, and Guantanamo. The vessel was given up for lost.

The vessel had a short wave receiving set, but no wireless capable of sending an SOS if necessary. It had sailed from Puerto Padre on Dec. 14. Excellent navigating weather has prevailed in that area since that time.

Naval intelligence officers said it was possible the tanker might have been seized by German war craft, some of which are known to have been refueled in Cuban waters on at least two occasions.

MAN WHO AIDED JEWISH NEEDY JAILED BY NAZIS

BERLIN, Dec. 23 (AP).—Dr. Heinrich Grueber, known thruout the Protestant world for his efforts in behalf of non-Aryan Christians, was arrested by secret police today and taken to the Sachsenhausen-Oranienburg concentration camp, where the Rev. Martin Niemoller is imprisoned.

The cause of the arrest was not disclosed, but observers presumed it to have some connection with the anti-Semitic government policies. Dr. Grueber conducted a bureau which had correspondents thruout the reich who reported on cases of needy Jewish Christians. His bureau succeeded the so-called Paulos bund, composed of non-Aryan Christians.

The Gestapo, with which Grueber had frequent official contacts on account of his charitable work, closed his office last Friday and searched both his home and his office. He was taken to the Alexanderplatz, the main police station, and thence to the concentration camp yesterday.

COL. M'CORMICK DESCRIBES HOW TO STOP A BLITZ

Cites Need for Strongest Offense and Defense.

The need for a modern American army combining the strongest possible offense and the strongest possible defense was described last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, in an address over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. The address was made on the Chicagoland Concert hour.

Discussing "How to Stop Blitzkrieg," Col. McCormick said Caesar's defenses were not suitable for the civil war, the civil war field works would have been death traps in 1914, and the hand built trenches of the world war are futile against modern tank attacks.

Col. McCormick said the "offensive at all cost" proved fatal in the last war and that the "defensive under all conditions" proved equally fatal in this war. "Let us not now make the fatal mistake of swinging back again to the offensive at all costs," he said. "We must have the strongest possible offense and the strongest possible defense to be safe in this dangerous time."

TEXT OF ADDRESS

The following is the text of Col. McCormick's address:

"We have been reading recently how the British army in Egypt has taken up the German tactics of blitzkrieg, and how the Italian army has been as helpless to stop it as were the allies last summer.

"Prior to the last war the French army had adopted the doctrine of the offensive at all times and at all costs.

"After that war they reversed their policy to one of passive defense under all conditions; defense made stronger by massive, expensive, and possibly badly designed fortifications. Certainly the French forts I saw in Morocco 18 years ago were badly located and wretchedly planned.

Defensive Line Breached.

"As we know, the Germans breached this defensive line and poured thru it thousands of machines which roamed at will in the back area, destroying all communications, surrounding and capturing the troops which were at the same time engaged on their fronts.

"Since then the use of mechanized columns has very properly been adopted by our army. Such machines and personnel as we possess are combined in a tank corps and are now practicing their tactics.

"However, in last summer's maneuvers the back areas were not organized for defense. In one of them, I simulated that my car was a tank column, cruised about at will, over unguarded bridges and thru ungarrisoned towns, and came into an unfortified, ungarrisoned army headquarters about as the Germans came into Gen. Giraud's in France.

Defense Study Needed.

"Suggestions that the defense of back areas be studied should not be brushed aside with any such answer as—'the best defense is a good offense'—or that 'if America builds up a powerful offensive army, no one will dare make an attack on this country.'

"The easiest way to dispose of a perplexing question is to dismiss it, but it is not the best way, as the tragedy of France is awful witness.

"Obviously, the best way to avoid defeat is to knock out an opponent. But one must have a guard as well as a punch. Unless the opposing mechanized forces hit head-on, each will strike a nonmechanized section of the opponent's army. If that section is not prepared to resist the mechanized force it will be defeated as were the armies in Flanders, France, and Egypt.

Other Principles of Blitzkrieg.

"Therefore, while we are studying the successful methods of offense, let us cast our eyes at the other principles of blitzkrieg.

"Before taking even Poland, Hitler built his west wall facing France: while attacking on fronts of less than 100 miles, his army remained on the defensive in fortifications on fronts of several hundred miles. His tactics were to break the line, surround his opponents, and resist their attempts to break out.

"The principles of war never change. Troops not on the march or in action should intrench. What was true in Caesar's day was true in the days of Grant and Sherman, as they learned at Shiloh. It was true in 1914. It is true in 1940. Caesar's defenses were not suitable for the civil war. The civil war field works would have been death traps in 1914. The hand-built trenches of that war are futile against modern tank attack.

Tank Defenses Required.

"Therefore, defenses must be developed that tanks cannot penetrate, and before which they can be shot down like partridges. These defenses can be created by going to the same source from which the tank was taken—the track-laying tractor.

"Army engineers should study the great machines used by our road builders so that they may learn how to make MODERN field works. All the tractors in the army, indeed, can be equipped with shovels. ONE tractor with one driver will do more work than 100 men with intrenching tools. THEY can build defenses that tanks CANNOT run over.

"The greatest number of dead bodies I ever saw was on a Carpathian mountain slope. I suggested to the general, Brusilov, that the defenders on the bare precipice at the top be destroyed by artillery fire, as they had been at Spion Kop in the Boer war. He replied: 'Shells and men may be used interchangeably; I am short of shells, so I use men.'

Barrage of Men Used.

"One of our own generals in the last war, unable, or unwilling, to understand the principle of the rolling barrage of shell fire, said that he would use a rolling barrage of men, and sent forward ten waves of men, one after the other, to their destruction. Such mentalities must be swept aside.

"At the end of the war most of the combat officers and all of the combat troops retired to private life. Their blood earned knowledge was lost to the army.

"So it was that Gen. Drum could not introduce mechanization until 1923; that Gen. Summerall's warning that 'any great nation which fails to provide for mechanization TO THE UTMOST PRACTICABLE DEGREE must suffer the consequences' was not heeded.

Army Still Unprepared.

"Our army was not prepared to meet blitzkrieg last summer. It is not prepared today, either physically or intellectually.

"The offensive 'at all cost' proved fatal in the last war. The defensive under all conditions proved equally fatal in this war.

"Let us not now make the fatal mistake of swinging back again to the offensive at all costs. We must have the strongest possible offense and the strongest possible defense to be safe in this dangerous time."

THE CONCERT HOUR

The Concert Hour closed with the audience standing to a presentation by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus of the majestic "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah."

Marion Claire, soloist, carried out the Christmas theme with two carols, the old English "Hail Ye Tyme of Holiedayes" and the German air, "Away in a Manger," in which she was assisted by the chorus. With the chorus and the orchestra she also sang selections from Oscar Strauss' "The Waltz Dream."

The orchestra, under direction of Henry Weber, music director of W-G-N, played Brahms' "Hungarian Dance No. 1," Johann Strauss' "Emperor Waltz," and Mozart's "Minuet in G Minor." Michael Wilkomirski, concert master of the orchestra, gave a violin solo, "Träumerei," by Schumann.

The program was produced under the supervision of William A. Bacher, chief of programs and production. John Wiegel was announcer and commentator.

TWO NEW STEPS TAKEN TO HIT AT SABOTAGE IN U. S.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23 (AP).—Two new steps to prevent sabotage of munitions production were taken today.

The navy department disclosed that henceforth all contracts would contain a clause requiring the contractor to "submit a confidential report to the navy department whenever, for any cause, he has reason to believe that an active danger of espionage or sabotage exists at the plant, factory, or site of the work" covered by the contract. The contractor also is pledged, whenever directed by the secretary of the navy, to report "the citizenship, the country of birth, or the alien status of any or all of his employes."

In the house a bill was introduced by Representative Jerry Voorhis [D., Cal.], to give the justice department authority to act against sabotage committed in this country against goods being manufactured for export to foreign nations.

MIDDLE TEMPLE LIBRARY BADLY RIPPED BY BOMBS

British Recover Most of Famous Law Papers.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 23.—Famous Middle Temple, the library housing the finest collection of American law reports outside the United States, was among the structures badly wrecked in an intense London bombing recently.

The news was withheld at the time, but now has been released. It was permitted also to state that one of the most ancient and architecturally beautiful parts of the house of parliament was reduced to a heap of twisted girders and masonry which fell in the Cloister court.

Store of Ancient Documents.

The public bills office on the east side, the votes office on the south side, and the old members' staircase leading to the inner lobby were destroyed. The members' cloakroom, secretaries' offices, and the inner lobby were regarded as unsafe as a result of the blast. The Cloister court is near the stately center tower. The bomb just missed ancient Westminster hall.

The blast which partly destroyed the Middle Temple library sucked out thru a small hole the blackout curtains of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE office which is near.

The library was the repository for a vast accumulation of international law, including old Roman and Dutch documents, as well as century old British proceedings. Visiting barristers from all parts of the world regarded Middle Temple as a legal shrine.

I inspected the massive gray stone building, bordering on a peaceful green square off the Thames, immediately after the bombing. A gaunt hollow was caused by the shattered windows. Heavy blocks of stone were strewn around the square. Thousands of volumes lay buried under the thick dust of the debris. In the grassed courtyards dozens of law clerks, antiquarians, and stenographers were busy combing the debris for priceless documents.

Can Save 90 Per Cent.

A preliminary inspection disclosed that the fine timbered rafters seemed to be undamaged, but because the walls, foundations, and uprights had been shifted or destroyed it may be necessary to tear down the entire structure before rebuilding it.

H. Sturgess, librarian and keeper of the records, toured the grounds with me. He estimated that 90 per cent of the irreplaceable documents could be recovered and restored for future use.

MANY EXPECTED TO QUIT FRANCE SOON FOR U. S.

VICHY, France, Dec. 23.—That a mass departure for America is expected soon was reported today in a published notice. All persons having visas for the United States were asked to list their names with the prefect of the Loire department.

American embassy officials said they had no information concerning the notice. A report from Washington was published in the press here that 1,000 foreign refugees would soon be admitted to the United States under a special ruling.

American consulates, however, have issued visas to many persons who have been unable to obtain exit visas from France.

The Red Cross has advanced funds to assist the return of Americans stranded in Europe. The consulate in Lyons has circularized Americans in France, asking them to apply if they desire passage home, and offering assistance.

Roosevelt Could Halt War, Bring Just Peace—Wheeler

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

President Roosevelt could halt the European war and bring about a just peace, if he were willing to do so, United States Senator Burton K. Wheeler asserted yesterday. The tall Montana Democrat stopped in Chicago on his way to his home in Butte, Mont., where he will spend the holidays.

Senator Wheeler.

"The conflict of war views in this country is between those who want to see a just peace and those who want the war to continue," Senator Wheeler said. "While I do not know what is in the President's mind, I do know some of his close advisers want the war to go on."

Senator Wheeler is credited with strengthening the antiwar plank in the Democratic platform. He said he is eager to return to the antiwar fight in Washington, and that his recent travels have brought additional evidence that the people are seeking adequate means of expressing their determination to stay out of the conflict.

British Chances of Victory.

In asserting that President Roosevelt has it in his power to compel a just peace, Senator Wheeler said it is "asinine" to believe that Great Britain could win the war without our navy, all of our planes, and our men as well.

It is not even certain that England could win a clear cut military victory if we did enter the conflict, with Germany controlling the continent, he said.

"Can we win the war if we do get all the way in? Probably the answer is yes, but it would mean a long drawn out and ruinous conflict. Billions upon billions of dollars would be lost, and millions of men sacrificed.

"The people of this country should be told the British and German war aims. Do the British want another Versailles treaty? Will they again tell us they will accept our 14 points and then refuse to carry them out?

Asks for Just Peace.

"Let us as a nation force Germany, England, and Italy to bring about a just peace—one that would preserve the British empire, one that would let people live, and that would prevent instead of increase racial and religious intolerance and persecution."

It may be good politics for the President to say we are not going into the war, but the fact is that every step being taken is further involving us in a struggle already entered by the national administration, Senator Wheeler said.

He declared that President Roosevelt's plan of "loaning" war materials to England leads him to wonder how gullible the interventionists believe the American people are.

"It is said that after the war England will replace the war materials they cannot return. Remembering the last war, and the unpaid debts, I must ask 'With what?' One has only to ask the question to realize how foolish it is to propose such a scheme."

China Executes Banker Convicted as Rice Hoarder

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 23 (AP).—The central Chinese government announced that Yang Chuan-yu, former mayor of Chengtu and a leading banker here, was executed at dawn today upon his conviction of hoarding rice. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek said a further hoarding investigation would take place soon.

DIRECT BOMB HIT TAKES TOLL IN BRITISH SHELTER

German Plane Shot Down at Manchester.

LONDON, Dec. 24, Tuesday (AP).—A direct bomb hit on a public shelter in a city in the northwest of England caused an undetermined number of casualties last night. The city [probably Manchester] for the second night bore the brunt of the German raids. There were a number of other deaths and casualties and persons were trapped in cellars when their houses were demolished. The attack continued early today.

[Manchester, in the northwest, was subjected to a heavy attack Sunday night. Liverpool, Manchester's neighbor, was subjected to heavy attacks Friday and Saturday nights.]

There were several fatalities in London when a public house [tavern] was razed by a high explosive bomb. London, however, got an early "all clear" signal, after explosive and incendiary bombs had dropped in a number of areas.

Wave after wave of raiders were reported headed for the northwestern city and "terrific explosions" were reported there. One German plane was reported shot down at Old Trafford, famous international cricket ground at Manchester.

Many Fires in Manchester.

England had a virtual day of rest yesterday after Sunday night's big raid on Manchester, in the industrial heart of the country. Heavy bombs hit two public shelters, one of which housed almost 500 persons. Bombs set fire to scores of buildings. Despite the heavy attack it was reported the casualty list was comparatively small.

The seventh heavy raid this month on Mannheim, strategic German upper Rhine river port and railway junction, was reported yesterday by the air ministry, which said British bombs had forced Germany to divert France bound railway traffic to a less satisfactory line and had seriously impeded river traffic.

The ministry's news service said British bombers in "one crowded hour" poured thousands of incendiary bombs and some "very heavy" explosive missles on Mannheim and its industrial neighbor Ludwigshafen.

The raid was one of the night's R. A. F. attacks upon the Rhineland, airfields in German occupied territory, and the "invasion ports" of Flushing, Dunkirk, and Calais, as well as industries and docks at Cologne and Frankfurt-on-Main.

Aim at Italian Link.

The repeated attacks on Mannheim were believed by observers to be part of a scheme to sever the rail communication between the Saar valley of Germany and Italy, as well as obstruct traffic to and from France.

"The Rhine harbor was hit and barges sunk," the ministry said. "As a result the river traffic which helps give Mannheim its position as the most important industrial center of southwest Germany has been seriously impeded."

These sources were quoted as saying part of the I. G. Farbenindustrie plant in Ludwigshafen, one of the largest chemical plants in the world, received a direct bomb hit.

The British admiralty said 41,476 tons of merchant shipping was sunk by "enemy action" during the week ending on Dec. 15, a sharp decrease from the weekly average of 62,867 tons.

Tell of Gigantic Fires.

BERLIN, Dec. 23 (AP).—"Gigantic conflagrations" were left in Manchester, Britain's great steel center, last night by German air raiders who also were said to have blasted at military targets in London, Bristol, Liverpool, Southampton, Portsmouth, and other British cities.

In another blow at the sources of British war metals, a German bomber was reported by informed sources to have raided Fort William, aluminum manufacturing center, at the western end of the Loch Ness canal in western Scotland.

German submarines were reported to have sunk two freighters of 18,000 and 9,000 tons, respectively.

Rome Admits Venice Raid.

ROME, Dec. 23 (AP).—Far ranging British bombers attacked Venice for the first time in the war in a predawn raid on Sunday, the high command acknowledged today, but said the bombs splashed harmlessly in a lagoon. Fiume, 130 miles east, near the Jugo-Slav border, also was raided.

Raid Alarm in Switzerland.

BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 23 (AP).—Air raid alarms sounded in Basel at 8:46 p. m. tonight. [Air raid alarms in Swiss cities usually have indicated British planes were on their way to bombing objectives in southern Germany or northern Italy.]

ITALY ANNOUNCES ITS CASUALTIES IN WAR AS 18,824

ROME, Dec. 23 (AP).—In the first six months of Italy's war, casualties in the Italian armed forces numbered 18,824—4,531 killed, 10,055 wounded, and 4,238 missing—an official résume stated today. The report covered only the period from Italy's entry into the conflict, June 10, to Dec. 12, and therefore did not include latest figures from the Albanian and African fronts, where losses have been reported as heavy.

[The British claim to have taken nearly 40,000 Italian prisoners and to have inflicted losses at a ratio of 10 to 1 on the Italians in Africa, while the last figures from Greece placed the number of Italian prisoners at over 7,500 and casualties in the thousands.]

The report also listed 27 warships as fleet "casualties," including 23 acknowledged to have been sunk.

[The last official British claims said they had sunk 35 warships including 24 submarines and damaged 10 other warcraft, including 4 battleships.]

5 HOUR MEETING SETTLES STRIKE OF TEAMSTERS

A five hour conference yesterday between officials of the American Carloading corporation, 4956 South Kedzie avenue, and officials of local 710 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters apparently has settled a strike, called earlier in the day, which Howard Snure, president of the corporation, said was delaying shipment of many tons of trucks and machinery needed as war materials.

John T. O'Brien, secretary treasurer of the union, said the strike, affecting about 175 men here and in Detroit, was called because the company owes an estimated $16,000 which it refused to pay in overtime and on overnight runs. Snure, who denied this, agreed to place $10,000 in escrow to secure payment of any amount agreed on by an arbitration board of two union representatives, two outside employers, and a neutral fifth member.

The conference yesterday was in the office of John W. Cofer, federal labor department conciliator for this district. It was called by Lieut. Charles Egan of the state's attorney's police. The union will meet today to ratify or reject the tentative settlement.

4,500 VOLUNTEER FOR ENLISTMENT IN HOME GUARDS

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 23 (AP).—Maj. Gen. John V. Clinnin, commander of the Illinois reserve militia now being organized, estimated today 4,500 men have volunteered to serve in the so-called "home guards" after the regular National Guard troops are mobilized for federal training. The enlistment goal is 9,000 men.

General Clinnin also announced that the maximum age limit for volunteers, originally set at 45, has been raised to 50 to permit enlistment of world war veterans. The minimum age figure is 18.

The legislature, convening Jan. 8, will be asked to appropriate funds to equip the reserves with inexpensive uniforms consisting of khaki-colored cotton slacks, shirts and overseas caps. The war department has promised, Clinnin said, to supply the reserves with old style Enfield rifles.

Six regiments are being so organized, the commander added, that "we can have a battalion of 500 men in any city within an hour."

BRITISH GARMENT STRIKE PUT UP TO GOVERNMENT

LONDON, Dec. 23 (AP).—The ministries of supply and labor were asked today to settle a strike in the plant where the National Union of Tailors and Garment Workers charges that Cutter Albert Lazenby "cuts too many pairs of khaki trousers an hour."

It was estimated unofficially that between 4,000 and 5,000 workers are affected by the strike, which started despite efforts of union representatives to keep them on the job. The strike was called after Lazenby was expelled from the union of tailors and garment workers on a charge of endangering union standards of "output and craftsmanship." He stayed on the job.

Sir Herbert Kay, secretary of the wholesale clothing manufacturers, asked the labor ministry to invoke an order designed to prevent strikes thru arbitration.

2 Killed When U. S. Navy Plane Crashes in Cuba

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Dec. 23 (AP).—The two occupants were killed when a United States navy plane crashed late today at Loma del Infierno, in San Luis Oriente province. The plane was one of three in flight from Quantico, Va., to the United States naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba. One of the planes, which had been scattered by a storm, landed here and the other was reported to have reached Guantanamo.

GREEK SOLDIERS PUSH ON AFTER TAKING CHIMARA

Italians Fall Back in Coastal Area.

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 23 (AP).—The Greek army, headed northward along the Albanian coast toward the port of Valona, was reported tonight to have captured the Italian supply base of Chimara and to be pressing home its advantage against retreating Italians.

Premier General John Metaxas announced victory in the week long battle for Chimara, less than 30 miles south of Valona, at a cabinet meeting. He added that further operations were developing satisfactorily and new decisive results could be expected soon.

Report Continued Gains.

From the Tepeleni-Klisura sector came reports of continued gains against Italian positions pounded heavily by Greek artillery. In the north action was said to be enlarging because of improved weather conditions.

The British air force claimed at least eight Italian planes were shot down in an air fight Saturday over Argyrokastron, Albania, against a loss of two British ships. It told, too, of bombing attacks yesterday on oil wells at Kucova, central Albania.

Greeks attributed their success at Chimara, after a week of fighting against picked Italian troops holding strong positions, to their tactics of skirting the town and threatening to cut off the defenders.

Capture 850 Italians.

One of these units, the 153d battalion of Fascist militia, 800 men and 30 officers, was said to have been captured with all its equipment. At least one Greek motorized column was reported to have advanced beyond the town, against the heights where the Italians were believed preparing to make a new stand.

Chimara, formerly a Greek town, is built on the ruins of an ancient city mentioned by Homer in some of his writings. Announcement of its capture was followed by enthusiastic demonstrations thruout Greece.

Church bells pealed and flags were displayed at all public buildings. A large crowd cheered Premier Metaxas and King George when they left general staff headquarters at Athens.

Claims Greeks Suffer Losses.

ROME, Dec. 23 (AP).—Counterattacking Italian troops today were reported to have thrown back the Greeks in an unspecified sector of Albania.

"We have inflicted considerable losses on the enemy and captured automatic arms," the Italian high command said.

"A formation of Italian fighter planes clashed with a formation of nine Blenheim [British] planes, three of which were shot down."

MORE THOUSANDS OF NAZI TROOPS REACH RUMANIA

LOKOSHAZA, Hungary, on the Rumanian Frontier, Dec. 23 (AP).—Thousands of additional German troops with full war gear, including artillery and tanks, crossed into Rumania today in freight cars. Border reports said they would reënforce the Nazi divisions already patrolling the country and guarding its rich oil wells.

A Rumanian official, however, declared that the additional Nazi troops were only another part of the corps being sent in to instruct the Rumanian army.

Military observers estimated that there are more than 100,000 German soldiers already in Rumania.

Italy to Get Food, Metals from Sweden and Slovakia

ROME, Dec. 23 (AP).—Italy has arranged to obtain metals and cattle from Sweden and Slovakia in new barter agreements, it was announced today. Sweden is to supply iron, other metals, and some machinery in exchange for flowers, vegetables, dried fruit, and gloves. From Slovakia, Italy is to receive cattle and barley—used as a coffee substitute—in exchange for fresh foods, wine, and machinery.

CLAIM MUSSOLINI RUSHES TROOPS TO LIBYA BY SEA

Navy Acting as Convoy, Paper Asserts.

ROME, Dec. 23 (AP).—Italian troops and supplies, the newspaper La Tribuna said today, are being convoyed across the Mediterranean to reinforce Fascist legions against the British desert offensive.

Italy's navy, a correspondent wrote, is "guaranteeing passage" of men and materials "to ports of the fourth shore." The "fourth shore" is a common Italian expression for Libya.

[British naval sources maintain that their blockade cut off shipping between Italy and her African empire.]

Vows Fight to End.

Premier Mussolini's high command reported the situation was unchanged in the 15 day old battle of north Africa, where the siege battered Italian garrison at Bardia, Libya, was officially described as vowing to fight to the end.

Italian warplanes slashed at Britain's counter invasion armies over the wastes of the Libyan desert and at British war craft in the nearby coastal waters.

The high command said an Italian torpedo throwing plane sank a British auxiliary cruiser off the north African coast.

British Mass Outside Libya.

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 23 (AP).—The British army of the Nile, with some 36,000 Italian prisoners reported already moved to the rear, poured reenforcements into siege lines around beleagured Bardia today preparatory to an assault on its 20,000 defenders.

While the troops were massing outside the Libyan port, British artillery and naval guns pumped shells into positions occupied in the town itself by remnants of the Italian 10th army declared trapped there.

Swift British mechanized units which paced the drive to Bardia were reported to have struck westward once more; just how far was not disclosed.

Ranging far ahead of these operations, the air force reported new night raids on Italian bases along the arching Libyan Mediterranean coast as far as Benghasi, 300 air miles to the west.

Raid Air Bases.

Near Benghasi, the air bases at Berka and Benina were reported raided Saturday night and returning pilots told of starting tremendous fires and explosions. Tobruk, 80 miles west of the Egyptian border, also came in for another pounding from the air.

[British military circles in London said Bardia probably was heavily fortified "in depth" on the land side and with coast defense guns to combat offshore bombardments.]

The air force said that in air fighting yesterday one Italian plane was downed.

The British command announced that 35,949 prisoners, including 1,704 officers, had been moved to the rear since the British offensive started in the Sidi Barrani area of the Egyptian coast and that several thousand more still were awaiting transfer.

52 U. S. Plane Engines in Mexico Sold to Britain

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 23 (AP).—Fifty-two airplane engines manufactured in the United States and purchased by Spanish Republican [Loyalist] forces in 1938 but never delivered were reported reliably today to have been sold to Britain. They were said to be under way already to an unnamed British port.

ROOSEVELT TO GO ON RADIO TO GIVE DEFENSE REPORT

'Present Emergency' to Be Topic Sunday Night.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23.—As demands in congress today grew louder for a factual report on the progress of the national defense program, President Roosevelt announced that he would make a "report to the nation" by radio next Sunday night "on the present emergency."

Mr. Roosevelt will speak from 8:30 to 9 p. m. [Chicago time] over all networks. Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early would not go into details concerning the subject of the President's broadcast, but the President is naturally expected to talk about defense production and perhaps defend the administration's bungling thus far.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] joined his voice to the congressional chorus of requests for full information about the status of the military preparedness program for which nearly 18 billion dollars in appropriations and contract authorizations has been voted.

Reveals Letter to Knudsen.

Vandenberg made public a letter written to William S. Knudsen, director of the new office for production management, applauding Knudsen's designation to a place of larger authority and trusting he would find himself with ample power "to achieve essential tho belated results." Vandenberg noted that Knudsen had made an appeal to the American people to throw themselves wholeheartedly into full coöperation with the defense effort.

"I respectfully suggest that the surest means to enlist complete, American mass coöperation is to give the American people full information at all times," Vandenberg wrote. "Thus far they have not had it. Instead, they have had cryptic assurances that 'all's well' with defense progress—barring some of your own frank comments to the contrary—when such was not the case.

Believes People Should Know.

"I fully realize that there are certain things that cannot be publicly discussed in connection with a matter of this nature, and I except from this suggestion which I am making any information which it would truly be 'incompatible with the public interest' to make public.

"But I respectfully suggest that foreign powers undoubtedly find themselves fully advised regarding the general nature of our defense progress, and that there is more to be lost by failing to substantially apprise the American people of their own defense weaknesses than there is to be gained by ineffectual secrecy as respects foreign information.

"I recall to you my letter of last Sept. 25 in which I asked for authentic figures regarding actual air plane deliveries, in various categories, upon which we could dependably rely for actual deliveries by April 1, 1941. I recall to you your reply of Oct. 1, telling me that while the figures could be made available, 'it would be better if the information were kept confidential for a while.' I have never received the information."

Recalls Campaign Angle.

Vandenberg made reference to the fact that his request for information might have been turned down on Oct. 1 because President Roosevelt at that time was in the midst of his campaign for reëlection and a revelation of the mishandling of defense production might have had serious political consequences.

"I am sure you had only the international situation in mind," Vandenberg wrote. "But now that this—and perhaps some weightier domestic reasons for secrecy regarding defense progress—should no longer exist, I earnestly recommend that congress and the American people be given all the facts—facts, as distinguished from mere aspirations—regarding defense progress and defense objectives.

"It seems to me that commendable progress is now being made in the direction of this greater candor. With the exceptions that always apply to any rule, I respectfully beg leave to express the hope that the country may have more of it. Particularly in a democracy, the people must have maximum information regarding their own public business if they are to be expected to deal with it intelligently and responsively."

Plane Building Plan Given.

Philip Murray, president of the C. I. O. lunched with President Roosevelt today and presented to him a plan which, Murray said, would mobilize the automobile industry to produce 500 pursuit planes a day. The plan was drafted by Walter P. Reuther, director of the General Motors division of the United Automobile Workers [C. I. O.] and a member of the committee on training in industry of the national defense advisory commission.

The plan calls for a postponement of tooling for new models for six months and the use of 7,500 tool and diemakers now unemployed or engaged in automobile production work to make tools, dies, jigs, and fixtures by which machinery now partly idle in automobile plants could be adapted for production of airplane motors, wings, and fuselage. It was contended that production of complete planes could be had at the end of six months.

JAPS NERVOUS OVER FOREIGN POLICIES OF U.S.

Nazi Warning, Market Drop Cause Fear.

TOKIO, Dec. 23 (AP).—Nervousness over the United States' foreign policy, which might involve Japan thru the three power pact if it led to a break with Germany, was indicated in the press today.

A one yen drop in the price of shares in the Tokio Stock exchange, a normally steady barometer, was ascribed by the financial newspaper Chugai to two developments.

Nazi, U. S. Angle.

One of these was a German foreign office spokesman's statement that Germany would consider it an unfriendly act if the United States requisitioned foreign ships in her ports to sell to Britain. The other was President Rooseveit's addition of 15 items to the list under the export licensing system.

[Both occurred Saturday. The German spokesman's comment followed upon British Shipping Minister Ronald Cross' suggestion that the United States turn over to Britain German and Italian ships refuged in United States ports. To such items as aircraft, iron and steel products, aviation gasoline, and certain types of machine tools, President Roosevelt added to license control a group of items including cobalt, various machines, gauges, pumps and tools, equipment and plans for producing aviation lubricating oil, certain chemicals, strontium metals and ores, and various abrasives.]

The Japan Times and Advertiser, English language paper controlled by the foreign office, commented that "Germany has opened a diplomatic offensive against the United States." The paper said that the German move might have greater significance than merely calling attention "to an intolerable situation" and that Germany "comes extremely close to a direct warning to keep out—or else."

Japs Extend Blockade.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONGKONG, Dec. 23.—Believed to be a design to cloak a new movement of Japanese warships to the south, the Japanese navy today announced the extension of the China coast blockade to the southern Kwangtung coast up to Pakhoi, which is the last port remaining in Chinese hands.

MOSCOW, Dec. 23 (AP).—Tass, official Russian news agency, denied today that the Chinese army had received large quantities of war material, medicaments and other supplies by way of Vladivostok, soviet Russia's far eastern port.

CLAIM MOSCOW SWITCHES BACK TO HITLER'S SIDE

Report Russians Seek Cordial Relations.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 23.—Another sudden change has taken place in the complicated relations between the soviet government and Germany.

After listening to the ardent wooing of the British and American embassies in Moscow for several weeks, Russia now is equally interested in developing cordial relations with the German embassy.

Neutral foreign diplomats in Moscow report that the collaboration between the American ambassador, Laurence A. Steinhardt, and the British ambassador, Sir Stafford Cripps, has become so close that these two embassies can be considered as a single hyphenated institution.

Molotov May Lose Post.

There also are reports that Premier Vysacheslav Molotov may be removed from his post as commissar of foreign affairs. His likely successor is said to be the deputy commissar of this department, A. Y. Vishinsky. Yesterday Vishinsky attended a reception given for the German economic delegation headed by Eric von Schnurre. The latter has been traveling between Moscow and Berlin for the last four months in an attempt to improve German-Russian economic and political relations.

Von Schnurre's mission, according to the Germans, is near success. They said a wide economic agreement is anticipated.

[A dispatch from Berlin last night said the new trade pact is expected to be published soon and will represent a substantial expansion of previous agreements.]

During his recent visit to Helsingfors and Stockholm, Steinhardt told of his recent talks with bolshevik functionaries. It was said the communists inquired when President Roosevelt would enter the war. Steinhardt was reported to have said that the United States already has declared a complete economic war against Germany.

Little Aid from Nazis.

The Russian diplomats were said to have told Steinhardt that Germany was obtaining a minimum of economic assistance from Russia and that the soviets had not accepted the German offer to send economic experts and engineers to Russia to bring about more order and efficiency into Russian transportation and industry.

But while the British and American embassy staffs in Moscow were trying to convince the Russians that British morale at home still was high and American aid would be forthcoming in sufficient time to enable England to hold out until Germany was defeated, soviet agents and sympathizers in England reported that the inhabitants of England are nearing the end of the rope. These soviet agents were said to have reported that important strikes have been declared in England and that the dissatisfaction of the workers and other classes was increasing.

These reports were said to have caused Moscow to reverse its attitude toward Germany, which was pressing for more grain deliveries and other supplies.

Talks Reach Critical Stage.

A fortnight ago Russian-German relations had reached a critical stage, according to reports in diplomatic circles. These reports said Moscow had refused to permit Germans living in the Baltic states to leave with their personal possessions. It was also said the Russians would not recognize Germans' claims to factories, homes, estates, farms, and other properties which had been included in the confiscation and nationalization of wealth in Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia by Moscow.

Matters had progressed so far, it was reported, that Von Schnurre and the German ambassador to Moscow, Frederic Werner von Schulenburg, visited Riga to investigate and confer with the German minister. The German envoy has resisted all efforts of the local communists to force him to close his legation and leave what was formerly Latvia. German property claims in the Baltic states total several hundred millions of dollars. The Germans have been the upper class in these three countries for 700 years.

THE TRIBUNE has been informed that the new soviet-German agreement will not be published. If it has been achieved Germans in the Baltic states soon will be on their way to Germany.

BRITISH BOLSTER WAR DEFENSE OF SINGAPORE BASE

Send Planes, Flyers, Troops to Malaya.

SINGAPORE, Dec. 23 (AP). — Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, British commander in chief in the far east, announced today that "substantial reënforcements of all arms have recently arrived in Malaya."

"The reënforcements include aircraft, air force personnel, members of Indian infantry, artillery, engineers and auxiliaries," the official announcement said.

"The reënforcements not only strengthened already formidable defenses at Singapore but also increased defense forces in other areas of the far east command."

In State of Defense.

The far east command includes Malaya, Burma, and Hongkong. Informed quarters said the reënforcements included additional units of Australian and New Zealand air forces.

Sir Shenton Thomas, governor of the Straits Settlements, announced in a broadcast yesterday that the mainland of Malaya as well as Singapore and Penang were being placed in a state of defense.

The great naval base of Singapore guards Britain's communications with the far east, Australia, and New Zealand, and stands as a power behind Netherlands forces in the Netherlands East Indies, important producer of oil, tin, and rubber.

Heavy Firing on Border.

BANGKOK, Thailand, Dec. 23 (AP).—An exchange of heavy gunfire between Thai [Siamese] and French Indo-China batteries was reported today by the Thai high command.

French artillery, antiaircraft batteries, machine guns, and rifles, it said, opened fire yesterday on the Thai town of Nakonpanom from Thakhek, across the Indo-China border. It said the French sent over 100 shells, but "there were no casualties on our side."

Thai guns "retaliated promptly and vigorously and silenced the enemy guns," it said, "and it is believed that most of the French gun emplacements were destroyed or damaged."

BOY PROWLER IS SHOT TO DEATH BY A WATCHMAN

Bruno Poplawski, 15 years old, was shot and killed last night in the rear of a restaurant at 1731 Milwaukee avenue as he and two other persons allegedly attempted to enter the place thru a coal chute door.

Robert Britton, 27, of 843 Lakeside place, a watchman for the Kane Watch service, told North avenue police he heard a noise behind the restaurant and investigated. One man shouted a warning, he said, and fled with a second. Poplawski then rose to his feet and ran, Britton said. The watchman fired one shot, which he intended as a warning, and Poplawski dropped dead.

He was identified by Edward Adamik, of 2129 Homer street, whose name and address were found in his pocket. Adamik lives next door to the Poplawski home at 2127 Homer street, and that family uses his telephone, he said. The restaurant has been robbed twice in the last year.

EXPECT CANADA AND U. S. ACCORD ON SEAWAY SOON

Report Way Discovered to Avoid Treaty Vote.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23 (AP).—An agreement between the United States and Canada on the proposed 250 million dollar St. Lawrence seaway and power project is expected to be reached immediately after the new year, it was learned authoritatively today.

Discussions between the two governments, which have been in progress several months, have reached a stage where Canadian representatives are expected to come here early in January for agreement signing talks.

President Roosevelt has already announced that he will ask congress, convening in January, to approve speedy completion to the project.

May Avoid Treaty Vote.

Informed sources reported today that administration men, mindful of bitter fights in the past over the project, may seek to obtain congressional approval by means of concurrent resolutions passable by both houses, rather than by senate ratification of a treaty.

The administration has been unable to secure ratification of proposed treaties in the senate.

To accomplish the President's desires, it was reported, the diplomatic discussions under way have eliminated any stipulations in the agreement which could be met only by treaty.

Find Precedent in Pact.

Precedent for approval of the project by congressional resolution is understood to rest on a 1909 water boundary treaty in which it was stipulated that special agreements concerning joint action involving the waters between Canada and the United States could be achieved "by concurrent or reciprocal legislation on the part of the congress and the parliament of the dominion."

Informed quarters also pointed to the agreement by which President Roosevelt exchanged 50 destroyers for pledges of naval base sites on British possessions as establishing the principle involved. That agreement was not achieved in the form of a treaty.

While engineering and construction costs of the project may be increased by price rises resulting from the boom in national defense construction, the original estimates called for an expenditure of approximately 250 million dollars.

FIRST PROPOSED IN 1925.

The St. Lawrence seaway project first was proposed in 1925 and has been fought vigorously ever since. President Roosevelt has tried repeatedly since 1934 to get congressional approval. He added power development to the original waterway scheme in an attempt to beat down opposition.

Despite increasing opposition in New York, the Great Lakes states and the middle west, the President has become increasingly insistent on having the project approved and recently sought to include it in defense measures.

Within the last year the New York Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers, the Merchants' Association of New York, the Niagara Frontier Planning Board, American Mining Congress, Mississippi Valley association, the Mid-West Shippers Advisory board, the Illinois house of representatives committee on waterways, and New York Board of Trade have denounced the project for various reasons.

Virtually all are agreed that the project is unsound, unnecessary, and uneconomical. Some contend New York, New England, and eastern Canada have sufficient power and there is no market for more. Another argument against the project is that the 250 millions are needed for defense materials and the seaway would be extremely vulnerable to aerial attack by bombing planes.

ALICE FAYE.

Hollywood, Dec. 23 (AP).—For the moment, anyway, a $2,500 a day job is going begging.

Los Angeles apparel manufacturers offered Screen Actress Alice Faye $25,000 for a 10 day aerial tour of 10 cities to model wardrobes and publicize Hollywood fashions in preparation for the spring style show next month.

So far, she says, she's undecided about accepting.

BUND'S RECORDS TURNED OVER TO U. S. PROSECUTOR

Records of the German-American bund, reportedly including correspondence between the bund and "foreign government officials," were turned over to United States District Attorney J. Albert Woll yesterday at a conference between Woll and Dr. Otto Willumeit, Chicago chairman of the bund. Woll in turn handed what he described as "a truckload of bund records" over to the federal bureau of investigation.

Dr. Willumeit brought the records to the district attorney's office without the exercise of a federal grand jury summons reportedly issued Saturday. They included account books, lists of members, and correspondence between the bund and its members.

The action followed Thursday's FBI raid on bund headquarters at 3855 North Western avenue, when bund members locked records in a safe as the federal agents entered. Woll stated that possible grand jury action will hinge on the outcome of the FBI's investigation of the records turned over yesterday.

BIG PLANE PLANT FORCED TO WAIT FOR ALUMINUM

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 23 (AP).—Northrop Aircraft corporation, which has $10,000,000 defense contracts, said tonight it was being forced to curtail production, effective at once, because of inability to obtain aluminum for planes. The company will cut 2,000 employés from 10 hour shifts to 8 hours. "There simply isn't enough aluminum available to meet the great demand," said Lamotte T. Cohu, general manager of Northrop. "This is bound to affect other aircraft concerns." Cohu said increased deliveries of aluminum would not be available until September.

Sylvia Ageloff Freed in Trotsky Assassination

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Dec. 23 (AP).—Miss Sylvia Ageloff was released by police tonight after she had been detained four months in connection with investigation of the assassination of Leon Trotsky and said she planned to leave shortly for her home in Brooklyn, N. Y. Most of her period of detention had been spent in a hospital. She was freed by Judge Raul Carranca Trujillo, who now is trying Jacques Mornard on a charge of murder in Trotsky's slaying.

AIR SAFETY WILL BOOM CHICAGO'S AIRPORT.

After eight years of paltering with the subject, Chicago is on the verge of getting its enlarged city airport. City workmen are building new switch tracks for the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, north of the enlarged airport, and when they are finished and tested, some time during the late summer, it will be possible to tear up the old tracks that now bisect the airport and render its new section useless.

The enlarged airport thus will be open for service by the time the new four motor transport planes are placed in service. Anticipating their introduction, Mayor Kelly has had plans drawn for a new terminal at the airport, the first one in the world to make proper provision for the loading and dispatching of large numbers of transport planes simultaneously. Future growth of the air transport industry is taken into account, in the form of accommodations for planes twice the size of the promised four motor jobs.

The mayor has shown commendable wisdom in thus anticipating the growth of the air transport industry. That growth is bound to come. How quickly it comes depends to a very large extent on the safety record of existing air line operations. No one realizes better than the air line operators themselves what disastrous effects fatal transport plane accidents have on air travel bookings.

As the hub of the nation's air transportation system, Chicago thus has a direct financial interest in safe flying and in the strict governmental regulation that makes flying safe. Flying safety received a severe setback when the independent, courageous air safety board, under whose inspection the air lines of the country maintained such high safety standards, was turned over to the political spoilsmen of the department of commerce. The political aviation experts are now investigating themselves in connection with recent fatal air liner crashes, and there will be little confidence in their verdict, whatever it may be.

If Mayor Kelly wants the investment on the proposed air terminal to pay out as quickly as possible, as he undoubtedly does, he should pass the word to Chicago's eight rubber stamp Democratic congressmen to start working for revival of the independent air safety board. The rubber stamps will find their colleague, Congressman Dewey, working enthusiastically beside them. He doesn't need any one to do his thinking for him when Chicago's interests are at stake.

WAR AND DICTATORSHIP.

Reports came from England recently of a failure to distribute available supplies of meats to the neighborhood butcher shops. The result was that families from time to time had to do without. Similarly it was announced that coal shortages were causing a good deal of discomfort. Great quantities of coal had been dug, but transportation was said to be lacking. A shortage of oleomargarine in the shops was also mentioned, altho the supply in the warehouses was reported to be of record size.

The distribution of food and fuel is controled by the government in Britain as a war measure. Officials in London say the difficulties could not have been foreseen, but every step is now being taken to overcome them. New arrangements, it is said, will be in operation within a short time.

For his part, Lord Woolton, the food minister, has reassured the people that supplies in storage are ample, and that they will be made to reach further by a reduction in the rations. "I have told my colleagues in the government," he said, "that we will deliberately and willingly as a population have a little less to eat." Lord Woolton went on to remind the people that food hoarding is illegal. If he catches any hoarders he will "deal with them ruthlessly, remorselessly, and with intense pleasure."

From these circumstances and remarks the American people can draw a valuable lesson. War breeds burocratic dictatorship and dictatorship is forever talking about circumstances which could not be foreseen. When things go wrong the answer is never a confession on the part of the officials concerned that they were stupid or negligent, but always an alibi of some sort, followed by a demand for further sacrifices. The dictator says nobody could have foreseen the interruptions of supply and he goes on to say that anybody who did foresee the failure and did make provision against burocratic incompetence will be severely punished if caught.

The contradiction ought to be obvious to any one, but it is the great good fortune of wartime dictators that the people over whom they rule are in an exalted state of mind and anything but critical. They will stand for almost anything. They will cheerfully accept even an unnecessary reduction in their rations.

LUXURIOUS LITIGATION.

In vetoing the Walter-Logan bill, Mr. Roosevelt said that at this time "we can least afford to spend either governmental or private effort in the luxury of litigation." That was on Dec. 18.

Three days later the Associated Press reported from Washington that "litigation involving fees charged at the Kansas City stockyards by commission agents between 1933 and 1937 was carried to the Supreme court today for the fourth time. The department of justice appealed from a ruling by a three judge federal court in western Missouri holding invalid a 1939 order issued by former Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, reducing the maximum fees that could be charged. . . . Also challenged was action of the three judge court directing that $586,093 of impounded funds be restored to the commission men. . . ."

Mr. Roosevelt's acts explain what he means by the luxury of litigation. It is a luxury if a citizen wishes to use it to defend his rights against a domineering and rapacious administration. It is no luxury if the government uses it to badger a citizen and withhold money from him.

NOISY HYPHENATES.

The other day Prof. Anton Carlson spoke at a luncheon under the auspices of the America First committee. He told why he was opposed to American participation in the present European war. The speech was marked by the kind of candor for which Prof. Carlson is famous. Among other things he expressed his doubt that Britain is fighting for democracy.

A number of letters have been received by the Voice of the People taking exception to Dr. Carlson's views. One such letter was published. Mr. Olaf Gylstrom of Milwaukee said he wished "as an American Swede on behalf of the enormous majority of Swedes to repudiate these misleading vaporings." Mr. Gylstrom wanted to know "what would our fellow Scandinavians of Norway and Denmark think of us here if we sit silent while their only defender is vilified from a prominent seat of learning?" And Mr. Gylstrom went on to say that "Dr. Carlson has done us a distinct disservice representing his own warped opinions. Swedes of America do not share them."

It may be noted in passing that Dr. Carlson was not speaking "from a prominent seat of learning" but in his capacity as an American citizen, at a meeting of American citizens to discuss a question of American governmental policy. He came to this country as an immigrant boy. When he became an American citizen he did so without reservations. In his laboratory at the University of Chicago, on the forum, and in the uniform of an officer of the United States army he has earned a reputation in which all Americans can take pride. He is a living proof of the manner in which our country has been enriched by its immigrants; and more especially he is a living proof of the devotion to America which is felt by the overwhelming majority of its citizens from whatever land they or their ancestors came.

Prof. Carlson's patriotism is not narrow. As he said, "A scientist cannot be an isolationist." But neither is Prof. Carlson's loyalty a divided one. Unlike Mr. Gylstrom, he does not speak "as an American Swede" and in considering American foreign policy he does not think in terms of "our fellow Scandinavians." That is not because he is ashamed of his ancestry but because he knows that if each immigrant group in America seeks to direct American strength and influence to the service of a homeland or to an oppressed group within a homeland our country will be torn internally. The conflicts of interest, ambition, and prejudice which always divide and periodically devastate Europe would arise here. In those circumstances America at best would be reduced to impotence in international affairs and at worst would find itself engaged in wars of foreign origin, fought for territorial stakes which we as Americans do not value.

These considerations appear to have escaped Mr. Gylstrom, and unfortunately a great many others, by no means all of whom are recent immigrants. The hyphenated American is still with us to divide us, to confuse counsel, and to mislead us into war if he can. Many of us had thought that the breed would disappear as a result of the last war, but the hope was not realized. Indeed, the passions aroused by that war and the resentments which followed it may actually have encouraged the rise of hyphenism.

America has relatively little to fear from the hyphenates who speak in a foreign dialect, because their bias is self-evident. Much more menacing are those whose accents were acquired on Park avenue, on Broadway, and in expensive eastern schools. These people pass for Americans. They are socially assured; they have wealth, many of them, and occupy positions of importance. Some of them are big names in international finance. They belong to exclusive clubs in New York and London. Still others are the impresarios of Broadway and Hollywood, and still others are their employés, the darlings of the theater.

Most of them don't even know they are hyphenates, tho to any impartial observer it is evident that they are seeking to use America to advance a foreign cause to which they are attached by ancestry, business association, religious affiliation, or something else. If they are allowed to have their way these hyphenates will yet bring ruin upon this country and in so doing will destroy the hope for all of us which lies in America's political independence.

MARTIN'S SUCCESSOR.

It is to be hoped that the Republican national committee in its search for a chairman to replace Mr. Joseph Martin will not overlook Mr. Werner Schroeder, national committeeman for Illinois. Mr. Schroeder is a veteran of politics. The measure of his organizing capacity and leadership is the success of the Republican state ticket in Illinois in November. He showed then that he has what it takes.

Editorial of the Day

OPPORTUNITY FOR REPUBLICANS.

[Harvard (Ill.) Herald.]

The Republican party in Illinois has a golden opportunity in the offing. Whether leaders take advantage of it or chuck it out the window, as did both parties in the past, remains to be seen.

During the last campaign the Republicans charged the Democrats used state offices to repay political debts. Now, when the Republicans take over the reins, the average voter will watch to see whether they do the same thing or if they really mean to practice what they preach.

Every job is important, whether it be a helper on the highway patrol or the head of a department. Therefore it is essential, if the Republicans plan to give the state an efficient and businesslike administration, that only men having the best qualifications be placed on the pay roll. To do otherwise would not only be hypocritical but would be unfair to the people the jobholders are working for—you and me.

We have a hunch that Dwight Green—a hunch based on a study of his record and written thoughts—and the men behind him intend to take the utmost advantage of the opportunity offered them and provide the most efficient government the state of Illinois has known for years. We hope so. We have grown tired and disgusted over the other type.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS AT YULETIDE.

24th Dec.—There will be a rally around the wassail bowl at my club this evening while "Holy Night" is being caroled from the Tribune Tower, just across the river, with plenty of eggnog for all and a Christmas tree that glitters like a Russian empress in her coronation robes. But I shall not tarry long, but will hie homeward after an early dinner to light my own tree, already dressed in its spangles, very fine, too, and to distribute gifts among my kin. When the clock nears midnight, I shall get into my chariot and roll thru the villages along the North Shore, where the out-of-doors Christmas trees always make a brave display, with their many lights gleaming thru the shrubberies.

Now, this will be a quiet way of spending the Eve, yet every one does much the same, perhaps with churchgoing added, for the Yuletide is a home festival among us, with a religious awe upon it and a mood of reverie and contemplation. Go where you will among the usual places of revelry, such as theaters and cabarets tonight, and you will find them almost empty of customers. This is our American way, and it is good.

Once I did spend Christmas eve in Paris, and to my amazement I found the French celebrated as if it were New Year's eve, with much rollicking in the cafés and madcap gayety and staying up all night at the wine cup. True, there was a midnight mass at the church of the Madeleine, which looks like a Greek temple, and magnificent music; but I noted that the people in general arose the next morning in the dejected state called a hangover.

Tomorrow I shall admire my gifts, if any, and feast upon a turkey and sip some wine, but not too much; and count up my Christmas cards, of which my faithful contributors have sent dozens. The prize of the assortment is a water colored drawing by the gifted Shandy Gaff, showing a quaint village street and the arrival of a coaching party at an old English inn, named the Sign of the Line. There are some 40 figures in this drawing, not to mention five horses, two dogs, and a handcart selling Line Books.

PRAYER ON CHRISTMAS EVE.

High on the wind-swept hills the shepherds kept
Their quiet sheep above dark Bethlehem.
The starry night was hushed, the old town slept;
When suddenly a song broke over them,
And all the cradling hills were full of light.
The patient beasts knelt down before the Child
Whose birth the heavens told that Holy Night;
The Wise Men sought Him; and the shepherds mild—
All those of gentle hearts and kindly wills.
Our world is broken by its tale of years.
O, turn our hearts tonight to those far hills,
That we may see, beyond our bitter tears,
The star of hope alight; and, thru the din,
May hear the angels' song above the Inn!

Robinson Crusoe in Town.

When I was a boy I wished that I could be marooned like my favorite fictional character, Robinson Crusoe. Today, alas, that wish has been partially fulfilled. After two decades my guardian angel has fallen asleep on the job and I find myself stranded, not on an uninhabited island but on a bit of land, from where I can throw [if I only dared] handfuls of tacks to puncture the tires on the hundreds of cars that pass it daily.

One of the similarities between Crusoe's plight and mine is the loss of contact with our fellow men. I find my solitude harder to bear. Where he saw only his man Friday, I see hundreds of people each day. His island was unknown to the world, while mine is seen by enough humans to populate a large city. His distress signal would have been answered by thousands, had thousands seen it. Mine has been seen by tens of thousands and that many times ignored.

Crusoe spoke to Friday. I can speak to no one. Where he heard only Friday's voice, my ears remind me of my nearness to civilization. His hope to hear just once these words, "We saw your beacon," would not add a fraction of a unit to the number of times I hope to hear men say to me, "Fill 'er up with regular, son."

VISION OF CHRISTMAS EVE.

The Christmas tree is a tall tree, tall as the midnight sky,
Its snowy branches are laden with gifts no coin can buy.
A gift for Joseph and Mary, mild,
Gifts for Mary's newborn child.
Shape Him a cradle, cupped like a nest,
Soft and white as Mary's breast;
Woven from cocoons, lighter than fleece,
Make Him a blanket, shining as peace;
Waft Him the incense of balsam and fir,
Holier, these, than spikenard or myrrh;
Music, be soft on aeolian strings,
Chant, branched tree, while Mary sings.
Frosted with silver, petaled with snows,
On Mary's knee lies the Christmas rose.
The Christmas tree is a tall tree, with fragrant, spreading boughs;
In this lowly Inn tonight, God and His sparrow may safely house.

Artists Are Modest Birds.

Self-portraiture among artists—one of the curious kinks of the painting trade that has never been analyzed by psychologists—is illustrated by a current exhibition at the Art Institute. It contains 47 examples of this form of schizophrenia [split personality]. Rembrandt was the world's champion self-painter; he executed 64 portraits "par lui même."

Chicago's First College Campus.

To locate the old University of Chicago campus precisely [Dec. 14] you should say that it was bounded east and west by Cottage Grove and Rhodes avenues, and north and south by University and College places. Its east and west axis was the line of 34th street, which dead-ended at Rhodes avenue. In the early 1880s, if one stood at the corner of Grand boulevard and 35th street, and looked toward the southwest, he could see practically nothing but open prairie.

OUTPOCKETINGS FROM THE COLON.

While the digestive tract is obliged to endure a substantial amount of punishment, it generally behaves reasonably well. If we will pay some attention to minor symptoms of indigestion and pursue a sensible diet, the chances are that all will be well. On the other hand, we have no right to be disrespectful to this vital tube. It has an important job to do and—given a fair chance—it will handle our foods satisfactorily.

Every little while, however—in the course of an X-ray examination—a few outpocketings [diverticula] may be disclosed, chiefly on the colon. What are these affairs and are they significant? They may be likened to tiny ruptures. At a given spot the wall of the bowel has become ballooned like a blister on the inner tube of an automobile tire. The lesions are not at all uncommon and will occur in 10 per cent of all normal persons past 45 years of age. The condition is more likely to arise in stout, flabby men, altho, as a rule, no disturbance of digestion will be observed.

Just why they develop is not clearly understood. Apparently the responsible factors are constipation, the use of powerful cathartics, and fermentation within the colon. Pressure finally brings on a bulge in a small area and the deformity, once established, remains for life.

We need pay little attention to these outgrowths unless they give trouble. Now and then, however, symptoms on the left side—similar to appendicitis—will be complained of. There may be a sudden attack of pain situated low down in the abdomen, accompanied by a slight temperature. Such episodes are occasioned usually by bits of fecal matter filling one or more of these sacs, with resulting inflammation. The inlet may swell shut, creating a situation similar to an abscess.

If the victim will remain quiet, drink large quantities of water, and refrain from using strong laxatives, the distress will vanish within a day or two. If the pain persists, however, skilled help may be demanded, as it is necessary occasionally to guard against spread of the infection to that delicate membrane, the peritoneum.

Let us assume that we have discovered some of these pea-sized projections. Is there any occasion for worry? Frankly, no, in 99 cases out of 100. There is no evidence to show that they lead to cancer. The important thing, however, is so to regulate the diet and mode of life that irritation will not be allowed to exhibit itself within these spaces. This means a relatively bland diet for weeks or months, if symptoms appear. All roughage, such as will be found in "fiber" vegetables, is prohibited. In fact, at the outset it may be well to purée [sieve] all plant foods and to chew meats thorely, perhaps discarding stringy morsels.

If a laxative is called for, no griping preparation should be employed, as stout contractions may force bacteria into one of these blind pouches. While liquid paraffin, or mineral oil, has been suggested, it is now favored less frequently. Irrigations of the colon, however, offer relief. A two way device is utilized, allowing pure water or salt solution to move into and out of the large bowel. Little or no pressure is used. The bag is raised only high enough to allow the fluid to flow.

Among the many useful remedies is olive oil, which is injected within the rectum upon retiring. From one to four ounces may be used without the slightest discomfort and retained during the night. Some of this will be absorbed and the balance excreted with a soft, nonwatery stool.

EYE TIC.

L. G. writes: What causes one eye to twitch? It is not constant but every once in a while.

REPLY.

This is usually a symptom of fatigue. If it persists constantly, some nerve irritation may be responsible.

REPLY.

Water is water, whether flavored or fresh from a spring.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 20.

1. Which name is not appropriate in the following group? Kriss Kringle St. Nicholas Wodan Santa Claus.
2. The yule log and mistletoe are relics from the Danes Druids Romans Greeks.
3. The "Wise Men" of Christmas lore were called Jacobites Midianites Magi Monks.
4. We have obtained the name "Santa Claus" from the Dutch French Russians English.
5. Which one of the following was not mentioned among the gifts presented to the infant Jesus by the Wise Men? Almonds Frankincense Myrrh Gold.
6. One of the officials of a large manufacturing concern recently told me that he has observed a marked increase in the last few years in the general knowledge of the workmen there. He has been personally acquainted with the men, over 4,000 of whom he can call by name. Ten years ago they were not nearly as well informed on educational topics and current events as they are now. He ascribes this improvement primarily to:
   - ——The development of the radio as a medium of mass education.
   - ——An increase in the intelligence of mankind in the last decade.
   - ——New habits of reading their newspaper more thoroly while the men were idle during the depression.
   - ——The spread of the Adult Education Movement in the last few years.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—the last question counts five points.]

QUAKERS FEED THE STARVING.

Albion, Mich., Dec. 20.—I have noted many items on the pros and cons of the Hoover plan. But while the good people engaged in these arguments have been sitting around with warm food in their stomachs discussing whether or not 18 million other human beings should be allowed to starve this winter, a band of 56 men and women have been taking food to the destitute without much pother. These are the Quakers, now feeding 35,000 children in unoccupied France daily, and distributing as much as two tons of food from one center in a month.

These Quakers are now concentrating all their European relief work in unoccupied France, where they consider the relief situation to be the most critical. In southern France are the great concentration camps where conditions are so pitiful that the Quakers, altho they do all they can to provide prisoners with food, clothes, and blankets, admit they are powerless to salve the misery.

Since help from America was cut off by the British blockade, the Quakers have been buying meat, chocolate and milk from Switzerland, altho the Swiss are now no longer able to supply milk to children over 12. They buy fats from Portugal; fruits, mostly dried, from Africa; grain from Greece and Bulgaria. Clothes are a problem almost as urgent as that of food, but cloth and wool, if to be had at all, are now so expensive that they can seldom afford to buy it. Yet they write that many of the refugees are in tatters, often without shoes or stockings.

Such activity, especially in the face of the inactivity of the American Red Cross, which has taken no food or clothing into France since June 15, is one which should command the respect and the support of every right thinking American. The Quakers are unanimous in pledging their word that none of the food distributed by them has been taken by enemy officials.

Persons who would like to help in this noble work may do so by sending contributions to the American Friends' Service committee, 20 South 12th street, Philadelphia, Pa. The committee will also be glad to provide interested persons with literature further describing their activities.

"SILLY OLD DOLLAR" SIGN.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—"The silly old dollar sign," comes appropriately from President Roosevelt, in his stilted argument for accelerated American aid to Great Britain's war. The man who never in his life earned a dollar except in politics and public office, the man who devaluated the dollar and squandered stratospheric amounts on boondoggling, couldn't well but consider "the dollar sign" as something to be gibed at and to be thrown to the wind.

SANE ART CRITICISM.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Our organization, made up of 150 professional artists in the midwest and supported by several hundred more lay members, heartily indorse Eleanor Jewett's energetic and most helpful viewpoint regarding contemporary art.

The Tribune is to be congratulated on having an art writer capable of common sense analysis of what is going on in that field, and the ability and courage to speak clearly on a subject overburdened with meaningless jargon and subversive activities.

These are bewildering times to an honest art fraternity which believes its profession should have at least some approach toward the sound practice demanded of and found in other professions.

FAVOR AID TO BRITAIN.

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 20—Inasmuch as considerable publicity has been given to a statement by the Rev. Father John O'Brien, in which he advocated isolationism as a national policy, we, the undersigned members of the same University of Notre Dame faculty, hereby declare our unconditional opposition to his stand. We believe that America's interests will be best served by a policy of aid to Britain.

GETTING THINGS DONE.

Marquette, Mich., Dec. 20.—Well, the railroads are putting on faster trains between Chicago and Miami. Another Tribune victory, because you have been hammering away on that subject for some time. Similarly, many of the other faster trains — the Century, Broadway Limited, etc., have been speeded up, largely, I think, because of your able and convincing editorials. Some weeks ago I read in the Voice of the People a complaint from some sorehead to the effect that your candidates were always beaten. Even if it were true, which it isn't, I notice you do things and get things done. That about covers everything.

HOSPITAL INSURANCE.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—How many people who have hospital insurance policies have found that in case of sickness these policies when presented to a hospital as security, are not accepted as such.

On Oct. 22 I had to have an appendectomy and was refused admittance to three hospitals.

It has been almost two months since the operation and as yet I have failed to realize one cent of indemnity for a policy that I paid on for 18 months and which policy was paid up at the time of the operation.

I hope this letter will cause people who have policies to check up on the hospitals.

LIVING WITH WPA ART.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Yesterday and today you published stories purporting to present "facts" about WPA art—yet the "facts" were almost wholly opinion, principally that of art dealers. The only statements of fact informed the adult mind that several hundred public institutions have acquired various works of art—important evidence that WPA art is accepted and acceptable.

Yet your "art critics" examined only three or four works, none of which, if observed with an unprejudiced mind, can be said to be either bad art or subversive. Many thousands of persons in the Chicago area are living with WPA art every day in their parks, zoos, libraries, schools, and community houses. It is strange that a metropolitan newspaper should make such an effort to make a story out of such flimsy material.

AT 1½ CENTS.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—I sent all my Christmas cards at the 1½ cent rate, and I don't think their sentiments are the less sincere for it, but I'm spending 2 cents on this letter to ask you please to tell Helen Weeks I don't like to have my Christmas greetings evaluated in terms of cents—or scents either.

LEONA ERICKSON.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—As to Helen Weeks' letter about the "skunk sign." I've always thought Christmas represented a message of good cheer to your friends rather than just how much you spent getting it to them.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

USURY.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The writer of this letter is greatly in need of help but does not know whom to go to, as you see I have no money for lawyers and so any help you may be able to give me will be appreciated. This is my story.

My husband is a driver for a cab company. A short while ago [7 weeks] he found it necessary to borrow $10 for an illness in our family. He knew of another driver who loans money in the garage. The terms he was told were:

Two dollars interest on $10. He borrowed the money from this man and has been paying $2 every week, and after six payments [$12] he quit paying. Then he was told he still owed the original $10, all he was paying all these weeks was the interest and in order to be free of debt he must present the $10 along with the $2 in one payment or, as I said, he still owes the principal [$10]. When he protested, saying his earnings would never permit him to make such a large payment out of one week's check he was told that was his hard luck, he had to pay or else, meaning bodily harm. He has, we believe, two partners working out of another garage.

M. L.

You do not state what period this interest charge covered, nor whether the lender is licensed under the small loans act. If the facts are such that the interest is usurious, then the creditor is not entitled to collect more than the principal.

GOOD FELLOWS BRING A JOYOUS YULE TO NEEDY

15,000 Children Receive Food and Toys.

mas. There was a shining tree signaling greetings to the wayfarers. On the lapel of every pilot and stewardess, air line official, traffic man, ticket agent, and mechanic gleamed a white, red, and green Good Fellow button. The Aviation Good Fellows had taken over.

Accustomed to celebrities, the airport seldom pauses in its brisk operation. But yesterday it was different. An infectious excitement mounted. Finally over the loud speaker came the announcement that raised the roof with cheers:

"Santa Claus will arrive at Gate 3!"

A Streamlined Santa.

The wind-tossed white whiskers and crimson frock coat were in the old tradition, but the Santa of the Aviation Good Fellows was a stream lined gentleman, in keeping with the industry he represented. The sharper eyes noted that his features were extraordinarily like A. C. Wenzel's. Storming in at his heels came a throng of bedraggled but happy urchins—angels with dirty faces. Every one received a toy from the generous pack.

There was an informal program, with Fowler Barker, master of ceremonies.

From behind their desks a score of young men gathered about the microphone and, with Frank X. McGrail to direct them, sang "Silent Night" and "Jingle Bells." They were the Aviation Glee club.

Stage Players on Program.

Ethel Wilson and King Calder of the "Here Today" cast were introduced and Joe Allen, who was with them, gave an impromptu comedy sketch. Cynthia Cline of the Quiz Kids of radio sang "Adeste Fideles," and Gerard Darrow, the youngest of that company of junior intellectuals, read one of Cynthia's poems. Judith Ann Rotuna did a tap dance. The Rev. Cedric Peterson of the Lorimer Baptist church gave a Christmas message.

The airport ceremonies climaxed Good Fellow activities in which 1,300 men and women of the aviation industry engaged. The basket committees began work early in the morning. Most of the toys were provided by the 35 members of the Chicago Girls' Flying club. The growing company of Aviation Good Fellows was organized eight years ago.

A TORRENT OF CHILDREN

BY MARCIA WINN.

The Traffic Club Good Fellows had difficulty finding the rear basement flat. They made their heavily laden way down a perilous flight of steps, ducked under a clotheseline, and stumbled thru an abandoned coal bin.

A knock, a loud "Merry Christmas," and a torrent of children tumbled into view. Dickie, who is 3, with flapping ears, a seraphic smile, and eyes like neglected stars. Patsy, who is 4, with the chin, merry voice of a cricket and a shadowed little face that matched. Donnie, who is 7 and looks 4, with stockings falling down his pipe legs. Bobby, with wistful gray eyes and a maternal concern for Bernadine and Barbara, the twins, who, round eyed and bare footed, shared an armchair in the tiny kitchen.

"Who are you?" asked Dickie.

"Good Fellows," the traffic club members said.

"What's that?" asked Patsy.

"Santa," suggested Donnie.

Was their mother home? "Naw, she's at the hospital. She scalded her foot when the kettle dropped." The twins, how old are they? "Sixteen months."

"And, O!" cried Patsy, "aren't they beautiful? As beautiful as—" and for a minute she was lost in dreams, until, with a possessive clutch of her Good Fellow doll, she concluded—"as this!"

JOY IN TWO HOMES

BY JUANITA DALY.

The Good Fellows brought Christmas into two homes on the northwest side that have known sickness and poverty during the last few years. In one, three undernourished girls sat politely on the couch in their clean, but bare living room waiting for a nod from their mother before they opened any packages. Then in a few seconds, Virginia, 8, was squealing over her tea set and showing it to Dorothy, 11, and Lorraine, 7, who were inspecting a sewing outfit.

"Thank you for the food," said the slight young mother. "The girls can help me fix a Christmas dinner, now."

Joy for a Widow and Six.

A widow with five girls and a boy, ranging from 7 to 18 years in age, gathered in their dining room as the Good Fellows carried in a box of groceries and a basket of toys. The Christmas tree gleaming cheerfully in the front room, the warm apartment and the neatly dressed, courteous young people belied the need for aid until the mother explained.

The tree had been given to them by a cousin. The oldest girl had come home from a sanitarium two months ago.

A closer look showed that 11 year old Jerry's face is too pale and his younger sisters need a few more pounds on their thin bodies. Any parent knows, too, that it's expensive to keep six children clothed and healthy. The Good Fellows' contribution brought a sincere "thank you" from the family.

A DAY OF WONDER

BY JOHN McCUTCHEON JR.

Nine colored children scuttled into the corners of a second story flat on Wentworth avenue when the Good Fellows from the Metropolitan Community church arrived. The children looked on in amazement from behind curtains as boxes of food and toys were put down on the floor.

"Come on out, children," called their mother as she thanked the Rev. Joseph Evans, Prof. J. Wesley Jones, and Miss Geraldine Pate of the church. "It's all for us."

One by one the children, from Margaret, 13, to Edward, 3, ventured from their hiding places and cautiously fingered dolls, musical toys, and tops. Their expressions turned from wonder to joy. One did not notice any longer the broken windows covered with cardboard, the old magazine pictures pasted helter-skelter on the wall, or the empty bird cage.

TOYS AND FOOD FOR ALL

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

It will be a Merry Christmas for two families in the west side market district. Thanks to the Good Fellows, there'll be toys enough for the children and there'll be food enough for all.

"Gee," said Frankie, 4, "we got a Christmas tree, and now we got all this, too." He looked at his dark eyed sister and brother as they went about opening the toys in business like fashion. He followed their example, but each toy was a revelation, a small wonder to put beside the Christmas tree.

At the second home the widowed mother of three wept with joy when the Good Fellows arrived. "And you brought food, too," she said. "That is good—O, that is good!"

One of her daughters and her son, 11, were helping wash the worn linoleum. The toys? Yes, they were fine. But the real thanksgiving came when the food box was opened.

SOME DRESSES FOR A DOLL

BY FLORENCE PRATT.

Sophia, 10, hadn't expected to be able to sew a fine seam, but when she spied a sewing kit in her Good Fellow basket she began to make plans for a spring wardrobe for her doll. Another daughter, 2, lost no time in claiming a miniature cleaning set and wielded both the broom and carpet-sweeper at the same time. The youngest member, 7 months, couldn't be sure what all the excitement was about, but she gurgled her delight as she captured any toy within her reach.

The solemn face of Gregory, 10, broke into smiles as he realized that an unexpected Christmas would last longer than a single day. Investigating his gift basket, he brought forth a printing set, a hand foundry, and games.

YULE WISHES COME TRUE

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

A toy submarine was the most intriguing thing in the Good Fellow basket, as far as Ronald, 5, was concerned. The whizzing propeller occupied his entire interest as his four brothers and sisters impatiently tore the wrappings from the other bundles to disclose a toy train, a fire engine, a fuzzy dog, candy, and dozens of other things.

Another family of five children, anging from 5 to 16, greeted the Good Fellows with hilarious enthusiasm. A doll, a printing set, a mechanical drummer boy, a trailer truck, and boxes of food overwhelmed them. The photographer stood in one corner of the room and snapped one picture after another of unposed children with jubilant faces—their Christmas wishes realized.

CHICAGO SCHOOL PLANT GROWS AS ROLLS DECREASE

Need New Facilities for Expanded Program.

Chicago's public schools gained facilities during 1940 to care for 7,800 additional pupils, while enrollment dropped 9,000 from 1939, Superintendent William H. Johnson said yesterday in reviewing the year's activities.

The drop in enrollment was attributed to Chicago's declining birth rate. Elementary enrollment has decreased nearly 30,000 in 10 years, Dr. Johnson said, citing the growth of only 12,000 in Chicago's population during the last decade. The lowered birth rate is evident first in elementary school enrollment, but is expected to affect high school enrollment figures by next year.

Since April, 1939, a total of 650 teachers have been dropped from the staff because of decreasing enrollment. In the last year 400 were dropped.

Expand Training Program.

Dr. Johnson explained that, despite the drop in enrollment, new facilities are needed, particularly to meet the demand for expanded vocational training.

A $6,029,000 building program provided the facilities completed this year. Outstanding new units are the $3,150,000 Chicago Vocational school at 87th street and Anthony avenue and the $1,134,000 South Shore High school at 76th street and Bennett avenue.

In addition, work was started on new projects for which appropriations total $6,536,000. However, no progress was made during 1940 on building projects for which $5,325,000 has been appropriated—including the contemplated Wilson Junior college building, to cost $1,750,000, and the $1,000,000 high school structure at 36th and Sangamon streets.

In a report submitted to the school board by Howard P. Savage, business manager, an increase of $4,735,277 in taxes levied for school purposes was said to be necessary for 1941 in order to maintain the same service now offered.

Lose Gas Tax Funds.

The largest recommended increase is $3,750,000 in the educational fund, which will lose $2,300,000 in fuel taxes in 1941 as a result of the state's discontinuance of its motor fuel tax allotments to schools. The increase would require an act of the state legislature, since the levy is currently pegged at $48,000,000.

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, said he is certain the board will ultimately reject the proposed levy increase, and that the 1941 budget probably will show a decrease, rather than an increase, in total expenditures.

Dr. Johnson said the major revision contemplated in the teaching program will be in commercial studies, where new emphasis will be placed on preparing graduates to accept jobs as soon as they leave school instead of giving them generalized training.

About $50,000 will be spent in 9 or 10 high schools to set up practice offices for commercial students.

OVERHAUL TAXI ORDINANCE; CUT EVANSTON FARES

The Evanston city council last night adopted enough amendments to the recent taxicab ordinance to create practically a new one. The aldermen set the flag pull at 10 cents for half a mile, with subsequent half miles at 5 cents each. They abolished the taxicab commission, dropped the charge for extra passengers, and prohibited flat rates.

The result is that it will be slightly cheaper to ride in independently owned cabs than heretofore, while a ride in a company owned one will cost 5 cents more.

A proposal to remodel Fountain square, offered by City Engineer Z. A. Faulkner and George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, was sent to the street commission, which will report next week. The plan would move the fountain about 30 yards east, enlarge the grounds around it, and extend both the pavement and sidewalk of Sherman and Orrington avenues and Davis street.

IDENTIFIES DEAD MAN AS ROBBER HE HIT IN HOLDUP

A coroner's jury yesterday was unable to determine the cause of the death of Frank Petek, 33 years old, 724 Scott street. Petek died Sunday after he was found unconscious in the hallway of a first aid station at 1216 North Halsted street. Police said they believed he had been left there by a hit and run driver.

Later yesterday, however, Louis Friedman, proprietor of a liquor store at 4235 West 26th street, attracted by the description of the dead man in the papers, visited the morgue. He identified Petek as the gunman who on Friday came into his store and announced a holdup.

Friedman said he distracted the robber's attention, knocked the gun from his hand, and slugged him with a bottle as he fled out the front door. He said, however, that he didn't think he hit hard enough to be responsible for the robber's death.

Two Arraigned After U. S. Agents Seize a Still

Two men seized Friday by agents of the federal alcohol tax unit were arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday and ordered held to the federal grand jury in bonds of $1,500 each. They are Samuel Concialdi, 45 years old, 628 North May street, and Frank Ernesto, 39, of 630 North Racine avenue. The agents found a still and seized 6,400 gallons of mash and 128 five gallon cans of untaxed alcohol in a garage behind 5707 South Massasoit avenue.

SCHNEIDER, AIR DAREDEVIL, DIES ON TRAINING HOP

New York, Dec. 23 (AP). — Edward Schneider, 28 years old, a flying instructor who had challenged death scores of times as a transcontinental speed record breaker and as a flying soldier of fortune in the Spanish civil war, was killed today in a routine training flight with a pupil.

Schneider and the student, George W. Herzog, 37, drowned in an inlet of Jamaica bay near Floyd Bennett field when their plane went into a spin after a collision with a navy trainer, 600 feet above the field. Ensign Kenneth A. Kuehner, 25, of Minister, O., pilot of the navy plane, landed with little damage. Neither Kuehner nor his passenger, Second Class Seaman Franklin Newcomer, 25, of Rochester, O., was injured.

Schneider, who learned to fly at 16, set a new junior speed record of 29 hours and 41 minutes from Westfield, N. J., to Los Angeles, Cal., in 1930. A week later he smashed two other records with eastward flights.

GREEN PROPOSES TO END POLITICS IN STATE RELIEF

Drafts Plan to Create a New Agency.

Creation of a new agency to eliminate political discrimination and other injustices in the administration of relief will be recommended to the Illinois general assembly by Dwight H. Green in his inaugural message or in a special message soon after his induction as governor.

Green told a press conference yesterday that he has no evidence in support of rumors that informal charges that the handling of relief now is injured by political influence or similar causes but that he hopes to find out whether such reports are true or false. He also intends, he said, to ask for the creation of a board of appeals and complaints to hear from persons on relief and persons refused relief who feel they have been unjustly treated.

Provides for Two Agencies.

Under this plan the first body to be set up, provided the assembly follows his recommendation as expected, would be a joint committee of the senate and house of representatives, which would look into the entire field of relief.

If the joint committee should find the relief administration is too bulky to permit of the speedy handling of grievances and emergency matters, the second body, the board of appeals and complaints, would be established.

The governor-elect said plainly that he is not thinking of causing an investigation in the sense of an inquiry leading to wholesale ousters and possibly prosecutions. Instead, he intends to ask the legislators to gather all the information possible—favorable as well as unfavorable—about the administration of relief so they and the administration will be equipped to deal with the situation intelligently.

Seeks Short Cut to a Hearing.

Green said some of the unfavorable comment he has heard in recent months has been that rulings of subordinates frequently are final and that an aggrieved citizen has no recourse such as an appeal to a higher authority. If this is true, he said, a short cut to a hearing by higher authority should be created.

He also has heard of dissatisfaction aroused by the long delay incurred when a reliefer takes temporary work, leaves the relief rolls, and then, after his short time job is finished, attempts to get back on relief. He believes such delays should be reduced to a minimum.

Green also said there will be no general cleaning out of state employés the moment he takes office. He said his program will be one of gradual replacement.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 23 (AP). — Engagement of Margaret Roach, film actress and daughter of Producer Hal Roach, and Geoffrey Steele, airplane company executive, was announced today by the couple. VETERAN STATE POLICEMAN NEW CHIEF OF FORCE

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 23 (AP).—Gov. John Stelle today designated Lieut. Jesse Grissom of the Effingham district to be chief of the Illinois state highway police succeeding Walter Williams, whose resignation will take effect Jan. 1.

Lieut. Jesse Grissom.

Grissom, 63 year old veteran police official, has been an officer of the state police since 1933 when he joined the force as a sergeant. He is a former sheriff and county treasurer of White county and former mayor and chief of police of Carmi, his home city.

Gov. Stelle announced the choice of Grissom to succeed Williams at a luncheon for 40 state police officers at the executive mansion. The luncheon was in honor of Williams, who will become superintendent of guards of the government ordnance plant now under construction near Wilmington, Ill.

STORE'S TRUCK HIJACKED; 400 PARCELS TAKEN

Frank Barlov, 3625 Ravenswood avenue, a truck driver for Marshall Field & Co., and James Kovacevich, his helper, were held captive for an hour yesterday while two men hijacked their load of 400 packages. They had just driven from the company garage at 601 Polk street when the hijackers boarded the truck at Cortland street and Elston avenue, where Barlov stopped for a traffic light. The two employés were forced to lie in the rear of the truck after being blindfolded. Barlov's blindfold slipped later as his captors drove into a private garage where the truck was unloaded. He and Kovacevich were then driven in an automobile to Ashland and Wellington avenues.

C. I. O. CHARGES A. F. L. PLOT WITH WPA; ASKS QUIZ

Workers Are Hired for Fee, Then Fired, Says Official.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23 (AP).—A. D. Lewis of the C. I. O. asked the federal works agency today to investigate reports that A. F. of L. building trades officials, "with the sanction and active assistance of the WPA," were forcing WPA workers to pay work permit fees to get jobs on army cantonment projects in southern California.

A. D. Lewis.

In a letter to John Carmody, administrator of the agency, Lewis, head of C. I. O. construction workers' union, discussed what he called the "exploitation of WPA workers" and said it demanded "vigorous action on the part of your office."

A "Collusive Arrangement."

Lewis said reports from "reliable sources" indicated that a "collusive arrangement" existed between officials of WPA, the Associated General contractors, and the A. F. of L.'s building trades department by which labor was taken from WPA rolls, charged a fee for a work permit, and then let go after a few hours or a few days.

After that, Lewis asserted, these men "cannot return to WPA and are left penniless and their families destitute."

The army camps are being constructed for the government by private contractors.

A "Shocking Angle."

"Another shocking angle of this situation," Lewis wrote Carmody, "is the fact that employment on these projects is absolutely denied to members of the United Construction Workers' Organizing committee, an affiliate of the C. I. O.

Philip Connelly, president of the California State C. I. O. council, who conferred with Lewis, told newspapermen that the WPA workers taken from the relief rolls were asked for a $5 or $10 down payment on work permits costing from $25 to $100, depending on the type of craft.

PARKED TRUCK ROLLS BACK AND CRUSHES DRIVER

John Ross, 45 years old, 2545 North avenue, a truck driver, was injured yesterday when his truck, parked on an incline at 411 South Market street, rolled back and crushed him against another truck as he was unloading merchandise. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital.

Jack Smith, 62, of 1627 South Drake avenue, was killed by a truck in Homan avenue at 15th street. The driver was John Kovak, 2452 South Trumbull avenue.

John Parker, 57, of 2956 Emerald avenue, a laborer, was found dead at 30th and Halsted streets, apparently the victim of a hit-run driver.

John Wojasinski, 62, of 9535 Commercial avenue, a WPA worker, died yesterday in the South Chicago hospital of injuries suffered Sunday at 92d street and Commercial avenue when he was hit by a car driven by Demetrio Capachulios, 3506 Main street, East Chicago, Ind. Witnesses said Wojasinski was crossing against the red light.

Otis Hanson, 29, colored, 4646 Evans street, died in St. Mary's hospital, Kankakee, the second victim of an accident Saturday near Kankakee in which a truck overturned and burned. The other victim was Dan Waddy, 35, colored, of the Evans street address.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 873 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 639 were killed in Chicago, where 23,338 were injured during the same period.

FLORENCE SCOBIE LEAVES $250,000 IN TRUST FOR CHILD

The will of Mrs. Florence Yates Scobie, 730 South Ridge road, Lake Forest, disposing of an estate of $250,000, was filed yesterday in the Lake county Probate court at Waukegan.

The estate will be placed in trust. The will provides that Mrs. Scobie's daughter, Diane, 8 years old, is to obtain the income from the trust until she is 40, when she will receive the principal. Letters of guardianship were issued to the child's father, David P. Scobie, an insurance broker. He was divorced on the ground of desertion Nov. 29. Mrs. Scobie died Dec. 19 in New Rochelle, N. Y., following an operation.

Mrs. Scobie, once known as the "richest woman in Wisconsin," inherited a trust estate of several million dollars from her father, Porter B. Yates, Beloit manufacturer. This fortune is not involved in her will.

J. T. DEMPSEY SR., FATHER OF G. O. P. LEADER, IS DEAD

He lived at 3012 Logan boulevard. Mr. Dempsey, who was 73 years old, was born in the Logan Square district, and lived there all his life, engaging in the paint and varnish business. He was president of the Logan Square Athletic club for 21 years. He leaves two sons, John T. Jr. and James E. The funeral will be held at 9:15 a. m. FACES CHARGES IN BARBER SHOP WRECKING TODAY

George Arger, 30 years old, a member of the bartenders' union, who confessed wrecking the interior of a non-union barber shop a week ago, will be arraigned in Felony court today on charges of robbery and malicious mischief. Arger said his motive was robbery. Emil Erickson, owner of the shop at 2003 Sedgwick street, said he thought the vandalism was due to union trouble.

Arger lives in a hotel at 2054 Lincoln avenue and Sergt. Patrick Coughlin of the Hudson avenue police received a tip yesterday that a man associated with terroristic acts against nonunion barber shops was in room 424 there. In that room detectives arrested Robert Smith, 19, of 2606 Lincoln avenue; Joseph Stadlwieser, 18, of 1877 Orchard street; Carlo Cacioppo, 18, of 716 Blackhawk street, and a young married woman said to be a friend of Cacioppo's.

They also found two pistols Smith admitted were his and that he rented the room. He also said he had served time in the St. Charles School for Boys. Stadlwieser said he had been there also.

LAUNDRY OWNER ROBBED.

PRICE FOR BUSES TO BE LEFT OUT OF TRANSIT PERMIT

Indications were given yesterday at a meeting of the council committee on local transportation that a price limit for the purchase of the Chicago Motor Coach [bus] company will not be incorporated in the unified transit ordinance.

This is one of several items that have been delaying the committee's expected approval of the ordinance. At yesterday's meeting Ald. Frank Keenan [49th] offered an amendment that the price of the company's holdings should not exceed 5 million. The company is demanding 10 million.

Ald. James Quinn [50th], chairman of the committee, argued that if a price limit is included in the ordinance the Chicago Surface Lines would not accept it. Ald. George Kells [28th] argued that a proper valuation probably would be set by the federal government when it considers the city's request for a transit loan. Ald. Keenan withdrew his amendment.

All Is Quiet on Social Front Christmas Eve

BY JUDITH CASS.

CHRISTMAS eve, the one night in the year when every one observes the tradition that home is the best place to be, is here again. Actually one may not be planning to be at home until time to go to sleep, but there are no large parties planned. Not even for the debutantes. Mr. and Mrs. T. Kenneth Boyd and the Gilbert H. Scribners will give a supper tonight at the Indian Hill club for their debutantes, Peggy Boyd and Gertrude Scribner, the young women who will assist at the girls' debut this afternoon, and enough escorts to make the party fun, but the hosts are saying emphatically that it is an early supper so that their young guests can go home to spend Christmas eve with their families.

Debut Will Be Tea-Dance from 4 Until 7 o'Clock.

The Scribner-Boyd debut will be a tea-dance from 4 until 7 o'clock at the club in Winnetka, where both families reside. Miss Boyd is a Wellesley student and Miss Scribner goes to Pine Manor. Miss Scribner will be gowned in gold and white metal cloth, banded in mink, and her flowers will be red camellias. Miss Boyd's gown is of turquoise blue taffeta, made from silk which her grandfather brought from Florence 10 years ago. The bodice is hand painted in silver and gold leaves, and the skirt is overlaid with tulle. Her flowers will be camellias also, but pink ones.

The 55 members of the Yale Glee club, who will arrive this morning, have been invited to the Boyd-Scribner tea-dance. One of the hosts, Mr. Scribner, was graduated from Yale in 1912. Before going to Winnetka the visitors will attend the annual Fathers and Sons' luncheon of the Yale club of Chicago at the Palmer House.

After the tea-dance the sons of old Eli will go to the home of a recent Yale graduate, Walter L. Cherry Jr., in Winnetka for a buffet supper, and later tonight they will attend the Christmas dance at the Country club of Evanston. The concert is tomorrow night in Orchestra hall.

Mrs. Arthur M. Wirtz Giving Luncheon for Debutante.

Mrs. Arthur M. Wirtz will be a luncheon hostess today at the Arts club for Debutante Muriel MacChesney. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Wirtz will entertain at dinner for another debutante, Eleanor Norris. After dinner Mr. and Mrs. Wirtz will take their guests to the Stadium to see Sonja Henie's Ice Revue.

Members of the Tavern club and their guests will rally "around wassail bowls of eggnog and Tom and Jerry" between 5 and 7 o'clock today, as is their custom on Christmas eve. This annual party, at which there are delicious snacks, and strolling musicians, always is one of the largest parties of the club season.

The I. Newton Perrys are delighted that the departure of the 106th cavalry for Camp Beauregard, La., has been postponed until Jan. 3 for this means that their son, Serg. Brewster Perry, will have Christmas at home. Their other son, Newton Jr., will be here just for Christmas day for he and his orchestra have engagements to play in eastern cities every other day during the holiday season. Christmas will be no holiday for "Newtie" and his musicians, however, for they are playing tomorrow night at Miss Eleanor Norris' supper-dance at the Racquet club.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank Having Family Party.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank is going to have her first party in her newly "done over" house in North State street tomorrow when her family and that of her sister, Mrs. Cecil Barnes, have Christmas dinner with her. The two houses that the late Mr. Fairbank and his family occupied for many years have been cut up into two residences and after May 1 the John Carey Murphys will occupy the smaller of the two. Mrs. Fairbank has retained the entire fourth floor of both houses, the third and first floors of the north house and the whole front of the second floors, which is a beautiful, big living room.

Mrs. Fairbank discontinued her customary New Year's at home after Mr. Fairbank's death and she is not resuming them this year.

Some of the many holiday visitors are Mrs. Brown Whitman and her two sons, Allen Jr. and Johnston, who have come from New York to spend the holidays with the boys' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Brown; Mr. and Mrs. David R. Fall of Asheville, who are at the Drake; Mrs. Charles E. S. Clarke of New York who is with the John F. Jalkes in Lake Forest; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Wierdsma and her three children, Barbara, John, and George Drake of New York, who are visiting Mrs. Wierdsma's father, Frank O. Lowden, at Sinissippi farm near Oregon, Ill.

Daughter Is Born to Mrs. Edward T. Herndon.

Telegrams of congratulation are being sent to the Doctors' hospital in New York City, where Mrs. Edward T. Herndon and her new daughter, Barbara Whitcomb Herndon, will be staying for the coming week.

Young Barbara was born on Friday. Her maternal grandparents, the Harry C. Holloways of Glencoe, have not seen her yet, but Mrs. Holloway plans to go east shortly after the first of the year. The former Ruth Holloway and her husband also have a little boy, Edward T. Jr., who is two and one-half years old.

The children's uncle, Larz Holloway, recently returned home from New York, where he studied voice last year. His training in Paris was interrupted by the outbreak of the Maugham's Next Book.

Somerset Maugham whose arrival in Chicago accompanied by his secretary, Gerald Haxton, was a surprise to literary circles, is at work on his next book here. Maugham is writing a personal diary of the first year of the war that will include his observations after a general tour of France and his experiences during bombardment in London in September.

Maugham writes in his apartment at the Ambassador hotel every day between 10 and 1 o'clock. He writes in long hand—in a hand "not too clear"—and his secretary types the sheets. He had become interested in broadcasting since his arrival in America. The author of Of Human Bondage had never made a broadcast until he went on the air in New York to describe his escape from Nazi France, but it turned out that he has a good voice for it and he enjoyed the new experience.

Maugham left Cannes on a ship that had discharged its coal at Marseilles and had expected to take on a cargo of iron ore when the British government ordered it to Cannes to take on refugees. The ship had accommodations for a crew of 38, carried some 500 refugees and took 20 days to reach England.

The refugees queued up for their bully beef and four biscuits and water was too precious to be used in bathing, even had there been bathing facilities. Every evening the famous author told his friends a little story, and since he is one of the great story tellers of the world, that must have made the hours pass positively agreeably. He told how they played "Patience" with cards that grew more grubby daily. And he read The Trial and Death of Socrates which he had brought with him. He knew those dialogs pretty well, he said, but they acquired new and moving significance, read under those circumstances.

At the Perfume Counter.

The woman standing next to Elizabeth Moran at the perfume counter of a Michigan avenue shop addresesd her companion. "Here's 'My Sin,'" she said. "It's old, but still it's nice."

Letter to Santa.

A little patient at Passavant hospital who is ill with nephritis and who is receiving care through the Kenneth Smith fund, wrote a fine polite letter to Santa Claus. He inquired about Santa's health and expressed his wish that Santa would have a fine Christmas. Then he added that he would like a red racing car set "in which I can set and pump. If you have the time and money I would like some games, a set of Lincoln logs and a blue scooter and brakes." He signed the letter "Your friend and adviser, John Mehis, 5143 South May street, Chicago," then added a postscript: "I forgot to tell you, Santy, please send my games to the hospital and the big stuff home."

The nurse who took his letter down to mail decided with other nurses in the ward to open it. Then the nurses took up a collection and played Santa to John.

Tea, Dinner and Supper Dances Introduce Debs

Yesterday's debut festivities included Miss Angeline Lorene Johnson's tea-dance, Miss Frances Amberg's dinner-dance, and Miss Mary Ann Wyman's supper-dance. Miss Johnson and Miss Amberg were making their formal bows to society, but Miss Wyman made hers earlier in the season at a tea at the Fortnightly. Her dance last night was given at the Casino by her grandmother, Mrs. William K. Kenly, with whom she lives. Miss Wyman was the typical debutante in white tulle with red camellias.

Miss Amberg and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold V. Amberg, received their dinner guests at the Racquet club, the bud wearing traditional white and carrying white orchids. Her gown was of net with sequin trimming.

Miss Johnson and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wallace Johnson, entertained at the Woman's Athletic club. The debutante wore peach slipper satin trimmed with tulle bandings and apple blossoms and carried camellias in a deeper shade than her dress.

Miss Johnson is a student at Pine Manor; Miss Amberg is a Smith college girl, as is Miss Wyman.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Understandably enough there haven't been many new perfumes in this historic year. The creation of a fine perfume involves much more than a manufacturer's decision to give the public something new. Concentrates, attars and essences are not obtained by pressing a button. One fine perfume might, in its blending, mean that the perfumer has need of essential essences of roses from Bulgaria, jasmin from the south of France, bergamot from Italy, sandalwood from Siam. You can understand why many perfumers believe that there are lean years immediately ahead, and why they guard the essential ingredients on hand!

Perfume, at least in our eyes, takes on a new value these days. We bemoan our wastefulness of it in other years—and we treasure the new ones that are rich and beautiful and in the old tradition of being symphonies in fragrances.

One we particularly love is quite new. It's simply bottled, simply named, but there is nothing simple about its composition. It's sophisticated, even a little bit exotic. It's the kind of scent you want to wear when you're dressed to the nines and have that inner conviction that you are—or could be—a prr-etty fascinating little number!

The man who makes this perfume told us that black jet—which is such an important motif in the fashion picture—suggested it. And it does have the sleek, rather dramatic dash that jet has as a costume accent. It wouldn't do for your 15 year old daughter, but for the woman adult in taste and dress it's wonderful.

Universal day—There should be plenty of electricity in the air today making things hectic for the unwary. Don't let nerves get the upper hand. Be flexible.

January—Those going into a five-year this year out to find January a load for their shoulders. Their sense of responsibility will be increased and they may find themselves under heavy obligations. To start the year off right they should serve gladly and willingly, sacrifice their own personal freedom for the sake of the job, family, or nation, because they have a year that promises more personal freedom as the months progress, so they will forget about the extra duties of the first month. Manage efficiently if you are asked to do so, or if you feel it necessary to take up the reins for the time being. You'll get your reward in pleasant surprises later.

Surprise Bride

MRS. DANIEL LAVEZZO JR.

Mrs. Daniel Lavezzo Jr. was Miss Lela Ellis until her sudden marriage on Sunday. The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John D. Ellis of Kenmore avenue and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lavezzo of New York and Greenwich, Conn., were married in Geneva, Ill., shortly before noon. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Tracy, who reside in Algonquin and are the bridegroom's brother-in-law and sister, were the only guests at the wedding. After telephoning the bride's parents, Mr. Lavezzo and his bride departed for New York to spend Christmas with the former's parents.

Program Appears to Be Too Much for Illinois Symphony

The Illinois Symphony orchestra seemed defeated by the indigestible program it played in the Great Northern theater last night. Christmas music, sacred and secular, rubbed elbows with American and French compositions of totally unrelated character.

An "Adoramus Te" by Ingegneri [attributed on the program to Palestrina] and a "Sanctus" by Palestrina were played for the first time in orchestral transcriptions by Russell Harvey that were completely sacrilegious. These were followed by one of the Rimsky-Korsakoff's weakest works, the "Christmas Eve" Suite, which demanded a more scintillant performance than it received to hide its musical deficiencies.

Esther Payne was heard as the soloist in John Alden Carpenter's Concertino for piano and orchestra—a work, which for all its cleverness, has become dated. Miss Payne handled the complicated rhythms of the piece with ease and an infectious sprightliness, that won her an excellent response from the audience.

Three Christmas carols by Bach and three by Peter Warlock were contributed by the Illinois Philharmonic choir under the direction of Adalbert Huguelet, and the concert was concluded with Ravel's "Alborada Del Gracioso" and Dukas' "The Sorcerer's Apprentice." Ralph Rose conducted the program except for the choral selections.

Good Morning!

KIND: A story of the inside workings of airplane factories and the men who finance, design, make, and fly planes for military use. . . .

ACTING: Excellent. . . . Kent Taylor shows up best as a smart young factory executive and designer. . . . They should give us Mr. Taylor in more and better movies. . . . Richard Dix, excepting for the fact that his voice records poorly, does a nice job as an ace stunt and test flyer who goes on the rocks, but—just in time to save a lot of things—makes a grand comeback. . . . Donald Briggs presents a memorable bit of work as another test pilot—with a bad disposition. Grant Withers appears in many scenes and says a line now and then. . . . Creditably enough. Is he being groomed for return engagements? Edmund Lowe delivers. So does Wendy Barrie as sister of Dix and sweetheart of Taylor. . . .

STORY: I think I've given you an inkling of it—or, at least enough of one—already.

DIRECTION and PHOTOGRAPHY: Splendid. There are some thrilling scenes in the sky. . . .

Settings, etc., informative and convincing.

AUDIENCE APPEAL. Considerable, I'd say.

See you tomorrow.

The Odor of Violets

By Baynard Kendrick

[Copyright: 1940: By Baynard Kendrick.]

SYNOPSIS.

Leaving their house guest, Chell Scott, Norma Tredwill goes to the city to break up the romance between her libertine ex-husband, Paul Gerente, and her stepdaughter, Barbara. She sees Barbara leaving Paul's apartment and discovers Paul murdered. Duncan Maclain, blind detective, receives a visitor who claims to be Gerente with orders in code from the naval intelligence. On a hunch, Maclain goes to Paul's apartment and finds Cameron with the dead man. Cameron lives in the apartment below Paul's and he confesses to the murder, claiming a girl, Hilda Lestrade, witnessed it, but Maclain doubts his story. Norma longs to ask the advice of Bunny Carter, head of the aircraft works where her stepson, Gilbert, is a designing engineer, but does not dare for fear of implicating Barbara in the murder. In Gilbert's workroom some one pushes a wardrobe on Norma. Col. Gray, head of the New York defense plans, commissions Maclain and his partner, Spud, to investigate spy activities in connection with the murder and the bombing sight Gilbert Tredwill has designed. Maclain goes to the Tredwill home with his two seeing-eye dogs, ostensibly to solve Barbara's disappearance. He discovers Gilbert's bombing sight plans have been traced and learns from Norma that she thought Bella, the maid, was hiding behind the wardrobe and it was she who pushed it on Norma. Later Bella is found beheaded. Maclain came upon the odor of violets in Paul's apartment and finds it again about Bella. He concludes that violet perfume is a trademark in the Nazi spy system, but thinks Bella was killed because she was working for the intelligence, but pretending to work for the Nazis. Maclain questions Bunny Carter and drives with him out to the aviation plant where he hears Louis Madoc, a foreman, speak, and he realizes he is hearing the voice of the fake Paul Gerente, who visited him the night of Paul's murder. A perfume ad is mailed Norma from the House of Bonnee, and Maclain pockets it, sure it is a message in code. The laboratory tests fail to bring out any hidden message on the paper.

INSTALMENT XXXII.

IMPORTANT ADDRESS.

"Home now, Captain?" asked Al Rutgers when Maclain was back in the car.

"Except for one stop," the captain told him. "I want to go to a drug store at the corner of Albany avenue and Burton street. It's called the Ideal Drug company."

He settled back in the car. The 17 mile run into Hartford seemed distractingly long. Maclain doubted that the scented letter in the bag beside him could be a coincidence in the chain of events which had already cost two lives and which might cost many more. He was a firm believer in cause and effect and for a brief moment the fact that the ultraviolet ray had disclosed nothing weighed on him heavily.

He was finally convinced that Paul Gerente's murder, Babs' kidnaping, and the guillotining of Bella, the maid, were steps in a definite plan of some highly organized band. Such a band must have a source, some recognized headquarters. If perfume was their signal, then what better source, what better headquarters might be found than an outfit so innocent appearing as The House of Bonnee? Yet his test of the letter had drawn a blank.

His strong teeth clamped down tightly, setting his jaw into fighting lines. He was using weak tactics by hoping for carelessness in adversaries who had shown none so far. Code letters were careless when a message could be detected by the pet of every police department in the country—the ultraviolet ray.

A small touch of ice started at his neck and traveled slowly down his spine. Once again he was face to face with the name of that tiny flower. He began to trace its course: the odor on the Braille instruction; the odor in Paul Gerente's secret drawer; the odor in the darkness of the Tredwill hall; the scent on the letter in Norma's morning mail; the perfume in Bella's room, and traces of it with him right now in Bunny Carter's car. Then once again he had run against it unwittingly—the ultraviolet ray.

His clenched hand pounded impatiently on his knee. There must be some tieup, something about those violets, that would break the whole thing; some clew that would bring out a message cleverly buried in the letter from the House of Bonnee. He knew one man, or thought he did—Madoc, who had spoken to Bunny Carter at the plant, but that hung on a slender, easily broken strand—the inadvertent drawling of a vowel and nothing more. Far too little to set in motion the complicated machinery of G-2. He must wait. Piece by piece, like he built his puzzles, he must tie them up together.

"When I strike," he muttered viciously under his breath, "I can't be wrong, and I think I know the way to strike at them all."

The window slid back in front of him and Al Rutgers said, "Captain Maclain, here's your store."

Al Rutgers' swimmingly deep black eyes watched the captain questioningly as Schnucke preceded him from the car.

"The drugstore's to your right straight ahead," Al volunteered. "Can I be of any help to you?"

"Thank you, no. My dog will find the door."

Maclain gave a curt direction to Schnucke who followed the cleared off sidewalk up toward the Ideal drugstore, cautiously edging her master around a patch of snow covered ground.

Rutgers' close cropped military mustache made a straight dark line over lips set in a musing smile as Schnucke skilfully checked the captain at the pharmacy door.

Inside the store several girls were lunching in booths ranged along the wall. At the entrance of the tall, handsome figure moving so surely under Schnucke's direction, their chatter was suddenly stilled.

A white coated boy came forward immediately and said, "Can I help you?"

Maclain smiled his slow likable smile and said, "I'd like to talk to the proprietor."

"Mr. Kaufman's in back," said the boy. "I'll get him for you."

As the boy moved away Schnucke followed and led Maclain to a prescription counter at the rear of the store. The captain, in passing, touched comfortable leather seats at an elaborate soda fountain.

A moment later an amiable voice said, "I'm Mr. Kaufman. What can I do for you, sir?"

"You can help me very much perhaps." The captain shook hands and introduced himself. "I'm a private investigator from New York." He spoke in a very low tone. "My name is Duncan Maclain."

The proprietor waited expectantly.

Maclain continued, "I judge from the voices that I heard when I came in that there are a number of people in this store. Perhaps it would be better if I went in back with you."

"Certainly," said Mr. Kaufman with an air of surprise. "You'll have to come around the counter, I'm afraid. The opening is right in back of you."

He called, "Bill, will you show the captain thru?"

Maclain followed a directing touch on his arm, passed back of a counter with Schnucke pressed disapprovingly close to his leg, and entered a prescription room where the proprietor assisted him onto a long legged stool. Outside the chatter of the lunchers was resumed.

"I have a prescription here, Mr. Kaufman," said Maclain. He took a bottle from his overcoat pocket. "I believe it was filled by you."

The proprietor took the bottle from his hand and said rather nervously, "There was nothing wrong with it, I hope."

"Nothing, I'm certain," Maclain told him reassuringly. "This prescription was given by Dr. Trotter to a maid in the Tredwill home just west of Hartford. It occurred to me that she came quite a long way to have it filled. Her name was Bella Slater and I wondered if you happened to know the girl."

"I know her by sight, if she's the one who had that prescription filled. Is that any help to you?"

"Not much, I'm afraid," said Maclain. "I hoped her family might live around here. She's been killed, Mr. Kaufman, but apparently no one knows any more about her than you."

"Killed?" the druggist asked, shocked. "An accident?"

"Far from it, Mr. Kaufman. She was murdered in a particularly brutal manner. That's why I'd appreciate knowing any little thing you can tell me about her."

The druggist was silent for some time. Maclain could hear him fiddling with bottles on a shelf by his side. At last he said ruminatively, "I don't believe she lived anywhere around here. I've been in this spot for a good many years. It's only within the last few months she started coming into the store.

"Bill!" he called.

Maclain heard footsteps approach the prescription room door.

"Bill," said Mr. Kaufman, "do you know anything about a Bella Slater who's been coming here for the last few months once a week or more?"

"It was usually on Thursdays," said Bill, "and most of the time to register a letter, that was all."

Maclain slid down from the stool. "You have a postoffice here?"

"A substation," said the proprietor.

Maclain swung around in the direction of Bill's voice. "You don't by any chance remember the address on any of those letters?"

"We don't give out such information," said Bill.

The captain took a wallet from his inside pocket and flipped it open in his hand. "I'm here on government business."

For a few seconds there was only the sound of the proprietor clinking his bottle.

"Okay," said Bill. "It's all right by me. I know the address of all the letters she registered here. They all went to the same place—Box Q, Division Eight, New York City."

Flirtatious Husband May Need Flattery

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Miss Blake: We have been married for 16 years, and have two boys, 15 and 11 years old. My husband is 43; I am 36.

"Until this last year we have been a contented couple. Lately, however, I have noticed that my husband cannot pass another woman on the street without flirting with her, or eyeing her up and down so much that I'm getting more and more embarrassed for him.

"Please tell me what to do.

—B. A."

Your husband is now at that age when he feels he is losing his youth, and he wants to be reassured that he still is attractive and young. That's why so many husbands become involved with other women.

Give him all the pampering and flattery that you feel is wise. Altho he may be outraged at you for mentioning his indiscreetness, a gentle hint to him may make him realize how much he is embarrassing you by his actions. And the fact that you are a little jealous of him is certain to flatter his vanity.

Shirley Temple Due to Sign Thursday for Her Return to Films

Hollywood, Dec. 23 (AP).—Shirley Temple and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio are scheduled to sign a contract Thursday that will return the 11 year old star to the screen.

The studio and Shirley's mother, Mrs. George Temple, have had a tentative agreement on the contract for some time, but the signing has been postponed to enable Shirley to have a full year's vacation from pictures.

M-G-M officials said a musical in which Shirley would sing and dance and an original story of dramatic character are under consideration as vehicles for the little girl who once was the No. 1 box office attraction of the movies.

Doing last minute Christmas shopping on a budget that's badly depleted? Then you'll like to hear about some most attractive Illinois pottery that is available at wonderfully low prices. Among the many items, softly colored and gracefully shaped, are large, shallow flower bowls or fruit dishes, simple vases in powder pink, white, green and yellow, a decorative pink fluted oval bowl with a group of pert little china birds that go in the center and hold flowers, and a larger rectangular jar for Japanese arrangements.

I've found that Christmas dinner goes off beautifully if I plan it out carefully ahead of time and use the day before Christmas to get the meal well under way. Almost any project, a novel to be written, a house to be built, a garden to be planted, starts with a working plan on paper.

I like the card system. One card lists the dinner menu, and this one should be propped up in a prominent spot in the kitchen where it may be checked as needed. Another card lists the meal preparation jobs to be done ahead of time, such as preparing the cocktail, stuffing the fowl, making the dessert.

A third card lists the jobs to be done Christmas morning, potato peeling, vegetable and salad preparation, and other such tasks, in the order in which they should be done. A fourth card lists the household jobs which must be attended to or supervised by the hostess-cook. These usually include checking the linens, polishing glassware and silver, setting out the dishes which will be called into service. Usually almost everything on the fourth card may be attended to the day before Christmas. And it's such a blessed relief to awaken on Christmas morning with a mind unworried about the hurry of things to be done before the guests arrive!

If there's a maid or a willing daughter or son to help with the meal preparation, the card plan saves all kinds of bother, for each person's duties may be assigned in detail. And the hostess then may forget about them, provided her help is dependable.

As a sample of this card system, using the menu at the top of the column, this might be the "day-before duties" list:

1. Make [or buy canned] cranberry cocktail, place in covered fruit jar in refrigerator.
2. Pinfeather duck. Make dressing, stuff and truss duck, and refrigerate.
3. Make refrigerator roll dough, cover tightly, and store.
4. Bake or boil sweet potatoes in their jackets, cool, and refrigerate.
5. Clean celery and radishes, wrap in a damp cloth, and refrigerate.
6. Bake or buy angel cake.
7. Prepare lemon sauce and store in covered jar.
8. Bake mince pie for Christmas supper.

Just think how easy tomorrow's dinner getting will be if all this is accomplished today!

Borlands and Everitts Likely To Have White Christmas.

The Chauncey Borlands and the George Everitts are both fairly sure of a white Christmas. The Borlands and their daughters, Martha and Harriet, are in Framingham Centre, Mass., with the Barton F. Smart Jerkins and Blouses

WOMAN'S AND MISS' JERKIN AND BLOUSE.

Jerkins are the pet in campus and sports realms. Every smart young woman has at least one jerkin in her casual wardrobe. Such toppers come in a variety of styling, and today's pattern suggests three. Under a jerkin there must be a sweater or a blouse, and today's second pattern provides for that need, too. An extra provision is a skirt that comes with the blouse pattern.

Style No. 2798 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Hat designed for one adaptable size included in pattern. Size 16 jerkin requires 1¾ yards of 35 inch material for view A; 1½ yards for B; 1¼ yards for C.

Style No. 2996 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards of 39 inch material for short-sleeved blouse; 2 yards for long-sleeved version.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Child Requires Leisure Time for His Talent

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Do you sometimes think longingly of all that you would do for your children if you had a great deal of money? It's natural enough, but don't dwell on the thought, because wealth is not always an unmixed blessing for children, whatever the satisfactions it may bring to daults.

The particular angle I have in mind today is the fact that persons who have wealth are very likely to turn their children over to others to care for and educate, sometimes almost completely.

It is interesting in this connection to note that in certain studies that have been made, the children in families at the top financial levels do not come out nearly as well in health examinations as do the children of those of moderate and even lower than moderate incomes. They are as a group, not as well fed or as well nourished, according to statistics.

Something similar is true in regard to creative activity. A wellknown educator stated that, in his tremendously wide experience, creative work of any kind was at its lowest ebb among the children of the very rich. This he felt was due largely to the fact that the life which wealth more or less imposes on its possessors [that is, if the parents follow a "social pattern"] is reflected in the lives of the children. And this in one particular aspect, that of too heavily scheduling their children's days. It is convenient, as well as "the thing to do," to map out their time, rigidly filling every hour. Such a program is deadly to the creative instinct, which must have "loose time" and a warm, interested home atmosphere in order to well up on inspiration.

Don't over schedule your children.

A "List of Hobbies and Leisure Pursuits" is helpful to parents, teachers and children. Send a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Weekly Foot Treatment Is Beauty Duty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Why is it that, when we give our feet one home treatment, we don't adhere to our sworn resolution to repeat the performance at least once a week? But you know how it is, too tired, haven't the time. And the fact that our feet are behaving quite nicely for a change keeps us from repeating the treatment until we're forced to do so again in self-defense. On general principles, however, a weekly foot treatment should become a habit. It keeps away the aches and pains and is a beauty tonic.

If you don't know the technique involved in foot grooming, here's how you go about it.

Soak your feet for about 10 minutes in warm water, to which has been added enough foot soap to make swishy suds. Using a soft, yet sturdy, little foot brush, scrub your feet well. Rinse them in clean, warm water; then dip them repeatedly in cold, clear water. Dry with a Turkish towel, being certain to dry well between the toes. Next, massage a good foot cream into your feet. Grasp one foot with both hands beneath it and draw hands firmly up toward the ankle. Do this with each foot until the cream has been absorbed into the skin. [Note: Painful calluses may be fubbed off more easily, after the soaking and scrubbing, with pumice stone. The foot cream will soothe the tender skin after callus removal.]

To give yourself a pedicure, here's how: File, or clip, your nails straight across. Work back cuticle with tip of orange stick wrapped in cotton and soaked in cuticle oil. Rinse toes and wipe away loosened cuticle with bath towel. Separate toes with pieces of cotton and apply polish on dry nails.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 23.—In frequent periods Hollywood has been scandalized, terrorized, mesmerized, or vastly amused by "bad" boys. The Dead End kids were a caution. Mr. Rooney, now weighted down by some of the dignity becoming a box office champ, had his years as a hellion. Deserving a prominent place in a notable group of scamps is Twentieth Century-Fox's 14 year old find, Stash Clements.

Stash is a skinny little one-person edition of the Brooklyn boys. He is as bright as a big city sparrow, and sparrows have to be very bright to get along in big cities. He is astonishingly self-reliant, a coldly purposeful opportunist, and a good man in street fights. He sings tenor and baritone, having a trick voice which he developed in B. M. T. subways. He looks like an underfed waif who has taken a bad beating from life, when, as a matter of fact, he has had a joyful time giving life the beating. He should be a holy terror, but he isn't. He's a good kid. His language is the "dis" and "dat" of his home town, but he is well spoken toward his elders and obedient to his bosses and has caused virtually no trouble. True, he did beat up an English classmate in the school on the lot, but that's because he can't understand the English way of thinking and talking. "Can y' imagine?" he says. "I found out dat dose English are the original English! We're fakes. Honest."

Stash's first name is Stanley. His parents were Polish. His father died four years ago and his mother has remarried. Stash has three brothers, two sisters and eight nieces and nephews. His brother Benny came out here with him to be the pusher. "I push him along in his career," he says. Benny is short and husky and a good street fighter. A front tooth is missing and his left arm is tattooed. "I got it done on the Bowery. I was crazy in love," he explains in a tone of self-disgust.

Stash was brought here for a rôle in "Tall, Dark and Handsome" and he's so well liked at the studio that he has a new six month contract with options. So he's bringing his 20 year old brother, Joe, out this week. Joe resigned from the Civilian Conservation corps in order to come. Brother Benny had also resigned from the CCC, where he used to be a cook. The boys plan to take a small apartment where Benny can cook. "It's too expensive in a hotel," says Stash. "It's costing Benny and me two-fifty a day to eat."

Young Stanley says he always wanted to be an actor. Kids in school would kid him about this and he'd have to beat them up. He wrote a letter back to school and it was read three times in assembly. He wrote a postcard to a girl and was disgusted when she replied with a letter. "Dat puts me at a disadvantage," he grumbled.

Stash is a subway, street and saloon singer. He was head man of a gang of subway-car warblers. When anybody needed any money they'd jump the fence and deploy thru a train. They'd average 50 cents a car and when they got $15 or $20 they'd quit. Stash's mother saw little of his money, altho Benny was always borrowing. "I spent it," says Stash. "Boy, I had chow mein every day. And Coney Island! We'd sing on our way out there and then go on the rides. You know—a couple of rides and five bucks is gone. So we'd sneak onto the subway again and get some more money and come back." Stash is opposed as a matter of principle to paying for a subway ride except at the Lorimer street station in Brooklyn. The lady in the change booth was very nice and always hoped the boys would make a lot of money, and she'd give them dollar bills for their coins.

Stash hates agents because a guy who said he was an agent took him to a saloon and had him sing and pass the hat, and he took $2 out of the $10 pot. "I told you to come here," he said, "and 20 per cent is my end." Stash paid. In the next saloon the take was only $2. The "agent" took 40 cents. A waiter whispered to Stash to go to a place called O'Reilly's across the street. It was St. Patrick's day and Stash sang "My Wild Irish Rose" and got $20. The agent tried to take $4 and Stash quit him.

"He didn't tell me about O'Reilly's; the waiter in the other jernt did," he explains.

Stash's career began when he landed on a Maj. Bowes program. He was asked on the air what he wanted and he said he needed a tombstone for his father's grave, so a very swell tombstone guy in Essex street gave him one. Stash's eyes moisten with gratitude when he tells of this. And Maj. Bowes contributed $20 for erecting the stone.

Stash went to school, sang in subways, danced and sang on 42d street, New York, ate chow mein and fought. [He still takes boxing lessons from Benny.] He had a couple more shots on the Bowes program, finally went out with a unit. Forty bucks a week and he paid his own expenses. He was asked if he had to help pay for the teacher and he said, "No. I told 'em schooling didn't mean nothin' to me, so we had an understanding. I went to school, but I didn't pay."

Stash is excited this week on account of a new contract, the impending arrival of brother Joe, Christmas with the Rice family from Brooklyn [he works in a laundry, she in a store here] and the arrival next Saturday of Allan Namur. "He's m' protégée. He was one of my subway gang and now he's in a Bowes unit."

Flowers Ideal as Gift if She Has Everything

BY REA SEEGER.

Into the last stretch and there's still plenty of Christmas loot! When nothing clicks, try the florists. Flowers in the box, arranged in special pottery bowls and festive pots, a corsage for Christmas day, one of those princely gestures, an order to the florist for a box of flowers delivered every week-end, or the less lavish idea that of one large box every month during the coming year is the best idea yet for the lady that has everything.

Romantic corsage combines are white violets, Parma violets with a single gardenia in the center, blue violets with a single pink rose bud, two pale green baby orchids, a single white orchid, the kind with dramatic magenta colored lips, or a bracelet made of gardenias for the Christmas dance. Sunny yellow roses and white roses are especially distinctive shades to alternate with the Christmas red buds.

This year you'll see thousands of Christmas red gladioli ready for delivery, with springlike plants of azaleas, old fashioned begonias, gardenias and the decorative orange tree plants. A subtle compliment to a Scotswoman would be a heather plant. The most exciting plant gift is a pot of orchids ready for any exacting last minute remembrance.

Camellias in assorted colors, large and not so large gardenias, carnations, tulips, blue iris, anemones, snapdragons all hint of spring, but make superb Christmas gifts. Wreaths, green garlands to use for home decoration, and even the important Christmas tree will be found in the florist shops till the last hour of Christmas eve, and everything you select will be delivered in time.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Players who regard their own cards with warm affection and look upon a partner's with a sort of patronizing tolerance, rarely achieve satisfactory results. This is particularly true in defense. Many a defender, merrily cashing his tricks, completely forgets the pressure that he is putting on his own partner. Today's hand is an illustration.

Today's Hand

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	2 clubs	2 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

East probably held his breath when he overcalled with his far-from-robust holding, but the condition of the score impelled him to take some defensive action. West was quite right in not raising the clubs, despite the score. He shrewdly surmised that East might be stretching because of the situation, and another stretch by West might be disastrous. This point, incidentally, is worth noting, that there are many times when one partner should allow for a "neck-stretching bid" by the other.

West opened his highest club, and declarer allowed East's ten to win. A club was continued. Declarer won and cleared away the diamond ace. East established his clubs by another lead. Declarer now cashed his three good diamonds. With five tricks home and three to go, declarer could not tell, of course, that both high spade honors were in front of the A-J and therefore essayed the heart finesse for his fulfilling trick. The queen lost to East's king. East then cashed his two good clubs and, by so doing, sank the defenders' ship.

Before the first good club was led the five cards left in each hand had been:

NORTH

WEST

SOUTH

The first club lead [which was correct] gave West no difficulty; he merely blanked the J-10 of hearts, while dummy likewise threw a heart. The second club, however, put West in a vice. To let go a spade would establish dummy's ace-Jack; a heart would make the A-9 of hearts good.

Obviously, had East, after cashing one club trick, shifted to either a spade or a heart, the contract surely would have been defeated. Of course, the declarer could have discarded differently from the dummy had he known the adverse lay of honors, but the point was that with the existing position East's insistence on his own tricks had been fatal.

East could be certain that, unless West had spades and hearts stopped, two club tricks would not defeat the contract; if West did have them stopped, cashing the clubs would squeeze him.

New Trial of Iowan's Suit Against Soup Firm Denied

Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green yesterday overruled the Campbell Soup company's motion for a new trial in a case in which a jury last week awarded John L. Dick, of Colfax, Ia., $1,229 for a shipment of dressed chickens sent the soup company in 1939. The jury denied the soup concern's claim against Dick, operator of the now defunct Dick's Poultry company, for $36,506 which he was allegedly overpaid for chickens which the soup company charged were "weighted" with water.

SANITARY BOARD BUDGET SHOWS $846,229 BOOST

Need Higher Pegged Levy, Woodhull Says.

The 1941 corporate or operating budget of the sanitary district was presented to the board of trustees yesterday., It called for $8,600,645, an increase of $846,229 over the 1940 appropriation.

Ross A. Woodhull.

Two reasons for the increase were given by Ross A. Woodhull, president—a rise of $670,181 in general and fixed charges, and $241,779 added to the maintenance and operating division. The increase will necessitate an additional $500,000 in the pegged levy, he said, bringing that figure to $5,500,000.

"Last year our levy power was reduced beyond the amount requested [from 6 to 5 million] and as a result there has been a rise in the amount of unpaid bills carried over," Woodhull said. "That increased our general and fixed charges.

More Sewage Treated.

"Again, there has been an increase in the amount of sewage treated with a resultant rise in the totals spent for chemicals, power, and fuel. Altho there has been no increase in man power and expenses have been pared to the bone, it will cost more money to operate," he said.

There is a total of $900,000 of unpaid bills that must be carried into 1941, according to Woodhull, compared with only $273,000 of such bills in 1940. Last year there was also $600,000 on hand to meet the bills, while this year there is only $350,000, he said.

Cuts in Three Divisions.

Three divisions, law, engineering, and electrical, were reduced by a total of $66,160 in the budget submitted. At the next meeting of the board —Jan. 9—it is expected the budget will be authorized for publication with few changes. It then will be formally adopted at the next meeting.

Woodhull estimated that the district will handle a daily average of 350 million gallons more sewage in 1941 than in 1940, largely because of the expansion at the southwest side sewage treatment works. This plant was first placed in operation in 1939.

COURT SHOCKED; CLAIM FOR RENT IS THROWN OUT

The Appellate court expressed itself as shocked yesterday at the effort of a landlord to collect a full year's rent from a tenant because the tenant was one day late in moving.

The case was that of James A. Hirschfield, 2300 Lincoln Park West, a drug company executive, against the Commonwealth Building corporation, at 2920 Commonwealth avenue. On July 30, 1938, Hirschfield gave the corporation 60 days' notice that he would vacate his nine room apartment Sept. 30, 1938. He started moving on Sept. 27, the job taking in six vans of furniture and 40 barrels of household furnishings.

However, the last articles were not removed until Oct. 1—one day over the expiration of the lease, and Hirschfield was notified that he was considered a holdover tenant. The corporation sued him in Municipal court for $3,300 a full year's rent, and won a judgment of $1,100. The Appellate court set aside the judgment, with Justice John M. O'Connor in a concurring opinion, declaring that the landlord's claim "shocks the conscience of the court."

ARIZONA SHERIFF TO TAKE ELOPING GIRL BACK HOME

Wilma Gainey, 16 years old, who came to Chicago to marry a man she met on a train last summer, will be returned to her parents in Safford, Ariz., Central police said yesterday. Sheriff Emert Kempton of Arizona telephoned police that he would fly here for the girl. Miss Gainey was arrested Sunday when she stepped from a train at the La Salle street station. She told detectives she planned to marry Joseph Ballaman, 44 years old, a civil engineer who lives in New York City. Ballaman was held at the detective bureau pending Sheriff Kempton's arrival. Miss Gainey was taken to the juvenile detention home.

TWO ST. CHARLES INMATES SOUGHT AFTER ESCAPE

State police were searching yesterday for two fugitives who escaped Sunday night from the St. Charles School for Boys, and presumably headed for their homes in Alton, Madison county. The two are Harold Adams, 16 years old, and Louis Leo West, 15. Both are husky. School officials believe they climbed over the supposed escape-proof fence. For several days before their escape the two had been talking of spending Christmas with their families.

CASSIDY HAILS DOWNSTATE WAR ON RACE BOOKS

Many downstate people will have more Christmas money, Attorney General John E. Cassidy said yesterday, because his injunction fight against handbooks is "practically 100 per cent effective" in the 101 downstate counties.

Cassidy was hopeful about Cook county, but not ready to claim victory. He said he would prefer to get further reports before commenting on the effectiveness of Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien, who has led a search not too successfully for 1,380 persons named in the injunction.

"If this drive is carried thru," Cassidy said, "the only handbooks in Illinois will be sneak joints. Downstate the process servers not only have defendants named in the court order, but also other known violators not listed."

Owners of property rented by handbook operators also were credited with aiding in the drive. Cassidy said they have investments to protect, and are quick to respond to the present threat of padlocking property found to harbor handbooks in defiance of the injunction.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY ADMITS ATTACK UPON A WOMAN

Lawrence Knowles, 18 years old, a junior at the Tilden Technical High school, confessed yesterday he assaulted a young woman in the basement of her home on Dec. 10 in an attempt to rape her, police reported. Knowles lives at 1818 North Springfield avenue.

The woman, who is married and lives in the same neighborhood, told the police that she could not recognize her assailant. She said he entered the basement while she was washing, turned out the lights at the switch box and then struck her over the head with a blunt instrument. She broke away and gave an alarm. Her assailant fled.

Sergt. James Lynch of the Shakespeare avenue station seized the student when neighbors reported his suspicious actions. Samuel Papanek, assistant state's attorney, said Knowles confessed he had taken indecent liberties with a young girl a month ago. He will be arraigned in the Boys' court today.

Herrin, Ill., Dec. 23.—Mrs. Magdalene Oxella, 66, Johnston City, widow, died in the hospital here last night of burns received when fire destroyed her home. Her son, Jerry, who was visiting neighbors, carried his mother from the burning home but she died soon after arriving at the hospital.

Blame Broken Rail

Julesburg, Colo., Dec. 23 [Special].—Railroad officials today said a broken rail caused the accident last night in which seven passengers and two dining car employes were injured when the Union Pacific railroad's eastbound streamliner City of Los Angeles was wrecked six miles west of here. Only four units of the 18 car train remained on the rails.

The injured passengers included Alma L. Barnes, Montebello, Cal.; Violet Zimmerman, Philip Heitzman, Mrs. H. M. Ridgway and daughter, Sandra; Mrs. Esther H. Croft, all of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Wright H. Prickett of Long Beach, Cal. The injured crewmen are Lester Albert, a waiter, and Jack Alderman, chef.

Miss Zimmerman, Miss Barnes, Heitzman, and the two crewmen continued their journey to Chicago aboard another train after receiving first aid treatment. The others were brought to a hospital here for treatment and expected to be able to continue in a short time.

VALUE OF COUNTY PERSONALTY FOR 1940 DOWN 3.24 PCT.

John S. Clark, county assessor, late yesterday completed the personal property assessment for 1940, showing an assessed valuation in the entire county of $626,353,941, of which $553,735,637 is in Chicago and $72,618,304 in the country townships.

This is $20,993,033 less than the assessed valuation for 1939, a decrease of 3.24 per cent. The huge decrease will mean an estimated loss in actual taxes of $1,913,000, Assessor Clark said. He attributed the reduction to a Supreme court ruling exempting stocks of outside or foreign corporations which hold properties in Illinois.

The assessed valuation of $626,353,941 is 37½ per cent of the total personal property valuation of $1,691,155,570.

Msgr. Francis J. Magner Told of Appointment.

Msgr. Francis J. Magner, for the last 13 years pastor of St. Mary's church in Evanston, has been named by Pope Pius XII. as bishop of Marquette, Mich. This was announced in Washington, D. C., yesterday by Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States.

The Marquette diocese comprises the entire upper peninsula of Michigan. Bishop Magner will go to St. Peter's cathedral in Marquette after his consecration in Holy Name cathedral here by Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch, at a time yet to be arranged.

Plans Are Undetermined.

Msgr. Magner was notified of his appointment yesterday. He said he could not say how soon he would leave Evanston.

He was born in Wilmington, Ill., March 18, 1887. He attended St. Ignatius college, Chicago; St. Mary's college, St. Marys, Kas., and North American college in Rome. He was ordained in Rome May 17, 1913.

Msgr. Magner will succeed Bishop Joseph C. Plagens at Marquette. The latter has been transferred to the diocese of Grand Rapids, Mich. There are 80,000 Catholics in the Marquette diocese.

MRS. AGNES SYLVESTER.

William Sylvester, whose wife, Agnes, is suing for divorce, appeared yesterday before Judge Rudolph Desort to ask that she and their child, William Jr., 5 years old, spend Christmas in his home at 11201 Cottage Grove avenue. Mrs. Sylvester declined, but Judge Desort said William Jr., could stay with his father from 11 a. m., Christmas to 11 a. m., New Year's day.

Mrs. Sylvester's attorney, Norman Becker, then told the court that Sylvester, who recently quit one job to take another in the confectionary plant where his wife is employed, drives to work daily in an expensive car, while Mrs. Sylvester travels by trolley. Judge Desort ordered Sylvester to drop by her home at 6009 South Halsted street, take her to work at Cicero avenue and 66th street, and bring her home again nights.

No one mentioned that Mrs. Sylvester has an injunction which forbids Sylvester to talk to her. And that if he even says something about the weather some morning he'll be in contempt of court.

COUNCIL OF WAR LAW'S REPLY TO GANG'S DEFIANCE

Map Plans for Honest Union Election.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Nitti gang hostilities in the campaign for the election of officers of local 278 of the bartenders' union led to the calling of a council of war yesterday.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney offered the resources of his office to Circuit Judge Robert Jerome Dunne and Receiver Roy D. Keehn, who are to supervise the union election which is set for Jan. 6.

Keehn and his assistant, James U. Sammis, are to meet with Courtney and Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, at 11 a. m. today to map a defense program. Keehn and Sammis said they are determined to give the bartenders an honest election and an honest count.

Owns 100 Taverns.

They said the old Capone syndicate, now headed by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti and Danny [Public Enemy] Stanton, have a big stake in the election. It has been estimated the gang owns and operates nearly 100 taverns and night clubs in the city and uses them as outlets for their brands of liquor and beer.

After six months of battling with the authorities, during which time Nitti was indicted but was still able to defy the courts, the gang is now fighting desperately to control the union election, Courtney was told. They have threatened Keehn and Sammis and have spread terror thruout the membership of the union, the prosecutor was advised.

"My office will have a hand in that election," Courtney assured Keehn. "You will have all the help you need."

Further Aid Pledged.

Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Chicago crime commission, told Keehn that all civic groups are interested in seeing a successful outcome of the receivership.

An old poster was brought to light showing that more than 10 years ago there was a price of $1,000 on Nitti's head, offered by the Citizens' Committee for the Prevention and Punishment of Crime, an Association of Commerce group. The committee offered the reward for information leading to the arrest of "Frank Nitto, alias Frank Nitti, Capone gangster and fugitive from justice."

Today Nitti is more powerful and wealthy than ever, Courtney asserted, despite the fact he served a prison sentence for income tax evasion. He has always worked thru others, the prosecutor's reports declared, and consequently he seldom placed himself in jeopardy of arrest and prosecution.

GIVE AMERICA'S FINEST CIGARETTE

YOU'LL REALLY HEAR THE JINGLE BELLS THAT CHILDREN DREAM OF!

IN A COMMUNITY AS BIG AS THIS it will take Santa Claus a long time to fill all the stockings that are hung, for he'll try not to miss a single one.

And so, very late in the night, he'll be starting back north . . . with a jingle of bells . . . as Donder and Blitzen and the rest of the celebrated reindeer team go prancing away.

Children always hear those bells in their Christmas dreams. But, this year, they will really hear them. So will you . . . and quite clearly . . . if you get up early with the children. Or later, you'll hear them faintly in the distance.

Really and truly you'll hear jingle bells. They'll be on every Bowman steed . . . on all the many routes of Bowman.

Their merry music may recall other Christmases when Santa came down the chimney to fill your stocking. But what we intend them to do is to bring an extra thrill to youngsters all over town. Quite likely they'll do that.

You see, many little children have never heard jingle bells on Christmas morning . . . never really heard them!

Bowen vs. Steinmetz, 4:00 p. m.

Four teams gained the first round in yesterday's four of eight preliminary games of the University of Chicago's 23d annual high school basketball tournament at the Midway field house. Waller defeated Englewood, 51 to 24; Austin beat Phillips, 27 to 20; Von Steuben eliminated Medill, 34 to 19, and Morgan Park defeated Lindblom, 32 to 27. The remaining preliminary contests will be played this afternoon, starting at 1 o'clock, and first round games begin Thursday.

Bill Gardner scored 12 points to lead Waller to its triumph, a victory scored by a surprising margin. Waller held command thruout the contest, leading at the half, 29 to 18. Englewood exhibited greater speed early in the second half, but Waller increased its margin almost at will.

Builds Up Early Lead.

Austin, defending champion, used a fast break to whip Phillips. The west siders built up their final margin in the first half, leading 15 to 8, at the intermission, then held on during the two closing periods. George Felt sparked Austin's attack, scoring 10 points—one more than Roscoe Julian of Phillips.

Von Steuben had no difficulty in preventing Medill's first entry in the tournament from going beyond the preliminaries. Von Steuben held a margin of 19 to 10 at half time, and tacked 15 points onto that total in the remaining periods.

Ward Day's Top Scorer.

Irving Ward, colored center, proved the day's scoring star as he paced Morgan Park's tall team to victory in the day's most thrilling battle. The south siders piled up a 19 to 3 margin over their smaller opponents at the half, then were completely outfought when Walter Silko and Andy Federink led an assault that repeatedly pierced their defense in the last two periods. Lindblom outscored Morgan Park, 11 to 7, in the third period and 13 to 6 in the last quarter. The game ended with Ward's dropping in his eighth basket, which, with two free throws gave him a grand total of 18 points.

Waller meets Austin and Von Steuben plays Morgan Park in first round games Thursday. Today's remaining preliminaries match Lane with South Shore at 1 o'clock; Tuley with Farragut at 2 o'clock; Schurz with Foreman at 3 o'clock, and Bowen with Steinmetz at 4 o'clock. Lineups:

Joliet Captures St. George Tourney from Fenwick, 26-20

Catholic of Joliet put on a great rally in the closing minute and a half of play to defeat Fenwick of Oak Park, defending champion, 26 to 20, last night and thus become the winner of the seventh annual St. George preseason Catholic High school cage tournament in its first year of competition in the meet.

The contest, played before a capacity audience in St. George gym, was a thriller from start to finish with the champions trailing most of the time, until shortly before the end of the third period, when they took a lead which they held the rest of the way. Bob Murphy, forward, and Joe Schreiner, center, stood out as point getters for the title winners.

Johnny Kempfer, brilliant Mount Carmel forward, was given the most valuable player award, while Center James Kuppe of Woodstock, Ill., Bob Murphy, Joliet, and Jack Skene, St. George, forwards; and Bill Doherty, Fenwick, and Peter Kuhn, St. Michaels, guards, were selected members of the all-tournament team.

Fayette Scores for Fenwick.

Joliet started the contest as tho it was going to be strictly pitching practice when Bob Murphy, Bob Jahnke, and Joe Schreiner connected for field goals with less than two minutes played. Jack Payette, smallest man on the floor, connected for a close-in shot for Fenwick's first score and, after Murphy had missed a pair of free shots, Chuck Brady counted on a free toss and added a field goal. Burt Aamodt scored to tie the game up a half minute before the end of the first period.

Payette scored on a free throw to open the second period and Fenwick took the lead for the first time. Aamodt's field goal from the side made it 9 to 6 for Fenwick. Jahnke finally broke the ice to score a free shot for Joliet's first point in eight minutes of actual playing time. Aamodt added another field goal and Jahnke scored with another free one. Bill Doherty, one of the standouts of the tourney prior to this game, scored a free one, but Jahnke came back with a free throw and a field goal to make it 12 to 11 at the half.

Murphy Puts Joliet Ahead.

Murphy's one handed shot from the side gave Joliet the lead shortly after the start of the third period, but Aamodt tied it a minute later when he connected on a free shot and then sent his mates ahead with a shot from out beyond the free throw circle. Schreiner tapped in one of Murphy's wild pitches to tie it again, but O'Connell quickly changed things by scoring on Schreiner's foul. Murphy's goal from around the free throw circle gave Joliet a 17 to 16 margin at the end of the third period.

Schreiner, after his mates had gone thru much fruitless motion, hit from the side of the court, O'Connell counted a free toss but Murphy's field goal equalled that and Joliet owned a 21 to 17 advantage, with a little more than three minutes to play. Brady made a free throw and the count was 21 to 18. Joliet. With little more than a minute left to play, Murphy scored once on a violation and Schreiner and McCormick added field goals to give Joliet a 26 to 18 margin which Payette cut to three margin ended.

Kempfer Stars for Mt. Carmel.

In the contest to decide the winner of third place, Jack Kempfer, diminutive forward of Mt. Carmel, led his team to victory by counting fifteen points as the Caravan defeated Loyola, 49 to 34, for the highest score of the tournament.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 23 [Special].—Striking at what was termed "the backbone of the bookmaking business in California," agents of Attorney General Earl Warren's office and San Francisco police arrested three men here today. A fourth is being sought.

Booked were Martin Ereling, Leslie R. Jelinski, and Thomas J. Corcoran. Stanley Cohen, for whom a warrant is out, is being searched for.

The warrants, issued in Los Angeles, charged the defendants with criminal contempt of an injunction granted by Supreme Court Judge Emmett Wilson against bookmaking and distribution of all race track information.

MINNESOTA IS BEATEN, 37-32, BY CREIGHTON

Omaha Quintet Scores 4th Straight Victory.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 23 [Special].—Creighton university's basketball team defeated University of Minnesota, 37 to 32, tonight for its fourth straight victory.

For three quarters Creighton played just well enough to stay ahead; then Guard Will Warhol scored on a one hander to tie, 26 to 26, the first time Creighton had been caught. From then on it was Creighton's game. Minnesota held on until the score was 31 to 30, but a series of long shots and one handers, featuring Gene Haldeman, junior guard, built a 37 to 30 lead, and then Creighton coasted.

Don Carlson, junior forward who was the Big Ten's fourth leading scorer last year, was high point man tonight with 14. He beat out Haldeman with a free throw.

Each side had trouble penetrating the other's defense. Twice Minnesota substituted Stuart McDonald, bespectacled long shot specialist who made only one basket. Creighton was ineffective until it began cashing in on long shots, particularly Haldeman's from the front court line. Lineups:

JIM WILSON IS GIVEN PLAQUE FOR SERIES FEAT

Boston, Mass., Dec. 23 (AP).—Jimmy Wilson, new manager of the Chicago Cubs, was awarded the Paul H. Shannon memorial plaque tonight by the Boston branch of the Baseball Writers' association as the baseball player who performed the greatest individual feat of the season.

The writers cited Wilson's performance during the world's series, when he put aside his coaching job with the Cincinnati Reds to catch six of the seven games, calling the pitches in each engagement and piloting Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer to two victories each.

HARMON IS THE MAN AGAIN IN EAST-WEST GAME

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 23 (AP).—Football stars from the east and west, training for the annual charity game for crippled children New Year's day, went thru swift workouts today at their camps in Berkeley and Palo Alto, respectively. Officials said all tickets have been sold.

The easterners, coached by Bernie Bierman of Minnesota and Andy Kerr of Colgate, chalked up a two hour grind, which included running thru several plays. Tommy Harmon, all-America half back star from Michigan, was the principal ball handler.

Harmon Hub of Attack.

The east's main attack will center around the 1940 college gridiron hero. Coach Bierman described the Michigan ace as "one of the finest young men I've run across." He said Harmon reacted to various coaching methods so easily it seemed to be second nature to him.

Two drills, morning and afternoon, were scheduled for tomorrow.

The western squad, under Coaches Matty Bell of Southern Methodist and Orin [Babe] Hollingberry of Washington State knocked off two brisk practices and gave evidence of being much farther advanced than the eastern delegation, which, incidentally, has been established as a 2½ to 1 favorite.

West Likes Underdog Rôle.

The rôle of underdog was highly pleasing to Hollingberry, who recalled that every year the east team has been named the favorite, the west has won the game.

Pass plays were stressed by the westerners with Paul Christman of Missouri and Jimmy Johnson of Santa Clara handling most of the pitches.

Just to complete the list, the DiMaggios will be back, Joe with the Yankees and Dominic with the Red Sox. Christmas in the Heart.

The one who has a lighted tree
Bedecked and tinsel-bright,
Receives unnumbered greeting cards
With pleasure and delight;
Who has a table, richly filled,
Beneath his private dome,
And gifts from all the family,
Has Christmas in his home.

But the one who hears the angels' song,
Who lives at peace with man
And spreads the spirit of good-will
In every way he can;
Who shares the sorrows of mankind
God's peace to reimpart,
Who loves his neighbor as himself,
Has Christmas in his heart.
—Hilma E. Willis.

Christmas Crux.

Merry Christmas! shall resound
Around the world, 'tis true:
And I am none the less sincere
In wishing it for you.
And yet, how thrilling it would be Between the Yuletide sips—
If I could carve it in your soul
And grave it on your lips.
—John C. Vivian.

Christmas Wish.

May the road that leads to Christmas
Be paved with loving thought,
And lit with friendship candles
That years of trust have wrought.

May it be strewn with petals
Of fragrant wishes, too,
And sprinkled with the showers
Of dreams that did come true.

Christmas Jewels.

Ruby-red the blazing hearth,
Emerald green, the pine.
Golden topaz shines a star,
Each year at Christmas time.
Red for joy, and green for hope,
While gold brings peace to men.
Christmas jewels are meant for all
And come from Bethlehem.
—Virginia Pennock.

A Christmas Prayer.

O, Christ, who in the manger lay,
Many years ago,
Be born in all our hearts just now,
That we Thy love may know.

And may we ne'er refuse Thee room,
Like the keeper of the inn,
But ever seek and bring Thee gifts
As shepherds and wise men.

And help us, Lord, to live such lives
That other men may see
Us shining like the eastern star
To lead them unto Thee.
—Crystal Shoemaker.

At Christmas Time.

There is so much at Christmas
To make the season gay;
The gifts of kind remembrance
Kept secret for this day,
The cheerful wreath of holly,
A sprig of mistletoe,
The candles on the mantel
That shed their welcome glow.

But more than gleam of tinsel
Or fragrance of the fir,
There is within the Yuletide
That sets our hearts astir;
There is that friendly feeling
That seems to overflow
And make folk gay and happy
Wherever one may go.

Somehow at this glad season,
We understand for sure
That earth holds more of heaven
Than we have known before,
And gifts that hearts can offer
Of love and goodly cheer,
We prize above all others
When Christmas time is here.

ILLINI SPURT SENDS BATTLE INTO OVERTIME

Hawkeyes Conquer Michigan State.

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 23 [Special].—Bob Richmond, a senior guard, and Art Mathisen, a sophomore center, gave Illinois a victory over Notre Dame, 41 to 39, in an overtime game before 2,000 tonight.

Robert Richmond.

Richmond got 7 of his 11 points in a furious second half, making 5 of them in the last five minutes and the one that sent the game into overtime on Capt. Eddie Riska's fourth foul just before the gun.

Mathisen who had collected only 2 points in 40 minutes, dropped in 3 short field goals in the extra period, offsetting a hook shot by Notre Dame's Cy Singer, a sophomore.

Illinois Steps Up Pace.

The real story of tonight's fast action is told, however, in an Illinois surge that started with 11 minutes remaining. At that stage Notre Dame, which had led 21 to 16 at the half, held a 32 to 21 margin. Things then began to happen—and they continued to happen to the extent that Illinois scored 16 points against Notre Dame's 5 for the remainder of regulation time.

Vic Wukovits, South Bend junior, started Illinois' drive by making two successive free throws, but Bob Smith offset them with a hook shot. After Singer had scored on a follow-up shot, Walter Evers scored two baskets and a free throw, Richmond followed with three more goals, and Al Shirley, who relieved Mathisen briefly, dropped in a field goal. This activity made it 36-all.

Ryan Misses Free Throw.

Larry Ryan, Irish guard, then missed a free throw. Riska, whose 12 points sparked the Irish, sank one of his two shots on Richmond's foul and declined the second. A moment later, Richmond tied it on Riska's fourth foul. Wukovits missed a free toss, and the game went into overtime.

Mathisen then counted for Illinois, but Singer tied the score. Notre Dame refused the free throw on Capt. John Drish's fourth foul and Mathisen got his second field goal of the period with 1 minute and 15 seconds left. Notre Dame's one real opportunity thereafter ended when Richmond intercepted an Irish pass.

It was Notre Dame's second defeat in six starts and Illinois' second victory in three games. Lineups:

IOWA WINS, 40-34

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 23 [Special].—The University of Iowa maintained its unblemished season's record tonight, but was given a scare by Michigan State before the Spartans finally yielded, 40 to 34. The game was a closely fought contest in which the lead changed hands 11 times during the first half.

A brief scoring flurry midway of the second half gave the Hawkeyes a lead they were able to hold until the final whistle. Up to this point neither team enjoyed more than a two point margin. The great work of Milt Kuhl, giant Iowa center, pulled the Hawkeyes out of more than one tight spot, and he led both teams in scoring with 15 points.

Score Tied at Half.

The teams came onto the floor for the second half with the scoreboard reading 21 to 21. For five minutes the scoring was fast with Tom Chapman adding four points for Iowa and Frank Mekules and Bob Phillips matching it for the Spartans. Mel Peterson scored for Michigan State and Capt. Vic Siegel added three points to give Iowa a 28 to 27 lead.

Siegel continued to spark the Hawkeyes with five more points and along with two baskets by Kuhl and one by Chapman and Wendell Hill added 12 points to Iowa's total while the best Michigan State could account for were baskets by Peterson and Jones and three points by Petroski. Lineups:

RECORDS TUMBLE AS PRO FOOTBALL DRAWS 1,600,000

Three National League Cities Set Marks.

New York, Dec. 23 [Special].—The National Football league in 1940 maintained the rapid development that has made professional football the fastest growing major sport in recent years, President Carl L. Storck announced last night. A new attendance record was set when more than 1,600,000 watched the 55 league games, the title play-off in Washington, and 12 All-Star games and exhibition contests.

According to official attendance figures, just released, the regular championship season attracted a total of 1,309,027 and the title play-off drew 36,034. The combined 1,345,061 represents a 2.5% gain over the 1939 season.

Three Set Home Records.

The championship play-off was limited to 36,034, Griffith stadium's capacity. The Redskin management reported almost $100,000 was returned to disappointed ticket applicants.

In addition 257,250 attended 12 All-Star games and exhibitions in which league teams participated.

Washington, Brooklyn, and Pittsburgh established new records for home attendance.

On Nov. 3, the Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears performed at Wrigley field before 45,434 with more than 5,000 turned away. It was the greatest crowd ever to see a pro football game in Chicago.

The New York Giants again led the league with a total home attendance of 247,646.

The year's highest single game attendance was 54,997 for the Giants' finale with the Brooklyn Dodgers in the Polo Grounds.

Two Experience Decreases.

Two clubs reported drastic attendance decreases. They were the Detroit Lions, which encountered world series opposition necessitating a schedule readjustment and the handicap of a smaller stadium, and the Philadelphia Eagles, hurt by a nine game losing streak.

Home attendance by clubs and largest single game crowds:

Teams	1940 Attendance	Games	Largest Crowd
New York	247,646	7	54,997
Washington	195,142	6	35,231
Bears	143,471	5	45,434

HALAS WEATHERS APPENDECTOMY'S AFTER EFFECTS

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 23 [Special].—George Halas, owner and coach of the Chicago Bears, champions of the National Football league, who was operated upon last night for appendictis in St. Vincent's hospital, today was reported recovering in excellent style from effects of the operation. He is expected to be released from the hospital in 10 days.

Halas, who accompanied the Bears to Los Angeles, where on Sunday they will play an All-Star professional team recruited from the nine other teams in the league, had hoped to see Stanford meet Nebraska in the Rose bowl game on New Year's day.

Boxing Board Delays Action on Veck's Plea

Chairman Joe Triner and Commissioners Sheldon Clark and James R. Fitzpatrick of the Illinois boxing board yesterday postponed consideration of a protest filed by Promoter Alex Veck against a scheduled 10 round bout between Nick Castiglione, west side lightweight challenger, and Davey Day in Chicago Stadium Jan. 10.

Veck's petition declared that by signing for the fight under the auspices of Bill Rand, Castiglione had violated an agreement, entered into last Aug. 8, which gave him exclusive promotional rights to the boxer's services for five years.

Board Postpones Action.

Because the Veck-Castiglione contract was filed with the commission after the Castiglione-Day match had been closed, the board postponed taking action on the acceptability of the agreement until after the contest is held.

Commissioner Fitzpatrick said the contract was contrary to the commission rules; that the document gives a promoter license to manage a fighter. Triner reminded his colleague that a decision in the case was of vast importance and judgment should be deferred pending legal opinion from the attorney general's office as the contract was similar to those approved in another state. He referred to Promoter Mike Jacobs, who has a number of such agreements with boxers and managers, and the New York athletic commission.

First to Come to His Attention.

Triner said the Veck-Castiglione contract was the first of its kind to come to his attention in the eight years he has been connected with the commission. He made it plain that the procedure should be sanctioned to allow rival promoters to fight Jacobs' monopoly.

Jesse Sagone, better known as Jesse Darcy, manager of Castiglione, signed the Veck contract after inclusion of a stipulation which guaranteed Castiglione $5,000, whether or not Veck promoted a fight for him.

Triner, also president of the National Boxing association, yesterday reminded Billy Conn that his six month period to defend his light heavyweight championship expired on Dec. 5. Failure to sign immediately for a title defense will cause the association to take action against him, Triner said. Triner ordered a reply be made not later than Thursday. If Conn does not comply, the N. B. A. likely will declare his title vacant. An Associated Press dispatch from Pittsburgh last night quoted Johnny Ray, Conn's manager, as stating, "We very likely will give up the title, but haven't yet decided on the date the announcement will be made."

Sonja Henie Offers Tips on Figure Skating

[Sonja Henie, three times Olympic games figure skating champion, movie queen and star of her Hollywood ice revue which opens in the Stadium Thursday night, gives tips on figure skating in this second of a series of excerpts from her recent book.]

BY SONJA HENIE.
[From "Wings on My Feet."]

Let us discuss the skating language. There are several terms you must remember.

The blade's skating surface has two sharp edges, with a hollow between. The edge nearest the body, which rests on ice when the ankle is turned in, is called inside edge. The edge facing away from the body is the outside edge. When you stand on both edges you are on the flat. As you can skate forward and backward, these words describe the direction of edges.

The foot which is skating is employed, as are all parts of the body on the side with this skating foot. The balance foot [off the ice], and its side of the body, are unemployed.

Tracing Is Ice Mark Made by Skate.

Tracing is the ice-mark your skate makes. Lobe or circle is a circular tracing. Start, rest, center, all mean the point where school figure skating begins.

Lace boots loosely from toe to instep, then pull tightly thru five eyelets and knot. Lace loosely to top.

Free skating—dancing on ice—is the part people see at ice shows and exhibitions. It counts 40 per cent in competition.

School figures score 60 per cent. A school figure is a pattern in form of an eight, or eight with extra lobe, which competitors retrace three times.

You never will be able to free skate without gaining the full control of edges which school figures demand.

Burnette and Bolden Draw; Crowd Boos

George Burnette, Detroit middleweight, held Nate Bolden, former intercity Golden Gloves winner, to a 10 round draw in their rubber bout in Marigold Gardens last night. At first Bolden, who won the first meeting and then lost the second, was declared the winner. The 1,057 spectators, who thought Burnette deserved the award, booed so loud and long that Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois Boxing commission checked the score cards.

After several minutes' delay it was announced that an error had been made and Burnette had earned a draw. Triner refused to release the cards. It was reported Referee Johnny Behr scored the match a deadlock and Judge Ed Klein voted for Bolden. Carl Witt, the other judge, was believed to have made the mistake.

Booker Beckwith, former Gary light heavyweight, pounded out a decision over Orlando Trotter in a six round semi-final to score his 10th consecutive victory. Jimmy McCormick, welterweight stablemate of Burnette, conquered Matt Mihilovich, Milwaukee; Jimmy Pierce, 151 pounds, also of Milwaukee, beat Tony Reno, and Richard Rigall, local bantamweight, defeated William Hawkins in matches of four rounds.

DEAR S. CLAUS: MR. BECKER ASKS A WORD WITH YOU

He'd Have You Make Lot of Sportsmen Happy.

Dear Santa Claus:

We know you're going to be a busy man tonight and early tomorrow morning as you make the rounds with your packs, but we do hope you'll put this note in your pocket and take care of the following people: First of all leave a cheery Christmas greeting with our readers and all outdoor fans.

Please give Governor Elect Green a little help on his commission form of conservation department in Illinois. The new governor says he wants such a set up here and all the fishermen and hunters and outdoor fans have been wishing for years for that kind of a conservation department, operated by the most skilled wild life technicians. But the governor may need some help from you to get it. If you can lend a hand I'll wager he and all outdoor fans will be mighty grateful to you.

Give 'Em a Hand, Santa.

And give Ducks Unlimited a bigger and better year in 1941 with at least 25,000 new members who will work hard, contribute the money needed to grow more ducks in the Canadian marshes, and spread the good news about what is being done to maintain the great sport of waterfowl shooting. You know, Santa, more birds came south this fall than duck hunters have seen in many years, thanks to the work of Ducks Unlimited and the weatherman. Honestly, you couldn't give us duck shooters a nicer Christmas present than a bigger and more effective Ducks Unlimited organization in 1941.

Give hunters all the trained retrievers you can spare this Christmas because the use of such dogs means fewer crippled birds lost in field and marsh, and also more fun for the sportsmen. We've been trying for years to get more trained retrievers into the hands of hunters but somehow or other, Santa, we are not making as much progress as we'd like to see. So give us a lift this Christmas. Leave trained dogs in the homes of as many hunters as possible.

Put more weight on the black bass up there in that wild, unnamed lake near Aitken, Minn. We want to go back there next June and catch a lot of 'em, and then put 'em all back. [Santa—this is the only thing we want you to do for us this Christmas. Not much to ask, is it?]

Just One Thing More.

An another thing: Officers of the International Kennel Club of Chicago now are making plans for the annual spring dog show. The finest Christmas present you can give them is an assurance of a bigger entry than they had last year and a bigger crowd to see this big show. Can't you do something about that?

Thanks for your help, Santa.

[Signed] BOB BECKER.

How can you tell LIQUEUR Scotch?

Every drop of Martin's is special "liqueur" Scotch—the label tells you so. And "liqueur" Scotch means the very pick of choice, mellow Scotch whiskies.

Martin's is also 88 proof, instead of the usual 86.8—goes a little farther.

Martin's sells for no more than most brands. Next time, call for it and enjoy Scotch of "liqueur" quality at no extra cost.

FLORIDA'S FISH DON'T CARE HOW MUCH YOU SPEND

Pomp Means Nothing at All to a Pompano.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Palm Beach, Fla., Dec. 23.—While the rest of America is in an 11th hour rush of Christmas shopping, there are a few of us here who can turn our backs on the turmoil, face the Atlantic ocean, and concentrate upon the momentary possibility of a tug on a fish line.

On an 800 foot fishing dock here you can turn your back on more expensive residential property, more social nobility, more exclusiveness, more social ambitions, and more snobbery than probably anywhere else in America. The shore line viewed from the dock—it's really a beautiful sight—includes mansions designed by expensive architects for a display of wealth and lavishly landscaped with exotic tropical and semi-tropical gardening.

Nature's Own Beauties.

In the other direction is nature's offering to the esthetic: the rolling ocean, its shades of green and blue variated by the shadows of small clouds, some white, some light gray and slightly pinked. A pelican drifts in air currents nearby, seldom flapping its wings as it, too, watches for game beneath the waves.

All of this, plus the chance of catching a fish, any of a wide variety of species, is available to we tourist cabin motorists from West Palm Beach on the mainland opposite this fashionable island. You can drive your flivver over a free causeway across Lake Worth or you can ride a ferry for a nickle and then walk across the narrow island.

Admission to the pier, privately owned, is 39 cents, including tax. For 30 cents more you can rent a handline and buy shrimp bait. For $1.04 you're admitted to the pier with a rented rod, reel, and line and furnished with bait.

Air, Sunshine, and Fish.

Like most fishing in these salt waters, you might catch almost anything or, just about as likely, you might catch nothing but the fresh air, the sunshine, and the relaxation that comes with concentration upon the inconsequential. George De Bay, who operates the concession with the owner, Hedley Gillings, said that fighting sharks, 500 pound jewfish, and even the elusive sailfish have been hooked here. Snappers, kingfish, blue runners, mackerel, and pompano are more common.

"You're as likely to meet a millionaire as a truck driver on this pier," De Bay replied to a question about his patronage. "That fellow over there, leaning over the railing, is a retired captain of the Scotch highlanders. I don't know the chap at the end of the pier, but he drives a cheap old car from Indiana.

"The man back there baiting his hook is a Michigan chauffeur on a bus driver's holiday, a vacation tour in his own automobile. A few of the wealthy local colonists fish here with their servants.

"A fish doesn't recognize any social distinctions, and wealth neither contributes to nor detracts from the enjoyment of this sport. Out here, everyday, its 'on earth peace, good will toward men'."

YALE QUINTET MEETS LOYOLA IN COLISEUM

The ablest team to represent Yale university for several years will invade Chicago for a clash with the Loyola Ramblers Friday night as part of a basketball double header at the Coliseum. In the final game on the twin bill De Paul's undefeated Blue Demons, conquerors of the Big Ten champions, Purdue, will meet the Indiana conference winners, the Butler Bulldogs.

Elis Are Veterans.

Yale has a veteran squad this season and in the first two games rolled up 116 points to 72 for their opponents. They scored over 50 points in all except one of their last seven games last year and are continuing at that same tempo again. Capt. Johnny Cobb and Bert Ingley, at forwards, are the outstanding stars of the easterners, with Chuck Seelbach at guard only a shade behind them. Both Ingley and Cobb were selected on several All-Eastern teams last season.

Dietz and Neat Lead Butler.

Butler, which, like Yale, is known as the Bulldogs, will have Capt. Bob Dietz and Lyle Neat at the peak of condition for this battle with De Paul, for the Hoosier lads know that upon these two boys rest their hopes of upsetting the Blue Demons. Bill Hamilton at center also will be counted on heavily by Coach Tony Hinkle to stem the mighty De Paul giants.

CHICAGO BRUINS MEET HAMMOND FIVE TOMORROW

The Chicago Bruins will attempt to get even with the Hammond quintet tomorrow night on the 132d Regiment armory floor, Madison and Rockwell streets, when they meet the Hoosiers for the second time. Hammond's five, headed by Ralph Vaughan, Bob Neu, and Chet Tollstam, handed the Chicagoans their first defeat in the Hammond Civic center Sunday afternoon.

The game will be preceded by a clash between the Richey Grahams of Cicero and the Bronzeville Merchants, both of them members of the Windy City league.

Jay Bozeman Signs for Three Cushion Meet

Jay N. Bozeman of Vallejo, Cal., speediest of all billiard experts, yesterday accepted terms of the National Billiard association to compete in the world three cushion billiards tournament starting in Bensinger's 131 South Wabash avenue recreation on Jan. 13 and continuing thru Feb. 7. The Pacific coast star, who placed third in last year's tournament, had been a holdout along with former world titleholder, Welker Cochran of San Francisco.

Cochran, present 18.2 balkline champion, remains the only star in the field of 18 who hasn't signed a contract, but the N. B. A. expects to receive his entry today.

Layton Hurt in Accident.

The billiard organization yesterday also announced the forced withdrawal of Johnny Layton, former champion. Layton, injured in a street car accident eight days ago, remains in critical condition in Augustana hospital. Edward Lee of New York, undefeated amateur, is expected to take Layton's place. Word from Lee is expected today. If Lee does not compete, one of three other players will be named.

Referees for both the tournament and the title challenge match between Champion Willie Hoppe and Jake Schaefer will be named later this week. The Hoppe-Schaefer clash, which will precede the world tournament, starts in Bensinger's Jan. 6 and continues thru Jan. 9. The match will total 480 points, embracing eight blocks of 60 points each.

Schaefer Meets Chamaco.

Hoppe is doing his preliminary practicing in New York and Philadelphia, while Schaefer is in Chicago and has just completed a four day encounter with Allen Hall. Schaefer's next opponent will be the 1939 world champion, Joe Chamaco, of Mexico. They will meet this week in Bensinger's.

Speediest Cue Star

Jay Bozeman, known as the fastest player in billiards, yesterday entered the world three cushion meet which opens Jan. 13 in Bensinger's 131 South Wabash recreation.

BRADLEY WHIPS WILLIAM & MARY IN 2D HALF, 59 TO 36

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 23 [Special]. — Bradley unleashed a heavy attack in the second half to smother a midget William and Mary basketball team tonight, 59 to 36.

The Braves held a 19 to 13 half time edge but took their cue from Lloyd Bortell as the second half opened to run their lead to 35 to 13 in less than four minutes.

Hawks Get a Yule Gift—a Day of Rest

As a reward for the 3 to 1 victory over the champion Rangers Sunday night, Manager Paul Thompson yesterday granted the Blackhawks a day of rest. It was the Hawks' second straight triumph over the champions in two starts this season.

This afternoon the Hawks leave for a three game trip which has them booked for a return clash with the Rangers in New York tomorrow night, in Montreal against the Canadiens the following night, and in Detroit Sunday. Their homecoming game will be against the Red Wings, and as it is booked for New Year's night, will split the run of Sonja Henie's Hollywood ice revue, which will continue after the Hawks' New Year's night game for four more performances.

According to Trainer Eddie Froelich, the extent of Doug Bentley's injuries when he hit the ice hard after being slashed by Babe Pratt of the Rangers in Sunday's overtime period, was a slightly cut nose and a severe body jolting. Doug will accompany the team on its eastern trip.

Since Cully Dahlstrom still is limping because of the knee injury suffered in the Maple Leaf-Hawks Toronto game a week ago Saturday, and will not be ready for hockey duty until the Hawks-Wings next home game, Manager Thompson was undecided yesterday whether he should take Johnny Gottselig or Bobby Carse on the three game tour. The Hawks' boss inclines to the belief that three games in a row with the wear and tear of traveling, may impair Gottselig's worth for the Hawks' home contests, games which the veteran left wing prefers and in which he excels.

Evashevski to Wed Daughter of Senator Brown

St. Ignace, Mich., Dec. 23 (AP).—United States Senator and Mrs. Prentiss M. Brown today announced the engagement of their daughter Ruth to Forest Evashevski, quarter back and captain of the 1940 University of Michigan football team. The wedding will take place here in the spring, Mrs. Brown said.

Ruth, the second of four daughters in the Brown family, met Evashevski during the summer of 1938 when he worked as a dock hand in the Straits of Mackinac ferry service.

Miss Brown and Evashevski are 22 years old.

KEN OVERLIN IS BACK HOME FOR HOLIDAY VISIT

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 23 [Special].—Kenneth Edwin Overlin, middleweight champion in the states of New York and California, is back home in Decatur for the Christmas holidays.

Ken is recuperating from a heavy cold which attacked him three days before he put his claim to the middleweight title at stake against Steve Belloise for the second time Dec. 13. Overlin expects to meet the winner of the Billy Soose-Tami Murello match, scheduled for Jan. 3 in New York, sometime next summer.

"I'm tired; I've fought 101 rounds since beating Ceferino Garcia for the crown," he said.

American Giants' Park Is Damaged by Flames

Fire believed to have been started by prowlers last night did about $2,000 damage to a portion of the wooden grandstands of the American Giants' ball park at Pershing road and Princeton avenue. Prior to 1910 the park was used by the White Sox. Deputy Chief Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney estimated the damage.

"Defrost Your Beer if you want to enjoy its honest flavor"

50°

Use an ordinary food thermometer such as you can get at a ten-cent store.

Richard Seibold,
MEISTER BRÄU BREWMASTER

● Ask for Meister Bräu Draft Beer. Bars take special care to serve it at the proper temperature.

HOW TO MAKE THE "50-DEGREES" TEST
Which has swung thousands to the all-grain flavor of Meister Bräu

Take a bottle of Meister Bräu and one of any other beer at average refrigerator temperature. Let stand until it's the proper temperature. Then open and compare flavor. Use an ordinary food thermometer such as you can get at a ten-cent store.

The "50-DEGREES" Test Reveals Beer Flavor—Good or Bad

Shows you why we won't add sugars or syrups

THE colder some drinks are the better. But beer is different. A lot of people don't seem to know that. I see them drinking beer so cold they can't possibly taste its true flavor.

If you want to know how a beer really tastes, drink it like experts do—at 50 degrees. That's where true beer flavor shows up—good or bad. A lot of people already know this old brewer's secret of how to taste and compare beer flavor. And these are the people we make our beer to suit.

We could add sugars or syrups to the brew. But we'll never do it. We bottle with only natural draft beer carbonation created in the brew itself so Meister Bräu is naturally lively and sparkling, smooth and mellow.

Do the "50-Degrees" Test. Then you'll get full enjoyment from beer flavor. And you'll find out why thousands prefer Meister Bräu.

Phone your retailer for Meister Bräu and compare it with any beer—regardless of price. I'll stake my reputation on your verdict.

INT. HARVESTER TO ENLARGE ITS STEEL CAPACITY

Plans 2 Wisconsin Works Furnaces.

Plans for expanding the facilities of the Wisconsin Steel works of the International Harvester company in the Chicago steel district with the addition of two new open hearth furnaces were announced yesterday by Sidney G. McAllister, president. The furnaces, together with auxiliary equipment, will cost approximately $1,500,000.

S. G. McAllister.

McAllister said that the increased facilities were needed to even up production between the originating and finishing mill capacities of the works. Construction of the new furnaces will begin immediately, with completion scheduled for the end of 1941.

The two new furnaces will raise the present annual capacity of the works from 480,000 gross tons of finished steel to approximately 580,000 gross tons, an increase of about 20 per cent.

Install New Equipment.

As auxiliary equipment, the company will install a ladle crane, a charging machine and a new soaking pit. The Wisconsin Steel works at present has nine open hearth furnaces.

International Harvester takes 50 per cent of the finished steel from the Wisconsin works for its own production of farm implements, tractors, motor trucks and other machinery products. The remainder of the steel produced goes to other manufacturers whose demands for finished steel have increased because of the defense program. The Wisconsin Steel works has been operating at full capacity, with about 4,500 persons being employed.

Freight Car Maker to Expand.

Other business news included disclosure that General American Transportation corporation is negotiating to expand its Masury, O., tank car works by purchasing a large part of the plant and equipment of Petroleum Iron Works company. The plants adjoin each other. General American, which builds, leases and repairs freight cars, has its general office in Chicago.

It was understood that Petroleum Iron Works will retain only its steel barrel manufacturing facilities.

At Toledo, O., Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., announced that its plant will resume production Dec. 30. The company announced also that machinery to be used for filling national defense orders arrived at the plant and will be ready for use within a few weeks.

Army Buys Trucks.

A $31,718,137 contract for trucks was awarded by the war department to Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing company, Pontiac, Mich. Corbitt company, Henderson, N. C., received a $1,460,000 truck order, and Mack-International Motor Truck corporation received a $759,200 order.

Award of a $1,596,300 contract to Leslie Colvin, Indianapolis, Ind., for construction of a 1,000 bed hospital at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, was also announced by the war department. A $1,062,876 contract for a 750 bed hospital at Santa Barbara, Cal., was let to Baruch corporation, Los Angeles, Cal.

A Chicago contractor, Leonard Construction company, was awarded a $4,224,000 navy contract for housing facilities at Coco Solo and Balboa, Canal Zone. The project covers 1,400 housing units for enlisted and civilian personnel.

The department of the interior announced that a $124,237 contract for 350 miles of hollow copper cable had been awarded to the Anaconda Wire and Cable company for a transmission line to supply power from the Elephant Butte power plant on the Rio Grande reclamation project to southwestern New Mexico.

15 Millions Put in New Chicago Area Factories

More than $15,000,000 of capital has been invested in plant additions, factory expansions or new plants in the Chicago area during the last 30 days, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday.

Twenty-four companies already established in the city and one newcomer accounted for the 30 day total, one of the largest ever recorded in this area in a month's time, according to the survey.

Phone Project Largest.

The largest project in the list was the new $3,900,000 dial exchange of the Illinois Bell Telephone company in the Rogers Park district.

Foote Brothers Gear and Machine corporation is investing $1,020,000 in a plant which it recently purchased from Central Steel and Wire company. The factory is being reconditioned and retooled to produce gears for companies making aircraft engines for the navy.

Precision Grinder company's $35,000 plant being built at 1520 North Freemont avenue is Chicago's latest factory acquisition. Grinding and screw machine work will be done at the plant.

Expand Ingersoll Plant.

A $75,000 unit is being added by the Ingersoll Steel and Disc division of Borg-Warner corporation in the West Pullman district in connection with production under the national defense program.

About $135,000 is being invested by Boyar-Schultz corporation, maker of tools and dies, in new machinery and plant additions. Central Steel and Wire company is spending $500,000 for a warehouse and for cranes, and Owens-Illinois Can company is doubling the capacity of its Clearing plant at a cost of $450,000.

CHECK BUSINESS EXCEEDED ONLY ONCE THIS YEAR

More money was withdrawn from bank checking accounts during the week ended Dec. 18 in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district than in any week this year except the week ended April 3 when personal property taxes were paid, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday.

Check transactions last week involved $1,624,109,000, against $1,281,575,000 reported a week earlier by 158 banks in 41 clearing house cities, and $1,629,898,000 in the corresponding week in 1939.

Total debits during the 13 weeks ended Dec. 18 amounted to $17,454,805,000 against $15,821,431,000 in the corresponding period last year.

Business done by check in Chicago was $919,082,000, compared with $991,388,000 a year earlier.

The federal reserve board said that check transactions in banks of 274 large cities in the week ended Dec. 18 totaled $11,824,000,000, compared with $9,190,000,000 the preceding week and $10,923,000,000 a year ago.

COURT HOLDS 550 PHONE CALLS IS TOO MUCH TO ASK

The Appellate court yesterday reversed a judgment of $799 awarded in the Municipal court to Mrs. Stella Strassberg and M. Lewis against the brokerage houses of Lamborn, Hutchings & Co., and A. G. and C. G. Troup, thru their agent, Henry White. The decision took into consideration the item of telephone calls.

In the original suit Mrs. Strassberg and Lewis complained that they suffered financial losses thru the fluctuation of corn prices on Aug. 2, 1937. They asserted that their agent had agreed to telephone them of every one-eighth cent fluctuation, but that he did not do so and the losses resulted.

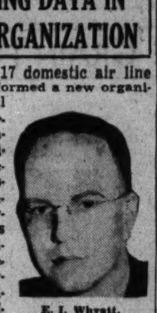
The Appellate court pointed out that if a broker had tried to notify a client of every one-eighth cent fluctuation on Aug. 2, 1937, he would have had to make 550 phone calls. This, it held, made the arrangement "unreasonable."

Senate Confirms Splawn Renomination to I. C. C.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23 (AP).—The senate confirmed today the renomination of Walter M. W. Splawn to be a member of the Interstate Commerce commission.

AIR LINES WILL POOL ACCOUNTING DATA IN NEW ORGANIZATION

The country's 17 domestic air line companies have formed a new organization which will serve as a clearing house for information on financial and accounting questions, it was announced yesterday. Known as the Airlines Finance and Accounting conference, the organization will be affiliated with the Air Transport Association of America.



E. I. Whyatt.

Officers of the new air line group are E. I. Whyatt, secretary treasurer of Northwest Airlines, Inc., president; E. Lee Talman, vice president and treasurer of Transcontinental and Western Air, first vice president; Amos Culbert, vice president and treasurer of Chicago and Southern Air Lines, Inc., second vice president, and Fowler Barker, of the Air Transport association, secretary and treasurer.

Whyatt said the group also will represent the Pan American Airways and the Trans-Canada Airlines, in addition to the domestic air lines.

Brokers Brush Away Cares at Yule Parties

The Christmas spirit prevailed yesterday in La Salle street. Stock and commodity brokers and their thousands of employés who the day before had grumbled over the diminishing volume of business which is their livelihood, cast aside their cares before the cheering influence of holiday celebrations in the many offices.

The "composite broker" was glum the day before but happy yesterday.

As usual, the sparkling lights of a big tree in the center window of the Board of Trade caught the admiring attention of thousands of passers-by. Nine hundred members of the Chicago Stock exchange, their employés and office workers flocked to the exchange trading floor during the afternoon for sandwiches and beer.

Musicians Set Tempo.

Four strolling musicians set the tempo for the singing of Christmas carols at the stock exchange. The brokers forgot that business was not good; forgot that New York Stock exchange memberships have recently sold at the lowest price in 45 years.

Behind the lights at the Board of Trade, the grain men brushed aside the state of their business, evidenced by the fact that memberships a few days ago sunk to the lowest level in 41 years. And the holiday spirit will be given new impetus today when the Board of Trade Glee club sings carols in the building lobby and from the fifth floor balcony.

Large Christmas trees stood in the lobbies of most of the banks, their walls decorated by wreaths of holly. Many bank employés gathered for office celebrations, and others will have their parties today.

Apples—and Other Parties.

Continuing his long holiday custom, Mark A. Brown, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, today will hand large red apples to all of the 700 employés. In the early afternon, 50 of the bank's page girls and 30 men employés will sing Christmas carols from the balcony overlooking the bank floor.

At the City National Bank and Trust company, a chorus of 35 members and an organist entertained. They will repeat their Christmas music this afternoon. Carol music is being provided at the Northern Trust company by a 50 voice choir directed by Harry S. Walsh, who directs the Northerners in their W-G-N radio program each Tuesday. The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company held a Christmas party for the children of bank employés.

GRAIN MARKETS TURN DULL AS HOLIDAY NEARS

Preholiday dullness kept changes in grain prices small on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. A small decline in wheat and corn early on scattered selling was followed by a slow advance which lifted the price of both grains slightly above the closing prices on Saturday.

Final sales were about the top with gains of ¼ to ¾ cent a bushel on wheat and ⅛ to ¼ cent on corn. Oats and rye futures hardly moved. Soy beans gained ⅝ to 1⅛ cents for the day.

BARE GASOLINE PUMP MONOPOLY PROBE BY JURY

Quiz Disclosed in Suit Over Firm's Books.

A federal grand jury investigation into the gasoline pump manufacturing industry was disclosed yesterday when an attorney for the Wayne Pump company, Fort Wayne, Ind., appeared before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward and asked that a grand jury subpoena calling for the company's records be quashed.

The action of the attorney, Charles L. Byron, was the first indication that possible monopolies in that industry are being probed by federal authorities.

Plea Denied by Judge.

Byron objected to the summons on the ground that it was "too sweeping—it asks for too much." Licensing agreement records of the company from Jan. 1, 1932, to November, 1940, were demanded, Byron stated, as well as minutes of the directors' meetings and correspondence with other manufacturers.

When Assistant United States Attorney General Daniel B. Britt objected to the motion on the ground that the material already had been turned over to the jury and argument was useless, Judge Woodward denied Byron's plea.

Holds Basic Patent Rights.

The company holds the basic patent rights on the computing gasoline pump, which registers the amount to be charged a customer automatically as it registers the amount of gasoline sold. The license rights to manufacture the pumps are sold to 30 other companies, also named in the summons. The only other name disclosed was that of the Gasoline Pump Manufacturers' Association of New York.

Attorney Byron then moved that the grand jury be informed of the law under which a patent owner may set the minimum selling price of an article manufactured under his patent. Britt again objected, arguing that a defendant has no right to ask that instructions be given a grand jury. Judge Woodward took the motion under advisement.

N.Carolina Tax on Out of State Retailer Killed

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23 (AP).—A North Carolina tax against out-of-state retailers displaying goods or samples there to obtain orders was held unconstitutional by the Supreme court today on the ground that it discriminated against interstate commerce.

"The freedom of commerce which allows the merchants of each state a regional or national market for their goods is not to be fettered by legislation, the actual effect of which is to discriminate in favor of intrastate business," said the unanimous decision written by Justice Stanley F. Reed.

Aimed at Out-of-State Firms.

The North Carolina tax, enacted in 1937, required out-of-state merchants displaying their wares in hotel rooms or other temporary locations to obtain a yearly license and pay a flat $250 assessment in advance. It was attacked by Best & Co., New York department store.

At the same time the court reaffirmed its 5 to 4 decision of last week upholding a Wisconsin tax of 2½ per cent on dividends of out-of-state corporations doing business there, the tax being levied against that part of the dividends attributed to the earnings from the Wisconsin operations.

The court upheld the tax last week in cases involving the J. C. Penney company and the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing company. Today it reversed a Wisconsin Supreme court decision which had held the tax unconstitutional in the case of the F. W. Woolworth company.

Will Review Music Case.

The court also agreed to determine the constitutionality of Florida laws affecting the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, indicating it would consider the Florida case along with one involving a Nebraska antimonopoly statute which it agreed last week to review. The date for argument has not yet been fixed.

The court refused to review a decision holding unconstitutional a state of Washington excise tax on petroleum products, saying "the judgment of the court below rests upon a non-federal ground adequate to support it."

The state appealed from the state Supreme court, which held that the law, imposing a tax of one-quarter cent on each gallon distributed, discriminated between users of petroleum products and users of hard fuels.

ARMS MAY CURB 1941 OUTPUT OF PRIVATE AUTOS

Keller Cites Shift to Aid Defense.

A warning that automobile production in 1941 may be affected by the manufacture of defense materials was given in Detroit yesterday by K. T. Keller, president of the the Chrysler corporation. He expressed the hope, however, that a "reasonable" volume of domestic production can be maintained.

K. T. Keller.

Keller's warning followed the recent statement of W. S. Knudsen, member of the national defense commission, before the National Association of Manufacturers that industry could not carry on as usual during the defense building period.

"The automobile industry in 1940 will complete one of its best years, with sales during the fall months higher than for any other fall period in its history," Keller said.

Value Set at 2 Billion.

"The wholesale value of 1940 sales will probably exceed 2 billion dollars, of which practically 10 per cent will be paid out in manufacturers and excise taxes."

[It is expected that 1940 automobile and truck production may reach 4,650,000 units. Retail sales of new passenger cars for November were estimated at 390,000 and for this month at 375,000.]

"Looking forward to 1941, we must expect that the production of defense materials, which are of such vital importance to every one in this country will quite likely affect the volume of new passenger car and truck production for domestic use."

Keller said that it is important that domestic production be maintained at as high a level as possible because so many persons depend for their livelihood, directly or indirectly, on the automobile business.

Active in Defense work.

"The Chrysler corporation, along with many other motor car manufacturers, is actively engaged in the preparation of a very large amount of defense work," Keller said. "The full effect of this work has not yet become evident because to date it has been primarily in the preparatory stages.

"Modern defense requires such a high degree of mechanical precision that the tools necessary for its manufacture must in many cases be of special design and be extremely accurate. At present the main load of defense manufacture is on the machine tool and tool making plants, both inside and outside the automobile industry. As this equipment becomes available for production, however, the responsibility will be switched to the producers of defense materials."

Asks Steady Employment.

Keller said that, while there will be plenty of work in the national defense program for those engaged in the manufacturing industries, every effort should be made to avoid temporary unemployment of large numbers of persons during the transition from domestic to defense work.

A considerable part of the recent vast volume of automobile sales has been attributed to buyers seeking to anticipate a reduced production on account of defense demands. The sharp rise in sales has resulted in an increase in the supply of used cars in dealers' hands, but these cars are expected to be moved speedily should new car production be curtailed.

NATIONAL SALES FINANCE GROUP TO BE DISSOLVED

The National Association of Sales Finance Companies, with headquarters in Chicago, will be dissolved as of Dec. 31, in accord with the vote of members and directors, Milan V. Ayres, secretary, announced yesterday.

Duplication to a large extent of the same field covered by the American Finance conference was given as the principal reason for the action, which follows by a few months withdrawal of General Motors Acceptance corporation from membership.

The National association was organized in 1924 by both the independent and "factory" finance companies to set up standards of practice for the business, combat objectionable legislation and foster desirable legislation, and furnish its members and the public with statistical, legal, and other information.

Cities Service Ruled Subject to Holding Act

Washington, D. C., Dec. 23 (AP).—The Cities Service company was held subject to the public utility holding company act by the Securities and Exchange commission today, raising the prospect that the company might have to split up its vast petroleum and utility interests into separate organizations.

Cities Service, which has voting power in 110 corporations with more than $1,150,000,000 of assets, had applied for exemption from the act, but the commission denied the application in an order effective Jan. 16.

The company had asked exemption on the ground that it was only incidentally interested in and did not derive a material part of its income from utility interests, since its main business concerned petroleum and petroleum products.

Handicaps Are Claimed.

Cities Service told the commission that registering under the holding company act and being obliged to submit all of its operations to the close control exercised by the SEC over utility companies would handicap it in competition with other petroleum companies which were not subject to the regulations.

[In its efforts to avoid regulation under the holding company act, Cities Service in July, 1939, turned over control of its big utility system to two Chicago banks. The Harris Trust and Savings bank was named trustee for all common stock and most of the preferred stock of Cities Service Power and Light company. City National Bank and Trust company was named trustee of stocks of three natural gas distributing subsidiaries.]

The commission called attention to the fact that under the law it would be necessary to determine whether Cities Service could retain both its utility and oil subsidiaries under the "death sentence" section of the holding company act.

Provides Geographical Grouping.

That section calls for geographical integration and permits utilities to have nonutility business only when they are found to be "reasonably incidental, or economically necessary or appropriate to the operations" of the utility setup.

"If it is not so found," the SEC declared, "then applicant [Cities Service] will be required to dispose of its interest in those businesses if it is to remain a public utility holding company."

Describing Cities Service as involving one of the most important utility holding company systems in the country, the commission noted that "for many years it has controled a far flung utility empire with assets valued at more than $400,000,000, with operations in more than 20 states and Canada."

Cites "Upstream Loans."

The SEC added: "The record before us indicates an indulgence in practices explicitly condemned by congress, such as pyramiding upstream loans, and writeups which in some instances have exceeded 100 per cent."

The opinion said that Cities Service company had received more than 11 per cent of its total cash income from utility companies during the five years ending Dec. 31, 1938.

The bulk of the utility companies in the system are subsidiaries in the Cities Service Power & Light system, a registered holding company in which Cities Service company has a large interest.

HOG PRICES RISE 35 CENTS IN BEST ADVANCE OF YEAR

The sharpest advance of the year occurred in the market for hogs yesterday, simultaneously with the government's announcement that the 1940 fall pig crop showed a decrease compared with a year ago.

Final sales were 35 to 40 cents highest level in 10 weeks. The day's average jumped 30 cents, to $6.50, equaling the highest average since Sept. 11.

Buyers scrambled for steers and yearlings, paying strong to 25 cents higher prices. Lambs sold at 35 to 50 cents higher prices.

Pigs farrowed on farms in the United States during the fall season numbered about 12.5 per cent fewer than during the fall season of 1939, totaling 28,587,000, the department of agriculture estimated. The number of sows expected to farrow during the spring season of 1941 was placed 14 per cent below the number that farrowed in the spring of 1940, at 6,938,000.

KNUDSEN ASKED TO CLARIFY HIS 'URGENCY' PLEA

Prentis Seeks Facts on Defense.

Lancaster, Pa., Dec. 23 (AP).—H. W. Prentis Jr., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, called on the National Defense commission tonight to define the term, "terrible urgency," in terms of production needs.

Until William S. Knudsen of the commission appeared before the manufacturers at their New York convention on Dec. 14 and told them defense production was lagging, industrial leaders had had no reason to believe, Prentis said, that the government was dissatisfied with the production rate.

Prentis said that overnight there was injected the word "urgent" into the defense setup, which had been described to industry in June as being "'business as usual' plus defense."

Urged to Tell Country Facts.

"One thing the commission can do is to tell the country what this 'terrible urgency' means in terms of production needs," Prentis said. "Does it mean literally 'all out' production, with industry working its machines thru a 24 hour day, 7 day week?"

Knudsen, he said, had asked industry to do what was "frankly termed 'the impossible.'"

"And let me add,' he said, "that industry will do the impossible."

"Does getting rid of the 'Friday night blackout' lie entirely within the power of industrial management?" Prentiss asked. "Are more machines or more men needed? Are enough skilled men available?

[Knudsen said in his speech, "Friday night has become the big night in most of our industrial picture. Can't we stop this blackout, this lack of production from Friday to Monday, and get more out of the equipment?"]

Overtime Raises Costs.

"Will the government readjust contracts to provide for the unforseen costs involved in time and a half or double time pay for overtime and will the public relish paying hundreds of millions more to speed up defense contracts already let?

"Has the government, and particularly the commission, changed its mind about maintaining 'business as usual?'

"Has the 'terrible urgency' scrapped the idea of superimposing defense production on top of our production for normal domestic needs, or protecting all gains, of demanding no sacrifices?"

Prentis said he believed that both labor and industry were "eager to face their share of these problems realistically with the greatest good for the country's defense the one and only consideration."

"Neither group needs control, or more regulation to accomplish this task," he said. "They need only to be told frankly the measure of the full task expected of them, stated as government alone, with the foreign policy of the nation in its hands, can state it."

Terms Encouragement Vital.

Prentis asserted that "if this nation and the civilization of our time are to be saved," every advantage, encouragement, and opportunity to proceed intelligently must be given to men, management, and capital engaged in American industry.

"This is no time for private quarrels, double talking, the seeking of special advantages, or jockeying for favored position," he said. "This is a time for truth and teamwork."

He said that capital and labor, working as industry, has geared themselves to defense in quick time. He enumerated what had been accomplished, but added "no matter how good the past, the future is what really counts."

BREWSTER AERO CONTRACT BANS 4 TYPES OF STRIKE

Newark, N. J., Dec. 23 (AP).—A contract banning four types of strike and providing employé benefits for 6,000 workers was signed today by James Work, chairman of the Brewster Aeronautical corporation, and R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers of America [C. I. O.].

Work termed the one year agreement "a splendid example of the democratic system."

The contract outlaws slowdown, sympathy, sitdown, or stay-in strikes and provides a closed shop, a minimum wage of 62 cents an hour, and vacation benefits. It is effective in the company's three plants in New York and New Jersey.

STOCKS CONTINUE NARROW TREND; AVERAGES FIRM

Tax Selling Again Blamed for Market Lethargy.

New York, Dec. 23 (AP).—Speculative spirits were further dampened today as the stock market for the eighth consecutive session failed to register progress on balance.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 43. The last time this composite held a plus sign was on Dec. 13. Since then the drift has generally been downward.

Year-end tax selling, especially in a number of low priced issues which contributed a large portion of the day's volume, continued to receive the principal blame for buying apathy. The market received scant inspiration from business or war news.

New York Shipbuilding edged into new high ground for the year, but backed away for a minor net decline.

Losers included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, United States Rubber, Goodyear, Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, United Aircraft, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, Anaconda, Kennecott, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Westinghouse Electric, Consolidated Edison, and Western Union.

Tokio Prices Fall.

TOKIO, Dec. 23 [Special].—Stocks recorded one of the steepest declines in months on the Tokio exchange today. Heavy industry stocks such as steel and dockyards issues declined 2 to 7 yen and other issues fell as much as 3 yen. [The yen is quoted at 23.48 cents.]

The economic newspaper Chugai Shogyo attributed the market pessimism to Saturday's statement of a German foreign office spokesman regarding Britain's request for ships of her enemies docked in United States ports.

Chicago Stocks.

Price declines outnumbered advances on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Montgomery Ward dipped 1 point to close at 35⅝. The day's turnover was 31,000 shares, compared with 15,000 Saturday and 34,000 on Friday.

New York Bonds.

New York, Dec. 23 (AP).—Corporate bond quotations moved irregularly lower today. The day's transactions totaled only $7,904,000, face value, compared with $9,475,150 Friday.

Steadiest of all were United States government obligations, most of which marked up gains running to 8-32 point. The treasury 3s of '46-'48, however, dropped 14-32.

Denmark 6s ran counter to the trend in the foreign government dollar loan list by jumping 5 points to 35¼ on the transfer of four bonds. Other foreign loans almost uniformly fell from minor fractions to more than a point.

Bank Stocks.

Northern Trust shares advanced 6 points yesterday in Chicago bank stock trading. First National gained a point and Continental Illinois half a point. Chicago Title declined 3 points and La Salle National 2 points.

Good Fellows Spread Christmas Cheer Among Chicago's Needy—15,000 Children Share in Distribution

When Good Fellows spread cheer thruout Chicago. Miss Geraldine Pate, J. Wesley Jones (center), and the Rev. Joseph Evans carrying boxes and packages into south side home yesterday during 32d annual Tribune Good Fellow distribution. More than 12,000 contributed to the campaign this year.

Virginia, age 8, admiring doll and other toys given her by Good Fellows yesterday. She was one of 15,000 children to receive gifts thru distribution. (Story on page 1.)

Typical faces lighted up by the cheer distributed by the Good Fellows as they visited thousands of homes. More families were cared for than in any other recent year. Thousands of Good Fellows tramped up back stairs and delivered the Christmas joy in person.
